The contents of this book are not provided for purposes of giving legal advice to the reader. The contents are for informational purposes only, and the Office of the Illinois Attorney General does not assume responsibility for the accuracy or veracity of the reports or studies summarized herein, nor does this publication represent a legal opinion of the Office. The purpose of this publication is to provoke thoughtful analysis by veterans who are involved in pursuing benefits before the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs, the Illinois Department of Veterans’ Affairs, or any other federal or state agency that administers any type of veteran benefit or right. Cautionary messages, questions, legal cases, and pitfalls presented in this book are not the only legal issues to be considered. Reading this book is a good beginning, but veteran service officers of the various veteran organizations are the best source of assistance in making an informed decision about obtaining veteran benefits and in learning about changes in veteran law. The final authority on veteran rights is the agency administering the benefits sought and, in the case of benefits administered by the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs.

INTRODUCTION

This edition of the Benefits for Illinois Veterans handbook has been revised and reformatted. The handbook is now available both online and in print. The online version contains hyperlinks to Internet sites and to topics within the book. Those reading the printed version will note that there are words and phrases that are underlined. These underlined words and phrases will appear in blue when viewing the online version. The blue underline means that the word or phrase is hyperlinked. We have done this because more and more veterans are viewing our online version. Hyperlinking to Internet sites and within the book makes it much easier for the reader to research the various topics discussed.

The reader will also note that the word veteran is used throughout the book. This should be taken by the reader to mean veterans, veterans’ dependents, and other interested parties such as advocates. Because this book is addressed mostly to veterans and the benefits discussed in the book were earned by veterans through their service to our nation, we thought it appropriate to use the word veteran in those places where the information being discussed would be applicable to veterans, dependents, survivors, and advocates.

Those who have had previous versions of Benefits for Illinois Veterans will find that this book lacks several chapters found in previous editions. We wanted to print the book in a larger type for ease of reading. We also wanted to have a more in-depth examination of the benefits discussed. Should you have suggestions or comments on the new format, please do not hesitate to contact our office. Please send any comments to:

CHAPTER ONE: ELIGIBILITY FOR BENEFITS
A. Introduction to Eligibility for Benefits

Generally, there are two parts to determining a veteran’s right to a benefit: eligibility and entitlement. Eligibility is established by meeting certain military service criteria. Once the military service criteria are met, the veteran must then meet entitlement criteria. Entitlement criteria depend upon the benefit sought and the current circumstance of the person applying for the benefit.

The purpose of this chapter is to discuss how the United States Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) and Illinois Department of Veterans’ Affairs (IDVA) establish eligibility for and entitlement to benefits. This process is the cause of much consternation for veterans who do not understand it. Reading this chapter will give veterans a better understanding of how the VA and IDVA decide a claim for benefits.

B. Federal Benefits (VA)

1. Eligibility and Entitlement

The veteran must be both eligible and entitled to receive benefits. Eligibility means that the applicant meets specific service requirements (e.g., The veteran received an honorable discharge and served a specific length of time within one of the branches of the military.). Being entitled to a benefit means meeting certain personal requirements (e.g., The individual or family earned income is below a certain level and a veteran’s disability is service-connected at a specific percentage). Both service requirements and personal requirements are established by the Congress and VA regulation.

2. Determining Eligibility—A Three Step Process (Requirements Based On Military Service)

Type of Discharge

Service dates and type of discharge are the easiest criteria to check. All the information the veteran needs is on the United States Department of Defense Form 214 (DD 214, “Certificate of Release or Discharge from Active Duty”) or other discharge papers. The first eligibility requirement for VA benefits is a discharge or release from service under “other than dishonorable conditions.” This means the discharge must be one of the following:

* Honorable Discharge
* General Discharge (under honorable conditions)
* Hardship Discharge
* Medical Discharge
“Bad paper” discharges (i.e., Dishonorable, Bad Conduct, Undesirable, and “other than honorable” discharges) are usually a bar to all veterans benefits. Many veterans who have accepted a less than honorable discharge were either told or led to believe that it would be automatically upgraded after six months. This was especially true during the Vietnam era. However, this is a myth and is false. The only way to get a discharge upgraded is to apply for an upgrade.

Type of Service

Eligibility for most benefits requires “active duty.” The Armed Forces of the United States comprise the active component and the Reserve Component. Service members and veterans of both components may have “active duty” service. The simplest case is those who have served in the active component. They have all served on “active duty.” Service in the Reserve Component1 (which includes the National Guard) today often, but not always, includes “active duty” service. Basic, minimal service in the Reserve Component (Inactive Duty for Training [IDT], annual training, etc.) even when such service includes extended periods of “Active Duty for Training,” does not meet the requirement for active duty. However, those who serve on active duty with the National Guard or Reserves are considered to be on “active duty.” In recent years, various units and individual service members of the Reserve Component have been called up to active duty with increased frequency, typically for overseas deployments, particularly in light of the Global War Against Terror. These activations are considered active duty service.

Nevertheless, the time requirements for certain benefits still apply. For details on circumstances that make members of the Reserve Component (Reservists and National Guardsmen) eligible for benefits, see “Exceptions and Limitations” and “Death While on Active Duty” later on in this chapter.

Length of Service

A specified minimum length of service is an eligibility requirement for all benefits. The length of time varies depending upon the veteran’s dates of service and the benefit.

Veterans Who Enlisted On or After September 7, 1980: The veterans must complete the shorter of: (1) 24 continuous months of active duty; or (2) the full period for which a person was called or ordered to active duty to be eligible for any VA benefit, unless released for a service-connected disability. The VA’s eligibility criteria are found at 38 CFR § 3.12a - Minimum active-duty service requirement.

Veterans Who Were In Service Before September 8, 1980: These veterans must complete varying minimum lengths of active duty service to be eligible for different benefits. For example, to be eligible for medical benefits, the minimum length of active duty service for any veteran is one day. Eligibility for a G.I. loan requires a minimum length of service. For a Vietnam era veteran, 90 days is required. Eligibility for other benefits may require a minimum of 12 months or more.

1 The Reserve Component consists of the Army National Guard of the United States, the Army Reserve, the Naval Reserve, the Marine Corps Reserve, the Air National Guard of the United States, the Air Force Reserve, and the Coast Guard Reserve. 10 U.S.C. §10101.
3. Service-Connected and Non-Service-Connected Disability

Service-Connected Disability

“Service-connected” is a key term in determining eligibility for disability compensation as well as for medical and other benefits. Service-connected means that the VA has recognized that the veteran’s disability occurred or had its origins while on active duty and was not the result of willful misconduct.

Tip: If you are currently on active duty, including service with the Reserve Component (National Guard and the federal Reserves), you should report and seek treatment for any wound, injury, or other medical condition that occurs or is aggravated while on active duty. You should also obtain a copy of all examination and treatment records. When you are released from active duty or active duty for training (including weekend drill), you should file a claim for service-connection with the VA.

Being service-connected is becoming more important every year, especially in the area of medical care. Service-connected veterans have a higher priority in receiving medical treatment. Veterans who are service-connected are also eligible for more benefits than veterans who are not service-connected. Many times length of service requirements are waived for service-connected veterans. Veterans whose service-connected disabilities are rated at 30% or more may be eligible for additional allowances for dependents, including spouse. In addition, dependents or survivors of 100% service-connected veterans may be eligible for health care, educational, and many other benefits such as military base commissary and exchange privilege.

Tip: Veterans who experience a medical or psychiatric condition shortly after discharge and believe the condition is the result of military service should contact a VA regional office to file a claim or go to a VA medical center for treatment. If this is not practical, a private physician should be consulted and a copy of all medical records should be kept. The veteran should submit the medical records along with a claim to the VA to apply for service connection of that condition and retain the records for possible future use in proving service connection.

Death While on Active Duty

If an individual dies while on active duty or as a result of active duty (including members of the National Guard and federal Reserves who die while attending a scheduled drill or on active duty for training or as a result of such drill or training), his or her surviving spouse and/or dependents become eligible for death benefits such as compensation, educational assistance, health care, commissary, and base exchange privileges.

Non-Service-Connected Disability

Non-service-connected is defined as any condition that is not directly traceable to military service or to a service-connected disability.
4. Special Requirements Based On Present Circumstances

By “present circumstances,” the VA means the circumstances at the time of application for a benefit. In many cases, the VA will expect the veteran or dependent to provide documentary proof that the special requirements are met. Some examples of special requirements are:

Current Financial Situation
Income below a minimum level prescribed by law is an eligibility requirement for non-service-connected health care, non-service-connected disability pension, and other benefits. Conversely, a good credit record and ability to repay are requirements to obtain a VA guaranteed home loan.

Current Health Situation
Eligibility for health care requires that the VA recognize the veteran’s condition as one requiring treatment. Compensation or pension requires a determination as to the degree a disability is disabling (i.e., preventing the veteran from pursuing gainful employment).

Current Employment Situation
The veteran must be unemployed between certain dates to be eligible for unemployment compensation. Members of the Reserve Component (National Guard or Reservists) or members who are returning from active duty have re-employment rights.

Current Status of Survivors and Dependents
Surviving spouses of deceased veterans must not have remarried and dependents must meet age and dependency requirements.

Current VA Approval of Education or Training Institutions
Eligibility for educational assistance requires that the institution in which the veteran enrolls be currently approved by the VA.

5. Exceptions and Limitations

VA regulations are full of phrases such as “provided that,” “only when,” “except in cases where,” “so long as,” etc. These phrases often call attention to a factor that provides an exception or limitation to a general rule of eligibility. Some examples of exceptions or limitations are:

A “Delimitation” Date
A delimitation date is the period of time after discharge in which a veteran has to take advantage of a benefit, or the permanent cut-off date of the benefit itself.
Continuous Service

Continuous service is a continuous period of active duty service without a break for any reason. Eligibility for a certain benefit may require a continuous period of active duty (e.g., 24 months of continuous service for educational benefits).

“Bad Paper” Discharges

“Bad paper” discharges result in ineligibility for most veterans benefits. Some significant exceptions are as follows:

- Prior Period of Service: When the holder of the bad paper discharge has a previous “under conditions other than dishonorable” discharge for a prior period of service;
- Upgraded Discharges: When eligibility is restored because the veteran has applied for and received an upgraded discharge; and
- VA Review Notwithstanding Poor Characterization of Service: This is the case where the VA agrees to review a “bad paper” discharge and finds the veteran eligible for benefits. Such instances are extremely rare and carefully scrutinized by the VA.

