Apprenticeships pay you to train in skilled and sought-after professions where you'll gain expertise in your field to prepare for a lasting career. What are you waiting for?

Why Apprenticeship?

The Transportation & Logistics sector directly influences the nation's quality of life. It is so important that it can only be trusted with quality trained employees. A DOL apprenticeship is the best way for military to transition into one of these careers.

Each Registered Apprenticeship is approved by the U.S. Department of Labor (DOL) and is a paid job that focuses on training you to become an expert in the civilian marketplace. On-the-job, focused training allows the best candidates to become masters of their crafts in a wide variety of careers across the country, including opportunities in management and IT to technician and CDL driver positions. Job seekers can benefit from apprenticeship because it is considered the "gold standard" for talent development.

- CDL Truck Drivers
  - A Commercial Driver's License is required for most apprenticeships, and our training providers will help you get pre-apprenticeship certification. Those with military driving experience should take advantage of the CDL Military Skills Test Waiver to obtain their CDL quickly.

- Mechanics
  - Diesel Mechanics, Auto Mechanics, and Industrial Truck Mechanics often identify and fix automotive problems with computers, they work directly on the vehicles as well to ensure they operate at the highest safety standards.

- Office and Management
  - We offer apprenticeships for Logistics Engineers and Transportation Management Coordinators for those who are ready to use their supply chain and logistics background to support and improve the transportation industry.
Don (E4 Army and E5 Navy Veteran) served his country in the National Guard and active duty for 9 years during turbulent times for the US military in the Middle East. He was deployed to Iraq, Qatar, and Djibouti, Africa. Rebekah joined the Army National Guard in 2013 (now an E4 Specialist) to serve her country and carry on the traditions Veterans before her.

In 2015, Don and Rebekah married and completed CDL training and their DOL-approved Registered Apprenticeship program using their GI Bill benefits and hit the road together.

Both Don and Rebekah can see every day how their military training prepared them for their civilian career, particularly the discipline, attention to detail, and the importance of following directions that was instilled in them.

After their apprenticeship, their new goal is to continue to better themselves both as a people and as drivers, and they encourage other veterans to follow their lead and utilize their GI Bill benefits to enhance their careers as well.