Special Status of the Service-Connected Disabled Veterans

Veterans in this category are eligible for virtually all veterans benefits, regardless of limitations on length of service, dates of service, etc. They are also eligible for other veterans benefits that non-service-connected veterans are not. Members of the National Guard or Reservists who become service-connected disabled while attending scheduled drills or on active duty for training may be eligible for health care, disability compensation, and death benefits.

Maintaining Eligibility

Many veterans, dependents, and survivors find their benefits stopped because they violate VA rules for maintaining benefits. Examples of how eligibility may be lost are as follows:

Education Benefits

Education benefits may be stopped if the institution in which the veteran is enrolled loses its VA approval or if the veteran’s grades or course load fall below the minimum requirements.

Pension Benefits

A veteran receiving a non-service-connected pension who earns or otherwise acquires additional income may lose part or all of his or her pension depending upon the amount of the additional income.

Survivors’ Benefits

When the surviving spouse remarries, he or she is no longer eligible for survivors’ benefits.²

² The claimant will be denied surviving spouse status if he or she legally remarried before the veteran died. 38 § 101(3). If the remarriage occurs after the veteran’s death, the general rule is that they are ineligible for VA benefits unless the remarriage is void or annulled, or if the remarriage ended before November 1, 1990. 38 CFR §3.55(a)(1)(ii); 38 CFR §3.55(a)(2).
Compensation and Pension Benefits

Veterans must comply with VA instructions regarding when and where to appear for physical examinations, observation, or treatment.

Please note: If a veteran or dependent becomes ineligible, not only will the benefit stop, but also the VA will demand that the veteran or dependent pay back any money the VA paid out before it noticed the ineligibility. While there is recourse for those caught in this situation, it is better avoided.

C. State Benefits (IDVA)

1. Eligibility and Entitlement

The relationship between “eligible” and “entitled” is the same for state benefits as it is for federal benefits, except submission of proof of eligibility goes to the IDVA rather than the VA.

In general, the eligibility requirements for state benefits take into consideration the same three factors as for federal benefits but add a fourth: residency. Here are a few key highlights of the IDVA’s eligibility requirements.

2. Requirements Based on Military Service

The IDVA uses the same guidelines and definitions of eligibility based on service as the VA. However, Illinois residency is also required to obtain state veterans benefits. For some benefits, the veteran must have been a resident of Illinois at the time of entrance into the service. For others, the requirement is residency both before and after service.

3. Special Requirements Based on Present Circumstances

There are state benefits for which the present circumstances of the veteran, survivor, or dependent are weighed to determine eligibility. These circumstances usually relate to the need of the applicant.

4. Admittance to Illinois Veterans Homes

The IDVA operates veterans’ homes at Quincy, LaSalle, Anna, and Manteno. Residents of the Illinois Veterans Homes may be charged for care at a rate to be determined by the IDVA. For more details, see the discussion of State Domiciliary and Nursing Home Care for veterans in Chapter Four: Health Care.

D. County Benefits

1. Indigent Veteran and Family Assistance

Indigent Veteran and Family Assistance is administered by the County Veterans Assistance Commission (VAC) or local veteran organizations in counties where a VAC does not exist. (For a listing of VACs, see the list of Illinois Veterans Assistance Commissions the Appendix D.) Indigent Veteran and Family Assistance includes:

- Emergency Relief: Assistance to ensure that indigent veterans (and their families) who are victims of burn-outs, flood-outs, or unemployment have the basic necessities of life.

- Burial Assistance: A burial allowance and the designation of responsibility for proper funeral arrangements for indigent veterans or members of their immediate family.

2. Exceptions and Limitations

There are few exceptions and limitations for county benefits as most focus on the veteran’s need. All VACs recognize the standards of indigence as set forth by the Illinois Department of Healthcare and Family Services [HFS] (formerly known as the Illinois Department of Public Aid).

E. Summary

Applicants must meet certain requirements to be eligible for veteran benefits, although the specifics vary depending upon the benefit in general. There are two types of eligibility requirements: requirements based on military service and special requirements based on present circumstances. If a review of both requirements indicates the veteran or dependent is eligible for a certain benefit, then the veteran should check further before filing a claim to make sure there are no limitations that will prevent obtaining the benefit sought. If the requirement review shows that the applicant is not eligible for a certain benefit, before giving up, the veteran should make sure that there are no exceptions that would establish eligibility.

Once submitted, the receiving agency (the VA or the IDVA) will verify eligibility and review the claim. If anything is needed to further establish the eligibility for a benefit, the agency will notify the applicant. If benefits are denied, the agency will inform the advocate and the applicant as to why the benefit was not awarded. If the veteran or the advocate disagrees, the denial may be appealed.

Finally, once a veteran is receiving a benefit, the veteran must protect himself or herself from an unexpected cut-off and/or overpayment by maintaining eligibility. This simply requires knowing the rules that govern eligibility and following them. Always remember, it is the veteran’s responsibility to follow up on his or her claim and to keep the VA or IDVA up to date on any changes that might affect eligibility.
CHAPTER TWO: HOW TO APPLY FOR BENEFITS
How To Apply for Benefits

The purpose of this chapter is to explain how to apply for federal and state veterans benefits. This action is called “making a claim.” This chapter will explain the steps a veteran should take to ensure that the claim is processed promptly. Additionally, we will discuss the procedures the VA or IDVA will follow in processing the claim.

A. Federal Benefits (VA)

1. Two Types of Federal Disability Benefits

There are two basic types of federal disability benefits: service-connected disability compensation, and non-service-connected disability pension. Speaking of service-connected disability compensation, veterans are entitled to disability compensation if (1) they were discharged or released under conditions other than dishonorable; (2) their disease or injury was incurred or aggravated in the line of duty; and (3) the disability is not the result of their own willful misconduct or abuse of alcohol or drugs.

On the other hand, non-service-connected disability pension eligibility is based on several factors: (1) wartime service that ultimately results in a discharge under other than dishonorable conditions; (2) permanent and total disability; and (3) demonstrated financial need. Details on the basic pension eligibility requirements can be found in Chapter 5 of this manual.

2. Where to Apply

An application for benefits can be made at one of three types of VA facilities, depending on the benefit desired. Available federal Veterans benefits and locations of VA Regional Offices, Hospitals and Clinics can be found on the VA website at www.va.gov.

   Medical benefits: Apply at the nearest VA hospital or outpatient clinic.

   Psychological readjustment, including sexual trauma counseling: Apply at the nearest Veteran Center or VA medical facility.

   All other benefits administered by the VA: Apply to a VA Regional Office (VARO).

There are four ways to apply to the VA for benefits:

1. In Person: Apply by visiting a VA Regional Office (VARO). For medical or psychiatric care, apply with a VA Medical or Veteran Center.

5 38 U.S.C. §§105(a), 1131.
2. Mail in Form: Apply by obtaining and completing the appropriate form and sending it to the appropriate VA Regional Office or Hospital. All VA Forms are available online at www.va.gov/vaforms/ or at your local VA Regional Office.

3. Online: Apply for benefits online. An applicant can fill out an application online at http://vabenefits.vba.va.gov/vonapp/about_vonapp.asp. This site walks the applicant through the process step by step.

4. Mail in Letter: Apply for benefits by writing the VA a letter. This is called an informal claim.

A dependent or survivor may apply for a benefit on behalf of a veteran in one of the methods described above. This is usually done when the applicant is unable to complete the application because they are incapacitated. An applicant can also apply for benefits through an appointed representative, such as a Veteran Service Organization (VSO).

There are two types of third-party assistance:

1. Administrative: The third party helps determine the applicant’s eligibility, fills out the proper form, checks it for accuracy and completeness, and forwards it to the appropriate VA facility.

2. Representational Assistance (advocacy): Representational assistance not only takes care of the administrative details, but also further develops the case and if necessary represents the applicant at hearing and appeal proceedings. There are many Veteran Service Organizations available to assist veterans in the claims and appeals process.

Tip: If the Veteran has previously applied for benefits with the VA and is now seeking third party assistance, it may be especially helpful for the Veteran to request his or her “Claims File” from the VA. The Veteran can do this in writing or in person at a VA Regional Office. Regardless, it is good practice to retain a copy of your military and medical records for your own safe keeping.

3. Facts the VA Needs to Process a Claim

Veterans or dependents should be ready to supply the VA with the following information when making a claim: name and address, telephone number, Social Security number, date and place of birth, and branch of military service. The VA may also ask if the veteran has a “Claim” or “C” number. “C” numbers were the claim numbers issued years ago before the VA started using the Social Security number as the claim number.

On occasion, it may be necessary to provide detailed information on military service. Such information may include: military service number (these were issued to service members prior to 1969), dates of military service, and the unit served with while in combat or when the claimed injury occurred. The veteran may also be asked to report the dates that certain incidents occurred.

All of the above information, except a VA “C” number, may be found on the veteran’s DD 214 or other military separation papers. If separation papers are not available, the VA may request military records using the veteran’s name, Social Security number, military serial number, and branch of service. This process will take time and may delay the processing of the claim.

Veterans can request a copy of his or her DD-214 or its equivalent, documents in his or her Official Military Personnel File, and copies of medical records from the National Personnel Records Center online or by mail. Most information is available for request by the Veteran, next of kin of a deceased Veteran, or a Veteran’s legal guardian. The best way to do this is to write or go online to the National Personnel Records Center, located in St. Louis, MO. Specific instructions are provided on the NPRC website: http://www.archives.gov/veterans/

4. Visiting the VA Regional Office

Should the veteran or dependent visit a VA Regional Office, he or she will be able to talk directly to a VA representative. This is a good way to clarify the requirements for the benefit sought and to be informed as to the evidence needed. Additionally, an application for the benefit may be completed on the spot, which will establish the effective date of the award. It is helpful, although not necessary, to bring a copy of the veteran’s DD 214, separation papers, or discharge papers, if the applicant is a World War II or Korean War veteran. The VA will routinely run a check on military records anyway, but if the documents are available to the VA they are more likely to begin processing the claim. Also, the sooner the claim is filed, the earlier the effective date. Remember that the date benefits start is the date the claim was submitted. It is not, as some think, the date the veteran separated from the military. The only time that is true is when a claim is filed within a specified time from the date of separation. Lastly, because of heightened security at all federal buildings, including the VA, the VA now requires a photo identification card and will require all visitors to walk through a metal detector.

5. The Initial Interview

If the veteran wishes to deal with the VA without the assistance of a third-party representative, the first contact will usually be with a Veterans Benefits Counselor (VBC) at a VA Regional Office or VA Medical Center. During the interview, the veteran and the VBC will exchange information concerning the benefit sought. The applicant should bring all pertinent information to this interview, such as marriage certificates, divorce decrees, discharge papers, doctors’ reports, proof of school attendance, and/or financial information if applying for a pension. Bring anything that may help the VA in proving eligibility for the benefit sought. During the interview, the veteran will be asked to provide facts regarding service and details on the veteran’s current situation as it relates to the benefit.

The interviewer will assist the veteran in completing a claim form for the benefit sought. This is known as making a formal claim. The VA will then start processing it. The VA may do the following in development of the claim:
• Request military Service Medical Records (SMR) and the Military Personnel Records;
• Ask that the veteran submit to a compensation/pension examination at a VA Medical Center;
• Ask the veteran to sign a release of information so that they can get medical evidence from the veteran’s private healthcare providers;
• Ask that the veteran write a “stressor letter” if the claim is for post-traumatic stress disorder; and
• Request that the veteran supply any other information needed.

6. Telephoning the VA

The VA now uses a nationwide telephone number: 1-800-827-1000. If dialed from Illinois, the number will connect the caller to the Chicago Regional Office. After going through a menu-driven system to direct the call appropriately, the caller will then be connected to a Veterans Specialist. The specialist will answer questions relating to the benefits administered by the VA and questions relating to a claim. Any time you have a conversation with a VA official or veteran’s advocate, whether by telephone or in-person visit, it is a good practice to take notes about the conversation. Your notes should include the name of the person you spoke with, the date and time of the meeting/conversation, and a summary of the discussion, especially any “next step” or action promised or agreed to by the VA or veteran’s advocate, even if it is only a claim form to be sent. In the event that the VA later denies the claim and the veteran wishes to appeal, these notes might prove helpful.

7. Writing to the VA

It is not necessary to address a letter to the VA to a specific person, unless you are directed to do so. Upon receipt of a letter, the VA mailroom staff will route the letter to the appropriate section for processing. The VA’s reply to your letter will depend upon how the letter is written.

When corresponding with the VA about a benefit, always follow the old service adage, K.I.S.S. – “Keep it Simple, Soldier.” If the letter is short and concise, the veteran will probably get a clear answer. If the letter is long and rambling, with the question somewhere in the middle, it is unlikely that the person writing the reply is going to take time to figure it out. Instead, a form letter requesting specific information will be sent, even though that information was in the original letter. If sending a hand-written letter, be sure to write legibly.

Any letter to the VA about a benefit should include:
• The VA file or “C” number and any other identifying information. The claim number should be listed at the top of each page of the letter.
• The name, address, and telephone number of the veteran.
• A clear statement of the issue of concern or the benefit sought.

The first letter to the VA should also include the veteran’s Social Security number, branch of service, military service number, date and place of birth, and dates of service. Once again, the most convenient way to provide this data is by including a certified copy of the DD 214 or discharge certificate.

Be sure to date the letter. The VA considers any letter of inquiry from a veteran about a benefit an “informal claim.” This means that if the benefit is later awarded, the effective date of the benefit (and in the case of financial assistance, the date the VA is obligated to begin payment), may be the date the VA received the first letter or “informal claim.”

8. Application Made by Dependents

Dependents of a veteran can make an application for benefits on behalf of the veteran (e.g., if the veteran is incapacitated). Dependents can also make direct application for benefits to which they are entitled.

Dependents should provide the basic facts required by the VA as indicated earlier. Since service record data is often unknown to dependents, make sure this information or a copy of the veteran’s DD 214 is included among important family papers. Dependents will also need to furnish documents proving their relationship to the veteran. Examples of such documents include veteran’s death certificate, marriage certificate, divorce decrees, birth certificate, or any other document that may prove the veteran’s or the dependent’s claim.

9. When the Claim Requires “Development”

The VA is mandated to assist veterans in the development of their claims. Since the passage of the Veterans Claims Assistance Act of 2000, the VA has also been mandated by law to reasonably assist a claimant in the claims process. This is commonly known as the VA’s “Duty to Assist.”

Veterans may receive a letter from the VA asking for additional information. The VA calls this “claim development.” They may request:

- More facts and details about the veteran;
- Additional documents, which could include marriage license, birth certificates, employment records, school records, medical records, etc.; and
- The veteran’s appearance for a medical examination or psychiatric evaluation (if the veteran is applying for compensation or pension benefits).

The veteran should provide the VA with all the information they request. The deadline to submit additional evidence is typically one year from the date of the VA’s letter requesting additional evidence, although you should submit additional evidence as soon as possible as the VA is free to make a decision on your claim before the expiration of the one-year period. If the veteran does not provide the requested information, it will damage his or her chance of receiving the applied-for benefit. If the VA sets up an interview or medical appointment, the veteran should be there and be on time; however, the veteran should also be prepared to wait.

If the requested information is not provided or if the veteran fails to show up for a scheduled appointment, the VA will stop processing the claim. The VA interprets this failure to comply with their request as “abandonment of the claim.” This means that the VA may assume the veteran is no longer interested in obtaining the benefit.

10. When a Claim is Approved

If the benefit sought is awarded, the VA will send an award letter to the veteran. Attached to the letter will be a Rating Decision explaining what evidence the VA considered in rating the claim and the “Reasons and Basis for the Decision.” The veteran should read this very carefully. It is very important to understand how and why the decision was made, even if the claim was won. The letter will also explain, though not in as great of detail as the Rating Decision, why the benefit was awarded, the percent of disability, and the amount to be received per month. It will also contain instructions, which the veteran should read carefully. Many veterans and their families have suffered an overpayment of benefits or lost benefits because they failed to read the instructions that came with the award letter. For example, should the veteran be awarded a non-service-connected pension, the letter will contain instructions that any new income must be reported to the VA.

11. When a Claim is Denied

If the benefit sought is denied, the veteran will receive a letter from the VA stating that the application for the benefit has been denied. As stated above, it is important to read very carefully the attached Rating Decision. The decision will explain what evidence the VA considered. Make sure all of the evidence submitted was listed under the evidence section. The decision will also have a “Reasons and Basis” section giving the reasons for the decision. In this area, each piece of evidence in the evidence section should be discussed. If it is not, this should be noted in the event an appeal is filed.

If the applicant believes the VA’s decision was wrong, a “Notice of Disagreement” (NOD) should be completed. A NOD is the first step in the appeal process. The NOD may be as long or as short as the claimant wishes. It could be as simple as, “I disagree with the Rating Decision; Send me a Statement of the Case.” Or, the NOD may include a statement as to why the claimant disagrees with the decision. A statement of this type should address each issue under consideration and the way submitted evidence was considered. A claimant may also wish to address the length of the compensation and pension examination or what was discussed in the examination. In addition, the claimant may submit new evidence with the NOD to help prove the case.

When the VA receives the NOD, they will review the case again. They may, for example, reconsider certain pieces of evidence, consider evidence submitted but not listed in the decision, or request a new examination. Should they continue to deny the claim, they will issue a “Statement of the Case” (SOC). The SOC is a restatement of the Rating Decision and a chronology of the claim.

If the applicant continues to disagree with the VA’s decision, then the appeal is continued by completing the VA Form 9, Appeal to the Board of Veteran Appeals, which they will receive with the SOC. Submitting this form is called perfecting the appeal. The form offers the applicant another opportunity to state the case. It also offers an opportunity to:

- Have a personal hearing in Washington, D.C., before the Board of Veteran Appeals.
• Have a personal hearing at the VA Regional Office before the Traveling Board of Veteran Appeals.
• Have a hearing using the VA’s video conferencing techniques. (This is like a personal hearing except the board member is in Washington and the applicant is at the Regional Office.)
• Have the appeal considered on the evidence of record and the statements made by the veteran and his or her appointed representative.

12. When Notification is Delayed

When a benefit claim is submitted, the VA is obligated to notify the veteran that the benefit has been awarded or denied, or to request further development of the claim “within a reasonable time,” although the length of time actually required may vary depending upon the benefit. If the veteran has had no contact from the VA after four months, an inquiry should be made about the status of the claim. A backlog in case processing is a constant problem. Several years ago, some veterans waited over six months just to have their claim considered for the first time. Currently, reports are that the new claims may be taking from twelve to eighteen months to be completed.

13. What To Do If A Claim Is Delayed

There are several options open to a veteran or an advocate who wants to inquire about the status of a claim. A letter could be sent asking for the status of the claim. The veteran may also call the VA toll-free at 1-800-827-1000 and ask for a status report. If a Veteran Service Officer (VSO) is handling the claim, then the veteran should contact the VSO. Often, a VSO can get an instant update on the claim and its location.

The veteran may choose to visit the VA counselor who helped file the claim. When making this follow-up contact, be wary of answers such as, “These things take time,” or “It’s just routine.” The claim may be stuck. Try to find out what has happened to the claim, where the claim is now, and when the determination will be made. This is a good time to have a good quality veteran service officer. Most of the time, veteran service officers can explain exactly what is wrong or what needs to be done to get the case moving. Veteran service officers have direct access to adjudication and the rating specialist and can talk face to face with the person processing the claim.

Many veterans and dependents become very frustrated when the claim is not awarded quickly. Sadly, the VA often takes months to get the first decision processed. In the case of contested claims, it may actually take years to get a final decision. It is important to not take this frustration out on the person trying to provide assistance. Claims, for the most part, are processed in the order received and there are thousands of claims. Calling constantly, writing a lot of letters, or constantly asking your representative to inquire about the claim may have a negative effect. Each inquiry causes the claim file to be pulled from its location so that an answer may be given. This may actually delay the processing. Patience is a must when dealing with the VA. Keep inquiries to a minimum.

If, however, the claim has gone on for some time without a decision or contact by the VA, then other steps may be required. This may include appointing a Veteran Service Organization as your representative or making a personal visit to the Regional Office to talk with someone who actually knows about your claim.

B. Illinois Department of Veterans’ Affairs Benefits (IDVA)

The procedure for applying to the Illinois Department of Veterans’ Affairs for benefits is generally the same as when applying to the VA. The most significant difference is that the veteran may use the IDVA to apply for either U.S. or State of Illinois benefits. IDVA field officers are knowledgeable about both state and federal benefits. Their offices are well-stocked with appropriate U.S. and State benefit application forms. Since the IDVA has 88 field offices (49 full-time offices, 39 part time offices), many claimants prefer to take their federal benefit business to the IDVA rather than to one of the few VA facilities. If a veteran is interested in federal benefits, IDVA service officers are able to counsel the veteran on the specifics and review qualifications.

Those veterans who have access to a computer with Internet service (note: many libraries have computers that are hooked up to the Internet) may visit the IDVA’s Web site and see all state benefits and the location of all IDVA field offices and Veterans Homes. The Web address for the IDVA is http://www2.illinois.gov/veterans/Pages/default.aspx.

C. Summary

Veterans and dependents that go to the VA or IDVA for benefits have a right to expect courteous, prompt, efficient service. At the same time, the veteran’s cooperation in providing the VA or IDVA with the information they request is essential to having a claim processed. If any problem is encountered in dealing with the VA or IDVA, and if it cannot be resolved with the VA counselor or IDVA field officer (Veteran Service Officer), the Veteran Service Organizations are a great source of help.
CHAPTER THREE: SOURCES OF HELP IN OBTAINING BENEFITS
A. Sources of Help in Obtaining Benefits

There are two kinds of help that veterans may need when they decide to claim a benefit: administrative assistance and representational (advocacy) help.

B. Administrative Assistance

The veteran needs administrative help when the problem is one that can best be solved with technical interpretative assistance. A few examples of the kinds of problems that might require administrative assistance are:

- Help in Filling Out a Form
- Help in Resolving Conflicting Information: A buddy says the veteran is eligible for VA medical treatment, but according to a pamphlet the veteran reads, he or she is not.
- Help in Getting Back Up “Through the Crack”: The VA notified the veteran months ago that his or her educational benefits were approved, but the veteran has yet to receive the first check. The veteran has written and called, but has not received a satisfactory response. The veteran needs someone who knows the system to check into it.

C. Representational (Advocacy) Help

The veteran needs representational help when the problem is more complex, requiring representation in a matter before the VA or other government agency. This is assistance that is more professional in nature – the type of help that might be provided by an experienced Veterans Service Officer, a trained Veterans Advocate, or a lawyer. Here are some examples of the problems that might require representational assistance:

- Help in Appealing Denial of a Claim: The veteran’s claim was turned down. The veteran believes the claim was justified. The veteran needs a representative to work on the appeal with him or her.
- Help in Getting Service-Connected-Disability Compensation Long After Discharge: The veteran is sure his or her present condition is traceable to an injury in service but does not know how to build the case.
- Help in Dealing with Overpayment: The veteran was notified that an overpayment has occurred and wants to apply to the board on waivers and compromises for relief.
• Help in Reopening a Claim: The veteran needs assistance in reopening a claim that was previously denied.

D. Where to Find Help

There are a number of sources of help available to veterans, dependents, and survivors. Most offer both administrative and representational help, although some tend to concentrate more on one than another.

1. The U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs (VA)

The VA is one of the veteran’s two best sources of administrative help. The veteran will find that any specific questions he or she might have will be answered promptly and clearly. The VA Regional Office has a number of veteran benefits counselors ready to answer questions, assist in filling out VA forms, and explain VA procedures.

Although a VA benefits counselor can serve as the veteran’s representative in Regional Office hearings and before the Board of Veteran Appeals (BVA or “the Board”) – and some perform this service exceedingly well – it would probably be wiser to seek representational help elsewhere.

2. The Illinois Department of Veterans’ Affairs (IDVA)

The IDVA now supplies both administrative and representational assistance. Many of the IDVA’s field officers (Veteran Service Officers) are good at representing veterans in VA proceedings and, now that there are IDVA service officers at the VA, they can take a claim from start to finish – even through the appeal process. The IDVA has an added resource in that their field service officers may now assist in the development of evidence and help the veterans in obtaining information from the VA through their Regional Office service officers. A complete list of IDVA field offices can be found in Appendix C of this book.

3. Veteran Service Organizations (VSOs)

VSOs provide both administrative and representational help. This means that VSOs may take a claim from start to finish and through the appeal process. Some VSOs even assist veterans before the Court of Appeals for Veterans Claims (CAVC).

The individuals who provide this service are service officers. There are two types of service officers: the local post or chapter service officers who are part-time volunteers, and the full-time, professional service officers who are employees of the VSO.

The local post or chapter service officers are versed in veterans’ benefits. They tend, however, to be more active in providing administrative assistance and counseling, with their representational caseload being referred to full-time service officers at the Chicago VA Regional Office. For a list of veteran organizations and their locations, see Appendix B of this book.

4. Attorneys

The VA changed its regulations to allow attorneys to represent veterans and receive a fee for their services. The National Organization of Veterans Advocates (NOVA) is a trade group of attorneys that specialize in VA disability claims. More information on NOVA is available at Local bar associations also typically provide lawyer referral services through which veterans can locate specialists in their area. The Court of Appeals for Veterans Claims maintains a list of attorneys who practice before the CAVC on its web site available at http://www.uscourts.cavc.gov/practitioners.

Some attorneys are willing to represent veterans before the VA pro bono (free of charge). The National Veterans Legal Services Project (NVLSP) is a not-for-profit organization that provides representational assistance. More information on NVLSP is available at http://www.nvls.org. There are similar organizations in Illinois, including the Veterans Legal Support Center & Clinic (VLSC) at the John Marshall Law School. You can reach the VLSC by telephone at 312-427-2737, Ext. 346.

5. The County Veterans Assistance Commissions (VAC)

Although provided for under Illinois law, not all counties have a Veterans Assistance Commission. Where they have been established, they usually serve as another good source of administrative help. In addition, depending upon individual qualifications, some VAC superintendents have compiled excellent records as veteran case representatives. For a list of VAC locations, refer to Appendix D of this book, or visit http://www.iacvac.org.

6. Military and Veterans Rights Bureau – Office of the Attorney General

The Military and Veterans Rights Bureau provides assistance to veterans, dependents, or survivors with regard to understanding available benefits and eligibility requirements. The Military and Veterans Rights Bureau will also refer veterans for further assistance as appropriate. More information is available at http://illinoisattorneygeneral.gov/rights/veterans.html. The Bureau staffs a hotline for further assistance at 1-800-382-3000.

7. Some Other Sources of Help

   Elected Officials

   It is the official position of the VA that political intervention has no bearing whatsoever on the adjudication process. However, as has been testified to by numerous veterans, this is clearly not so. In some cases where a senator or congressman took a serious interest in a constituent’s complaint, showed familiarity with the governing regulation, and contacted the VA by way of inquiry, it has been observed that the VA took a more detailed look at the disputed benefit. If a congressional staffer calls, he or she will usually get a standard case status report. However, if the representative calls personally, a more serious look is taken.

   The Media

   Every so often, the media will focus on a veteran who has been denied or lost benefits. It is clearly poor “public relations” for the VA. In many well-documented cases, the VA has been known to respond to adverse publicity by taking immediate action favorable to the veteran. If the veteran can get the media on his or her side, he or she should do it.
E. How to Choose a Representative

First, shop around. Too many veterans feel like they are “stuck” with the first service officer they meet. This is a mistake. If the prospective representative does not make a good first impression, he or she probably is not too charming before a board either. A veteran needs a representative who can intelligently prepare and persuasively present the case. A good representative is aware of all the rights and benefits available and the tactics needed to obtain those benefits. A good representative is aggressive in pursuing an appeal and like a bull dog, fights until the battle is either won or lost.

In the final analysis, though, it is the veteran’s case. No service organization charges a fee for handling a case or gets part of the back pay for their work. Win or lose, the service officer gets paid the same. In the end, the veteran, and only the veteran, has the most to gain or lose in the claims process. So be your own best advocate.

When choosing a VSO service officer, always try to meet face to face. If that is not possible because of distance, a telephone conference is the next best thing. Ask questions about how the case will proceed. Ask if there is enough evidence of record to win. If not, ask what other evidence may be helpful to the case and get suggestions on how to obtain that evidence. In short, be involved in the case. Just a short word of caution, however: remember that VSO service officers are paid professionals. Most know their business. It is a good idea to follow their instructions. Also, don’t continuously call for a status of the claim and such. Most VSO service officers have very large case loads and there is only so much time to spend with one case.

F. Summary

Veterans need two types of help when claiming benefits. Of these, obtaining administrative assistance presents no problem. However, obtaining the other type of assistance, representational (advocacy) help, is cause for greater concern. When choosing a representative, the veteran should shop around and learn how well-qualified – by training or experience or both – the people he or she is talking to are. Choose a representative who is not only qualified to serve as an advocate, but actually cares about the outcome of the claim. In addition, the veteran should not overlook the “back-up” sources of help, including the veteran’s congressman or senator. Finally, media coverage of the veteran’s problem may be a great help.

Remember, it is the veteran’s claim and it is in the veteran’s best interest to become as knowledgeable about it as possible. The veteran should be aware of the time frame for processing a claim. At this writing, for example, there is a twelve to eighteen month delay in rating claims and almost a year and a half for appeals to be heard before the Board of Veterans’ Appeals (BVA). The veteran should also discuss the claim at length with his or her service officer to learn more about the claims process, the evidence needed, and how to develop that evidence.
CHAPTER FOUR: HEALTH CARE
HEALTH CARE

The VA operates the nation’s largest integrated health care system with more than 1,400 sites of care, including hospitals, community clinics, community living centers, domiciliaries, readjustment counseling centers, and various other facilities. For additional information on VA health care, visit: http://www.va.gov/health. (For contact information regarding the many VA (VHA) sites located within Illinois, see Appendix A.) Over the last several years, the VA has changed the way it provides for the health care needs of the aging veteran population.

Description of Benefit

Veterans enrolled in the VA health care system are eligible for services included in the VA “Medical Benefits Package. The Benefits Package includes inpatient and outpatient care, geriatric and extended care, mental health services, sexual trauma services, dental care, and specialized treatment and rehabilitation services for veterans with certain disabilities. Also included are needed prescription medications. A complete range of care and services is available at VA Medical Centers, Community Based Outpatient Clinics (CBOC), and Vet Centers. Locations of VA medical treatment centers are available in Appendix A of this book and online at http://www1.va.gov/directory/guide/home.asp.

Eligibility for VA Health Care and Characterization of Service

Generally

A veteran’s characterization of service can impact one’s eligibility for VA Health Care. In some cases, a veteran’s characterization of service may bar access to such health care. All veterans seeking or considering seeking VA health care should consult with an accredited Veterans Service Office, and, in certain instances, legal counsel. Do not immediately assume ineligibility because of some negative military service history.

The basic rule is a “veteran” is considered eligible for VA Health Care benefits if he or she has been discharged “under conditions other than dishonorable.” For example, “Honorable” and “General Under Honorable Conditions” are two forms of administrative discharge that are qualifying. On the other end of the spectrum, “Dishonorable” or “Bad Conduct” punitive discharges that were issued by General Courts-Martial are disqualifying.

As noted in VA Fact Sheet 16-8 (March 2010), certain discharges that fall in the middle of these extremes especially require further attention as they may or may not be disqualifying. An administrative “Other Than Honorable” or OTH discharge is one such example. A punitive “Bad Conduct Discharge” that was issued by Special Courts-Martial is another. To make a determination, the VA applies the standards set forth in 38 C.F.R. §3.12.

Special Health Care Rule for OTH Discharges

Under Section 2 of P.L. 95-126 (Oct. 8, 1977), a veteran with an “Other Than Honorable” discharge that would otherwise be a bar to eligibility under the application of 38 C.F.R. §3.12, still may be eligible for such health care if the care is for service-connected or service-aggravated disabilities. However, an important “caveat” is that statutory bars to benefits still may apply even to this special health care rule.\textsuperscript{7}

How to Apply for VA Medical Benefits

- Complete VA Form 10-10EZ (available at any VA hospital).
- Apply at any VA medical facility or, for readjustment counseling, at any Vet Center.

Priority Groups

The number of veterans who can be enrolled in the health care program is determined by the amount of money Congress gives the VA each year. Since funds are limited, the VA set up Priority Groups to make sure that certain groups of veterans are able to be enrolled before others. Upon completing the VA Form 10-10 EZ, the VA will verify the veteran’s eligibility and assign the veteran to one of the Priority Group’s listed below. The Priority Groups range from 1 to 8 with 1 being the highest Priority Group and 8 being the lowest. Veterans may be eligible for more than one Enrollment Priority Group. In that case, the VA will always place the veteran in the highest Priority Group for which he or she is eligible. Some veterans may have to agree to pay co-pays to be placed in certain Priority Groups. More information on Priority Groups is available online at the following link: http://www.va.gov/healthbenefits/resources/priority_groups.asp.

Priority Group 1
- Veterans with service-connected disabilities rated 50% or more disabling.
- Veterans determined as unemployable due to service-connected conditions.

Priority Group 2
- Veterans with service-connected disabilities rated 30% or 40% disabling.

Priority Group 3
- Veterans who are former POWS.
- Veterans awarded the Purple Heart.
- Veterans whose discharge was for a disability that was incurred or aggravated in the line of duty.
- Veterans with service-connected disabilities rated 10% or 20% disabling.
- Veterans awarded special eligibility classification under Title 38, U.S.C., Section 1151, “Benefits for individuals disabled by treatment or vocational rehabilitation.”
- Veterans awarded the Medal of Honor

Priority Group 4
- Veterans who are receiving aid and attendance or housebound benefits.
- Veterans who have been determined by the VA to be catastrophically disabled.\textsuperscript{8}

\textsuperscript{7} See 38 U.S.C. §5303(a).

Priority Group 5
- Non-service-connected veterans and non-compensable service-connected veterans rated 0% disabled whose annual income and net worth are below the established VA Means Test Thresholds.

- Veterans of the Gulf War that served between August 2, 1990 and November 11, 1998
- Veterans who served in a theater of combat operations after November 11, 1998 as follows:
  - Currently enrolled veterans and new enrollees who were discharged from active duty on or after January 28, 2003, are eligible for the enhanced benefits for 5 years post discharge.
  - Note: At the end of this enhanced enrollment priority group placement time period veterans will be assigned to the highest priority group their unique eligibility status at that time qualifies for.

Priority Group 7
- Veterans with incomes below the Geographic Means Test income Threshold (GMT)\(^9\) who agree to pay specified co-payments.

Priority Group 8
- Veterans who agree to pay specified co-payments with income and/or net worth above the VA Means Test Threshold and the Geographic Means Test Threshold.
  - Veterans eligible for enrollment: Noncompensable 0% service-connected and:
    - Subpriority a: Enrolled as of January 16, 2003, and who have remained enrolled since that date and/or placed in this subpriority due to changed eligibility status
    - Subpriority b: Enrolled on or after June 15, 2009 whose income exceeds the current VA National Income Thresholds\(^10\) or National Geographic Means Test income Thresholds by 10% or less

The disability must be so severe that the veteran requires personal or mechanical assistance to leave home or bed, or require constant supervision to avoid physical harm to themselves or others. Combat Veterans

As of January 28, 2008, the National Defense Authorization Act extended the period of eligibility for healthcare for veterans who served in a theater of combat after November 11, 1998, and were discharged under conditions other than dishonorable. This extension applies to combat veterans who were discharged or released from active service on or after January 28, 2003.

Such veterans are eligible for enhanced enrollment placement into Priority Group 6 for 5 years from the date of discharge or release. This means that combat veterans who were originally enrolled based on their combat service but later moved to a lower Priority Group (due to the law’s former 2-year limitation) are to be placed back in the priority for combat veterans for 5 years beginning on the date of their discharge or release from active service.

Duration: The 5-year enrollment period begins on the discharge or separation date of the service member from active duty military service, or in the case of multiple call-ups, the most recent discharge date.

Reservists and National Guard Members

Members of the Reserves and National Guard called are eligible for health care if they served on active duty in a theater of combat operations after November 11, 1998, and have been discharged under other than dishonorable conditions.

Those Reservists and National Guard members seeking to apply for VA health care must complete VA Form 10-10EZ and submit a copy of their DD 214 or certificate of release or Discharge from Active Duty. Also needed, especially if it is not noted on the DD 214, is documentation showing receipt of Hostile Fire or Imminent Danger pay; an Armed Forces Expeditionary Medal, Kosovo Campaign Medal, Global War on Terrorism Expeditionary Medal, or Southwest Asia Campaign Medal; proof of exemption of federal tax status for Hostile Fire or Imminent Danger pay or orders to a theater of combat operations. If a VA Medical Center is close by, veterans may choose to go to the Medical Center to apply or apply online at https://www.1010ez.med.va.gov/sec/vha/1010ez/. The veteran may also call 1-877-VETS (8387) to obtain a form through the mail or download the form at https://www.1010ez.med.va.gov/sec/vha/1010ez/Form/vha-10-10ez.pdf.

Co-Payments

On September 1, 1999, the VA became Medicare compliant. This changed the way the VA does business in two very important ways. The first is that the VA now bills private insurance companies what are called “reasonable charges” – meaning that the bill the insurance company gets will now contain charges similar to those of private hospitals. The bill will be itemized just like a private hospital’s bill. The second is that those veterans who must co-pay are now required to pay a larger deductible. Additionally, by law, the VA must bill the insurance companies of veterans treated for non-service-connected conditions.

Inpatient Treatment\textsuperscript{12}

Veterans are charged a standard co-payment for each 90 days of care within a 365-day period along with a per diem charge for each day of hospitalization.

\textbf{Priority Group 7}

Veterans in this Group must pay 20\% of the VA’s co-pay, or $236.80 for the first 90 days of inpatient hospital care during any 365-day period. The inpatient co-payment for each additional 90 day period is $118.40 plus a $2 per diem charge.

\textbf{Priority Group 8}

Veterans in this Group must pay $1,184 for the first 90 days of inpatient hospital care during any 365-day period. The inpatient co-payment for each additional 90 day period is $592 plus a $10 per diem charge.

Outpatient Treatment\textsuperscript{13}

The VA charges a $15 co-payment for each primary (basic) care visit and $50 for each specialty care visit.

Outpatient Services Not Requiring Co-payments

\textsuperscript{13} 38 CFR §17.108(c).
There is no co-payment required for publicly announced VA public health initiatives (e.g., health fairs), preventive screenings or immunizations, flat film radiology services, electrocardiograms, smoking cessation counseling (individual and group), weight management, and hospice care.

Prescription Medication

The co-payment for medication is attached to the Medical Consumer Price Index, meaning that the co-payment for prescription medications changes every year according to the medical consumer price index. At the time of this writing, the VA co-payment for each 30-day or less supply of medication for treatment of non-service-connected conditions is $8. The specific condition of the veteran and the Priority Group the veteran is enrolled in determines whether or not the veteran will have a prescription medicine co-payment.

The VA caps the amount that can be charged to veterans enrolled in Priority Groups 2-6 for prescription co-pay amounts at $960 per year. This means that veterans in Priority Groups 2-6 will not pay more than $960 annually for medicine they receive on an outpatient basis. The copay for outpatient medications provided to veterans in Priority Groups 7 and 8 is $9 with no annual co-payment cap.

Long-Term Care

Veterans in need of long-term care services must first complete and submit VA Form 10-10 EC, Application for Extended Care Services. This form can be downloaded at http://www.va.gov/vaforms/medical/pdf/vha-10-10EC-fill.pdf. The VA charges for long-term care services vary by type of service provided and the individual veteran’s ability to pay, which is determined from information provided on the 10-10 EC. The co-pay amount for inpatient care ranges from $0 to $97 per day; $15 per day for outpatient care; and $5 per day for domiciliary care.

How the VA Bills

Co-payments for Veterans Covered by a Health Insurance Plan

Veterans who are not eligible for free VA healthcare service must agree to pay a co-payment to receive that service, regardless of whether they are covered by a health insurance plan. Once the total bill for treatment is determined, the VA will first submit the bill to the veteran’s health insurance company. This includes billing to a Medicare supplemental plan, which is sometimes referred to as a Medigap supplemental policy. Should the insurance company not reply to the VA’s demand for payment, pay only a part of the bill or deny payment, the VA will bill the veteran for the total cost of care or that portion not paid by insurance. The VA usually allows about 90 days for the insurance company to reply to the billing. If the insurance company refused to pay or only paid a portion of the bill, it is a good idea for the veteran to personally contact the insurance company. There are many occasions where a bill will be denied the first time it is submitted and paid upon second consideration.

14 38 CFR §17.110.
15 38 CFR §17.111(b).

The veteran should address all questions on co-pay billing to the Medical Care Cost Recovery (MCCR) office at the local VA Medical Center. It is always better to pay the bill as soon as it is received. The VA is mandated by law to collect payments due and will do so quickly. Should a bill be found invalid or should the veteran become service-connected for a disability for which he or she was billed, the VA will reimburse the veteran for the amount paid.

How the VA Determines Income and Net Worth

Most nonservice-connected veterans are required to complete an annual financial assessment. The financial assessment consists of the veteran’s total family income and assets. Income includes, but is not limited to, wages, retirement pensions, military retirement, unemployment compensation, U.S. railroad retirement, interest and dividends, worker’s compensation, and any other type of income. Such income is counted for the spouse and children living with the veteran. Income is counted for the calendar year prior to the application for treatment.

Net worth includes the market value of stocks, bonds, notes, IRAs, bank deposits, savings accounts, and cash; however, personal property and the veteran’s residence are not counted. The VA determines net worth by subtracting total debts from the total net worth. The result is the adjusted net worth. It should be noted that the VA will not check the income and net worth at the time the application is completed. However, they may at their discretion check with Social Security and the IRS to verify what the veteran submitted. If there is a discrepancy, a retroactive billing for the cost of care and medications could be created. If the veteran fails to pay the bill, all treatment could be terminated.

Health Insurance Companies

The VA is mandated by law to bill insurance companies for the cost of care for those veterans who must now co-pay. As of September 1, 1999, insurance companies are billed “reasonable charges” for the cost of care at VA facilities. But instead of collected funds going to general revenue, the VA is now allowed to keep all funds collected. It is hoped that these funds will be used to improve the quality of care provided by the VA.

Catastrophically Disabled Veterans

A catastrophically disabled veteran is one who has “a permanent severely disabling injury, disorder, or disease that compromises the ability to carry out the activities of daily living to such a degree that the individual requires personal or mechanical assistance to leave home or bed or requires constant supervision to avoid physical harm to self or others.” Veterans who meet this definition will be placed in Priority Group 4. A veteran or his or her representative may request an evaluation by contacting the Enrollment Coordinator at their local VA health care facility. The evaluation is a physical/mental examination conducted by the hospital. The examination includes a review of the veteran’s medical records. Upon completion of the process, the veteran will be notified of the hospital’s decision by letter.\textsuperscript{16}

Women Veterans

The VA provides a variety of services for women, including primary care and specialized services such as reproductive services, rehabilitation, mental health, and treatment for military sexual trauma. For more information, visit http://www.womenshealth.va.gov/.

Toll-Free Mammography Information Line

A new nationwide toll-free mammography information line now expands the VA’s medical service to women veterans due to the efforts of the Durham VAMC and Telecommunications Support and Radiology services. The Durham VAMC can answer questions about mammography and refer callers for help in arranging for a mammogram at the nearest certified facility or through the women veterans coordinator at the nearest VA medical center. For those VA facilities where no mammography equipment is available, the service will be provided through FDA certified providers. The toll-free number is 1-888-492-7844, 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Eastern Time. After 4:30 p.m., voice mail will take calls and a counselor will return your call the next business day.

Sexual Trauma Counseling

The VA provides counselling and treatment to veterans who have experienced sexual trauma while on active duty in the military. Military sexual trauma counseling may include individual or group counseling, marital and family counseling, referral for benefits assistance, liaison with community agencies, and substance abuse information and referrals. For more information, veterans can speak with their existing VA healthcare provider, contact the Military Sexual Trauma Coordinator at their nearest VA Medical Center, or contact their local Vet Center. A list of VA Medical Centers can be found online at http://www2.va.gov/directory/guide/home.asp?isFlash=1, and Vet Center facilities can be found online at http://www2.va.gov/directory/guide/vetcenter_fsh.asp.

Beneficiary Travel

Description of Benefit and Eligibility

Veterans may be eligible for full or partial reimbursement of travel expenses in connection with receiving VA medical care. Veterans must meet certain criteria to be eligible for beneficiary travel. Travel payments will generally not exceed the public transportation rate and may be made only to the following categories of otherwise qualified veterans:

• Veteran has a service-connected rating of 30% or more;
• Veteran is traveling for treatment of a service-connected condition;
• Veteran receives VA pension benefits;
• Veteran income does not exceed the maximum annual VA pension rate; or
• Veteran is traveling for a scheduled compensation or pension examination.

A veteran qualifies for Special Mode Transportation (ambulance, wheelchair van, etc.) if:

• Veteran’s medical condition requires an ambulance or a specially equipped van;
  and
• Veteran meets one of the eligibility criteria for Beneficiary Travel (except if traveling for a scheduled compensation or pension examination); and
• The travel is pre-authorized (authorization is not required for emergencies if a delay would be hazardous to life or health).

It should be noted that travel is usually given only from the veteran’s home to the nearest VA hospital. The VA has also established a deductible that must be met prior to travel being paid. Reimbursement is paid at 41.5 cents per mile with a $3 deductible for each one-way trip and $6 for a round trip not to exceed $18 or the amount after six one-way trips (whichever occurs first) per calendar month. It’s a good idea to check with the travel clerk to establish eligibility and the deductible. If there is a need for special transportation (e.g., ambulance, wheelchair van, etc.), be sure to get prior approval from the treating physician or the admitting physician. Travel at VA expense must be authorized in advance. If you don’t get prior approval, you could end up paying the cost yourself. Be sure to check your eligibility for special transportation. For more information visit the VA’s Beneficiary Travel website at http://www.va.gov/CBO/cbo/docs/trvlbrochjul12.asp.

VA Long-Term Care Benefits

Nursing Home Care

The VA provides nursing home care services to veterans through three national programs: VA owned and operated Community Living Centers (CLC), state veterans’ homes owned and operated by the states, and the contract community nursing home program. Each program has admission and eligibility criteria specific to the program.

VA Community Living Centers

Short stay (less than 90 days) services are available to veterans who are enrolled in VA health care and require CLC services, which include skilled nursing, respite, rehabilitation, hospice, and maintenance care for veterans awaiting placement in the community. Long stay (91 days or more) services are available for enrolled veterans who need life-long nursing home care, or care for an extended period of time for a service-connected disability and those rated 60% service-connected and unemployable; or veterans who have a 70% or greater service-connected disability. All others are based on available resources.

Contract Community Nursing Home Program

These are VA medical centers that have contracts with community nursing homes. This program provides long-term nursing home care to veterans in their own communities.

Eligibility Requirements

The criteria for admission into any of the three nursing home programs requires that the veteran be medically stable (i.e., not acutely ill), have sufficient functional deficits to require inpatient nursing home care, and be assessed by an appropriate medical provider to be in need of institutional nursing home care.

Domiciliary Care

Description of Benefit

Provides rehabilitative care on an ambulatory self-care basis for veterans disabled by age or disease who are not in need of acute hospitalization and who do not need the skilled nursing services provided in nursing homes. Care is provided in a VA domiciliary facility.

Eligibility Requirements

Veterans of the various military services who were discharged for a disability or are in receipt of disability compensation and suffering from a permanent disability, have no adequate means of support, are incapacitated from earning a living, and meet certain other requirements may be eligible for domiciliary care.

Housebound or Aid and Attendance

Description of Benefit

Extra money added to the monthly pension check of disabled veterans and increased eligibility for medical care and medicine.

For Housebound

The veteran must have a single permanent disability evaluated as 100% disabling which causes the veteran to be permanently and substantially confined to the home or institution in which he or she resides; or the veteran must have a single permanent disability evaluated as 100% disabling and another disability, or disabilities, evaluated as 60% or more disabling.
For Aid and Attendance

The veteran must be incapacitated to the extent that he or she requires the regular aid and attendance of another person for such things as eating, bathing, dressing, adjusting prosthesis, sanitary functions, and protecting him- or herself from hazards of the immediate environment.

Tip: Applications for Housebound or Aid and Attendance benefits are made on VA Form 21-2680, “Veteran’s Application for aid and attendance or housebound.” Apply at any VA office. This benefit is adjudicated by the Veteran Benefits Administration.

Adult Day Care

Description of Benefit

Adult Day Care is an outpatient day program consisting of medical care, rehabilitative services, socialization, and caregiver support. Adult Day Care is usually provided to frail, elderly, and functionally impaired adults. This benefit is not to be confused with hospital care, outpatient treatment, or nursing home care.

Eligibility Requirements

As with all VA benefits, service-connected veterans receive top priority. Veterans 50% or more disabled are next, followed by veterans who have received care at a VA facility who are in need of such care.

Outpatient Dental Treatment

Description of Benefit

The VA provides outpatient dental examinations and treatment to eligible veterans. Veterans are eligible for dental treatment if they are determined by the VA to fall into one of the following categories:

Eligibility Requirements17

- Veterans with service-connected, compensable dental conditions are eligible for any needed dental care.

17 38 CFR. § 17.160; VA Health Care Fact Sheet, Dental Benefits for Veterans, IB 10-442. April 2013.
• Veterans who were prisoners of war (POWs) and those whose service-connected disabilities have been rated at 100% or who are receiving the 100% rate by reason of individual unemployability are eligible for any needed dental care.
• Recently discharged veterans with a service-connected non-compensable dental condition or disability who served on active duty 90 days or more and who apply for VA dental care within 180 days of separation from active duty may receive a one-time treatment for dental conditions if the dental condition is shown to have existed at the time of discharge or release and the certificate of discharge does not indicate that the veterans received necessary dental care within a 90-day period prior to discharge.
• Veterans with a service-connected non-compensable dental condition or disability resulting from combat wounds or service trauma are eligible for repeat care for the service-connected condition(s).
• Veterans with a service-connected disability whose dental condition is aggravating the service-connected condition are eligible for care necessary to treat the oral conditions that a VA dental professional determines to have a direct and material detrimental effect on the service-connected medical condition.
• Veterans whose dental examination is ordered as part of a general physical.
• Veterans whose dental conditions are considered to be the direct result of examination, hospitalization, or medical/surgical treatment given by the Department of Veteran Affairs.
• Veterans who are receiving vocation rehabilitation educational benefits (also called Chapter 31 benefits) are eligible for dental care needed to complete the program.
• Certain veterans enrolled in a VA homeless program for 60 consecutive days or more may receive certain medically necessary outpatient dental services.
• Veterans receiving outpatient care or scheduled for inpatient care may receive dental care if the dental condition is clinically determined to be complicating a medical condition currently under treatment.

Inpatient Dental Care

Veterans receiving hospital, nursing home, or domiciliary care will be provided dental services that are essential to the management of the veteran’s medical condition under active treatment.

Treatment of Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder (PTSD)

Treatment for PTSD is provided at certain VA medical facilities on both an inpatient and outpatient basis. PTSD is marked by a host of afflictions associated with exposure to catastrophic stress. Nightmares, flashbacks, anxiety, and sudden-startle reactions can occur immediately after exposure to extreme stress or may develop years after the original stress.

Tip: PTSD is a recognized service-connected disability, compensable up to 100%. In addition to seeking medical assistance, those veterans who have reason to think their problems are caused by this affliction should talk to their representatives about filing a claim for disability compensation.

PTSD, or other identifiable social or psychological problems stemming from military service, may be treated through the Readjustment Counseling Services Program carried out by the Vet Centers and VA Hospitals. These services include individual counseling, group counseling, and family counseling. If the services requested by the veteran are beyond the authorized mission or expertise of the readjustment counseling program, the veteran requesting such services will receive support and assistance in obtaining the needed services, either through referral to an appropriate social agency or to a VA medical center.

Readjustment Counseling

Some VA medical centers have approved programs of readjustment counseling services available. These services include group, family, sexual trauma, and bereavement counseling. Veterans seeking readjustment counseling services at a VA medical center should determine the availability of services prior to coming to the medical center. Vet Center locations can be found through information provided in the Vet Center Directory or listings in your local blue pages. Vet Center staff are available toll free during normal business hours at 1-800-905-4675 (Eastern) and 1-866-496-8838 (Pacific). In areas where VA services are not available, the VA may provide readjustment counseling services through a contract or fee arrangement with community physicians, psychologists, or social workers.

Veterans Crisis Line

Veterans experiencing an emotional crisis or veterans who need to talk to a trained mental health professional may call the Veterans Crisis Line toll-free at 1-800-273-TALK (8255). The hotline is available 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Callers are immediately connected with a qualified and caring provider who can help. More information can be found online at http://www.veteranscrisisline.net/.

Medical Attention for Dioxin (Agent Orange), Nuclear Radiation Exposure, or Illness related to Gulf War Service

Description of Benefit and Eligibility

The VA has a continuing program for examining veterans who are concerned about the possible health effects of Agent Orange, nuclear radiation exposure, or exposures during Gulf War service. The findings of these examinations are entered into a registry. Vietnam veterans and those veterans concerned about radiation exposure and illnesses related to Gulf War service are encouraged to request an examination at their nearest VA health care facility or visit http://www.publichealth.va.gov/exposures/. A veteran who participates will receive a comprehensive physical examination and be asked to complete a questionnaire about service experience. Following the examination, the veteran will be advised of the results. The examination could help to detect any illness or injury the veteran may have, regardless of origin, and may provide a basis for follow-up treatment. The evaluation is free of charge and veterans do not need to be enrolled in VA health care to participate.

Schedule a registry evaluation by contacting an Environmental Health Coordinator at any VA medical facility. A list of Health Coordinators is available online at www.publichealth.va.gov/exposures/coordinators.asp. More information is available through the VA’s Special Issues Helpline at 1-800-749-8387.

Children and Spouses

Veterans of the Vietnam War who have children suffering from spina bifida may be eligible for compensation for their children. This is covered in more detail in Chapter 8 titled Benefits for Survivors and Dependents. There are also benefits for children born to women Vietnam veterans. This is addressed in Chapter Five: Compensation for Service-Connected Disabilities and Non-Service-Connected Pension, Benefits for Children of Women Veterans with Birth Defects.

Miscellaneous VA Medical Benefits

Homeless Veterans

The Illinois Housing Authority, citing to a January 2011 National Alliance to End Homelessness State of Homelessness report, noted in the last quarter of 2012 that an estimated 14,000 plus people experience homelessness each night in Illinois. Of those people, current estimates hold that 15% are veterans. The VA, in turn, estimates there are 67,000 veterans across the country who are homeless every night.

The VA has a number of homeless veterans’ assistance programs, including health care benefits assistance. Outreach and personal assistance to homeless veterans is a top priority for the VBA.

Outpatient Clinic for Homeless Veterans (Chicago)

As part of its ongoing current campaign to end homelessness in the veteran community, the Jesse Brown VA Medical Center opened in 2012 a specially designated outpatient clinic. The clinic is the Homeless Patient Aligned Care Team (H-PACT) primary and urgent care clinic. It is found on the 8th floor of the Damen Building. It is open Monday through Friday (8:00 a.m. to 4:15 p.m.). With walk-in access to doctors or nurse practitioners without an appointment, the clinic provides such services as medical care, case management, substance abuse treatment, community referrals, housing placement, triage, and mental health services. Call (312) 569-6402 for more information.

Special VA Homeless Programs
• Department of Housing and Urban Development and the Department of Veterans Affairs Supported Housing (HUD-VASH) Program
• Domiciliary Care for Homeless Veterans
• Compensated Work Therapy/Therapeutic Residence (CWT/TR)
• Community Homelessness Assessment, Local Education and Networking Groups (CHALENG)
• Supportive Services for Veteran Families Program (SSVF)
• Health Care for Re-entry (HCRV) Program
• Social Security Administration (SSA) & VA Outreach assists veterans in rehabilitation and in receiving SSA benefits

Homeless and at-risk veterans in need of assistance should call the National Call Center for Homeless Veterans at 1-877-424-3838. The call center will connect the veteran with the closest VA Medical Center to best address the veteran’s needs. More information can be found online at http://www.va.gov/HOMELESS/NationalCallCenter.asp.

Illinois Prince Home

The Illinois Department of Veterans’ Affairs Prince Home at Manteno is a program for homeless and disabled Veterans located at the State Veterans’ Home in Manteno, Illinois. Veterans can obtain an application at http://www2.illinois.gov/veterans/homes/Pages/homes-facilities.aspx. Services for the Blind

Description of Benefit

The VA has historically recognized that there have been higher incidences of blindness in the veterans population as compared to the general population. One must keep in mind that the label of blind covers a variety of levels of visual acuity. “The generally accepted definition is: central visual acuity of 20/200 or less in the better eye, with ordinary corrective glasses; or, central visual acuity better than 20/200 in the better eye, and a field defect where the peripheral field at its widest tested diameter is less than 20 degrees. Approximately 85 percent of people classified as legally blind have some kind of usable remaining vision.”

18 Department of Veterans Affairs, Veterans Health Administration, Coordinated Services for Blinded Veterans, Dec. 1991.
Rehabilitation Center was opened in Illinois in 1948. It is located at Hines VA Hospital. More information can be found on the VA Web site at http://www1.va.gov/blindrehab/. Veterans may also be eligible for low vision aids, specially adapted housing, electronic and mechanical aids, guide dogs, talking books and tapes, and Braille readers and writers.

Eligibility

Eligibility starts with veterans who are service-connected for blindness, followed by veterans who receive compensation for any disability or veterans who are eligible for VA medical services. Blinded veterans receiving compensation or pension receive medical or rehabilitative benefits.

An application for blind rehabilitation services includes:

- VA Form 1010, application for Medical Benefits and the companion VA From 10-10M, Medical Certificate and History and 10-10F when necessary;
- Cover Letter which summarizes the events that have lead to the referral;
- Physical examination which also document any conditions which may affect future rehabilitation;
- Complete ophthalmological report;
- Social work report;
- Audiological report;
- VA benefits rating sheet;
- Psychiatric and/or psychological report; and
- Copy of prosthetics, VA Form 10-2319.

Prosthetic Service

Veterans enrolled in the VA health care system for any condition may receive VA prosthetic appliances, equipment, and devices such as artificial limbs, orthopedic braces and shoes, wheelchairs, crutches and canes, and other durable medical equipment and supplies. Enrollment is not required for veterans needing prosthetics for a service-connected disability and veterans with a service-connected disability rated at 50% or more.

State Health Care Benefits (IDVA)

Illinois Veterans’ Care Program

Description of Benefit

The State of Illinois has recognized that as extensive as the federal VA healthcare system is, the federal government still does not provide comprehensive health insurance to thousands of veterans who have served their county. Many Illinois veterans are living without health insurance because they cannot afford it. The Veterans Care program attempts to address this problem by offering affordable, comprehensive healthcare to veterans across Illinois to qualifying veterans. Illinois is the first state in the nation to create a program like this.

Participants in the Veterans Care Program pay monthly premiums of $40 or $70 based on their income and county of residence. A participant will become ineligible for three months if there is a cancellation due to not paying premiums. There are also co-pays: Doctor visits - $15; Generic prescription drugs - $6; Name brand prescription drugs - $14; Hospital emergency room visits - $50; Hospital admissions - $150; Hospital or Ambulatory Out-patient treatment - 10% of covered services; Dental visits - $15.

The following is a basic list of the services covered: Hospital care; Doctor services; Prescription drugs; Care at clinics; Physical, occupational, and speech therapy; Laboratory tests and X-rays; Alcohol and substance abuse services; Medical equipment, supplies, and appliances; Emergency medical transportation; Hospice care; Home healthcare; Renal dialysis; Family planning; Optometric care; Podiatric care; Limited Dental care; Chiropractic care; Audiology services; and Mental health services.

For additional information and to apply, call 1-877-4VETSRX.

  - Residents of the Illinois Veterans Homes may be charged for care at a rate to be determined by the IDVA which is based on the resident's ability to pay. From 1979 through mid-2012, the amount could not exceed a maximum of $929. Some would pay the maximum, some would pay a percentage of this amount, and others pay nothing. Effective July 1, 2012, the maximum maintenance fee was raised and a couple of other changes were implemented as follows:

Summary

The eligibility requirements for health care benefits are among the most complex of all of your benefits. To make matters worse, eligibility for these benefits is constantly changing as our government downsizes. To get proper care and treatment, you must be an educated consumer. You should know what you are entitled to by law. Reading this book is only a start. Learn how to ask questions about your treatment. Teach yourself to be assertive in learning about your care and health care procedures. Most health care staff are happy to explain in detail what they are going to do when performing any procedure. Always ask about options. If you have any questions about whether or not you qualify for a health care benefit, talk to one of the sources of help described in Chapter 3.
CHAPTER FIVE: COMPENSATION FOR SERVICE-CONNECTED DISABILITIES AND NON-SERVICE-CONNECTED PENSION
Compensation for Service-Connected Disabilities and Non-Service-Connected Pension

Service-connected disability incurred or aggravated by military service is one of the most important benefits available to veterans. Service connection is the gateway to a variety of benefits, including compensation, educational benefits, medical care, and benefits for dependents. The greater the degree of service connection, the more benefits available to veterans and their families. Eligibility for non-service-connected pension also allows access to benefits such as a greater eligibility for VA health care.

Should a veteran or veteran’s advocate want to appeal the denial of compensation or pension benefits, the Compensation and Pension (C & P) Service Web page http://www.vba.va.gov/bln/21/index.htm will be very helpful in the preparation of the appeal. The veteran or advocate will be able to copy sections of the law, Board of Veteran Appeals (BVA) decisions, etc., directly into the Notice of Disagreement (NOD) or Appeal. There will be other references to this and related sites throughout this Chapter.

Description of Benefit

VA compensation is paid to veterans who have a service-connected disability rated at 10% or more. Those who are less than 10% receive no compensation but are still entitled to medical treatment for the condition. In some cases, veterans who have two disabilities rated at less than 10% will receive compensation at the 10% rate.19

To be considered service-connected, the veteran must win VA recognition of the disability as being service-connected by going through the VA claims process. Service connection of a disability has three main requirements: (1) there must have been an in-service occurrence, (2) there must be a current diagnosis, and (3) there must be a linkage between the diagnosis and the in-service occurrence.

Those who file a claim and are denied service connection, or who receive a rating less than they believe they should have, do have recourse. Any decision by the VA may be appealed. How to appeal will be discussed in Chapter Six: How to Appeal a Denial of Benefits.

Non-service-connected pension is a benefit for veterans who have at least one day of wartime service and at least 90 days of consecutive military service. In addition to the service requirements, the pension is based upon total family income from all sources.

More specifically, to be eligible for pension benefits, the VA has established five basic requirements: The veteran must (1) be discharged under other than dishonorable conditions; (2) complete a minimum period of service (either 24 months of continuous active duty or the full period for which the veteran was called to active duty, and also active service that includes a total of ninety days during one or more periods of war, or ninety or more consecutive days, one of which is during a period of war20 if the veteran enlisted in the military for the first time on or after September 8, 1980;21 (3) have limited income22 and a net worth that does not provide adequate maintenance; 23 and (4) be permanently and totally disabled at the time of the application for pension. 24 The disability need not be connected to their period of military service. Veterans aged sixty-five years and over are presumed to be permanently and totally disabled for pension purposes. 25

In order to apply for non-service-connected pension benefits, the Veteran should notify his or her local VA Regional Office in writing that the Veteran is seeking all benefits to which he or she may be entitled, specifically pension, and should ask the VA to provide the appropriate application form. This letter should include the veteran’s claim number or social security number. In most cases, the VA will require the veteran to fill out a VA Form 21-526 in order to perfect the informal claim for pension benefits. VA Form 21-526 can also be found on the VA website, www.va.gov/vaforms/.

The Veterans Benefits Act of 2003 expanded benefits available to Filipino veterans or their dependents living in the United States so that they may receive the full dollar amount in compensation (this includes the New Philippine Scouts). Filipino veterans are those who served during WWII in the organized military forces of the government of the Commonwealth of the Philippines or who served in organized guerilla units and New Philippine Scouts.

Allowances for Dependents

Veterans whose service-connected disabilities are rated at 30% or more are entitled to an additional allowance for dependents. The additional amount is determined by the number of dependents. A disabled veteran evaluated at 30% or more is also entitled to receive a special allowance for a spouse who is in need of the aid and attendance of another person. It is important, therefore, to submit a VA Form 686c, Declaration of Status of Dependents, with marriage certificates, birth certificates, divorce decrees, and any other proof that establishes dependency with any claims for benefits. The VA’s Web site, http://www.vba.va.gov/bln/21/Rates/comp01.htm, will give the veteran an idea of the difference in compensation payments for veterans with dependents. Also, 38 U.S.C. §1115, Additional Compensation for Dependents, describes the benefit.

Additionally, veterans who receive a non-service-connected pension will have the amount of pension increased based upon the number of dependents. However, the pension is also based upon total family income. If the spouse or dependent children are employed, that income counts when the VA determines eligibility.

Presumptive Service Connection

Congress has directed that certain conditions are to be presumed service-connected unless there is affirmative evidence to prove that particular veteran’s condition is not related to service. 26 The VA has also determined other diseases should be presumed service-connected. 27

In these cases, the VA will assume that a disease was incurred while the veteran was in service even if the veteran does not have enough evidence to directly link the condition to service.

Presumptive service connection is available for certain chronic diseases, tropical diseases, diseases specific to former prisoners of war, diseases specific to radiation-exposed veterans or to exposure to certain herbicide agents such as Agent Orange, and certain diagnosed and undiagnosed illnesses in veterans of the Gulf War.

Prisoners of War

Under 38 U.S.C. §1112(b), former prisoners of war are entitled to a presumption of service connection for disabilities resulting from certain diseases if manifested to a degree of 10% at any time after active service. The VA Web page http://www.benefits.va.gov/compensation/claims-postservice-pow.asp is especially useful for former Prisoners of War and their dependents and is very helpful in keeping up to date on benefits. Those who do not have access to a computer should call the Regional Office (1-800-827-1000) and go through the prompts. Once a veterans’ benefits counselor is on the line, ask to talk to the POW coordinator.

To be entitled to the prisoner of war presumption, Veterans must first establish that they were a prisoner of war. The definition of “prisoner of war” can be found at 38 U.S.C. § 101(32). Secondly, the Veteran must provide evidence of a current disability from the claimed condition that is at least 10 percent disabling.

Presumptive Diseases

Any nutritional deficiency, avitaminosis, and beriberi (including beriberi heart disease). The term beriberi heart disease includes ischemic heart disease in a former prisoner of war who experienced localized edema during captivity. Chronic dysentery, helminthiasis, malnutrition (including optic atrophy associated with malnutrition), pellagra, or any other nutritional deficiency. Post-traumatic osteoarthritis, irritable bowel syndrome, or peptic ulcer disease. Peripheral neuropathy except where directly related to infectious causes. New conditions added as a result of the Veterans Benefits Act of 2003: psychosis and any of the anxiety states, dysthymic disorder (or depressive neurosis), frostbite (including the organic residuals of frostbite if appropriate to where the veteran was held) and post-traumatic arthritis. New conditions under the October 2004 Amendments to the 2003 Act: Most heart diseases and stroke, including atherosclerotic heart disease or hypertensive vascular disease and their complications, and stroke and its complications. New condition under the Veterans’ Benefits Improvement Act of 2008: Osteoporosis, as long as the veteran also has posttraumatic stress disorder.

Exposure to Environmental Hazards

Veterans from all eras have been exposed in varying degrees to what have become known as “environmental hazards.” These hazards include, but are certainly not limited to, mustard gas,

Lewisite, radiation, Agent Orange, and Gulf War Syndrome. The VA now acknowledges that certain conditions are presumed to occur as a direct result of the exposure to these hazards and will award compensation to veterans who meet the requirements for presumption. Veterans may also contact the VA Regional Office at 1-800-827-1000 or visit http://www.benefits.va.gov/COMPENSATION/claims-postservice-exposures-index.asp for more information. Additionally, the VA maintains a Hazardous Exposure Toll Free Help Line at 1-800-749-8387. Each of the current environmental hazards, eligibility requirements, and presumptive conditions are discussed briefly below.

Radiation Exposure

Under certain circumstances, some more clearly defined than others, a veteran may establish eligibility for VA disability compensation and access to VA healthcare for any disease that the VA acknowledges stems from radiation exposure during military service. Importantly, one must recall that surviving spouses, dependent children and dependent parents of veterans who died as a result of such exposures may also be eligible for survivors’ benefits.

Radiation

As a starting point, one should know that radiation is energy, emitted from a source, that moves through space. Its contact with the human body can, depending on the circumstances, be harmful. More specifically, the risk of harm may differ based on whether the radiation is ionizing or non-ionizing. The form of radiation that most people think of in terms of veterans’ exposures is ionizing, the high-energy form with sufficient energy to remove an electron (ionize) an atom or molecule and sufficient energy to do harm to DNA. In the military, the following have been typical sources of ionizing radiation: (1) Nuclear weapons handling and detonation; (2) Weapons and other military equipment made with depleted uranium; (3) Radioactive material; (4) Calibration and measurement sources; and (4) X-rays.

If a veteran served on active duty or active duty for training as a member of the Guard or Reserve program and participated in “radiation risk activity,” he or she is a radiation-exposed veteran. If diagnosed as having any of the following conditions, the VA will presume that the condition(s) occurred as the direct result of exposure to radiation and give the veteran compensation based on its severity. Some of the listed conditions must have occurred five years or more after exposure to radiation.

Presumptive Conditions

Only diseases listed in 38 U.S.C. § 1112(c) and 38 CFR § 3.309(d) have the benefit of presumptive service connection. However, if a claim is based on a disease not listed as presumptively service connected, the VA must consider the claim as long as the veteran can provide competent scientific or medical evidence that the condition is a radiogenic disease under 38 CFR § 3.311(b)(2). Additionally, direct service connection is still available for any disease allegedly caused by radiation if the veteran can provide medical opinions that establish that it is “as likely as not” that the particular disease was caused by the veteran’s exposure to radiation while in service.

Diseases that are presumptively service connected include: leukemia (other than chronic lymphocytic leukemia); thyroid cancer; breast cancer; pharynx cancer; cancer of the esophagus; stomach cancer; cancer of the small intestine; cancer of the pancreas; multiple myeloma; lymphomas (except Hodgkin’s disease); cancer of the bile ducts; cancer of the gallbladder; primary liver cancer; cancer of the salivary gland; cancer of the urinary tract; and bronchiolo-aveolar carcinoma. In 2002, the following cancers were added: bone cancer, brain cancer, colon cancer, lung cancer, and cancer of the ovary.\footnote{67 Fed. Reg. 3,612, 3,615-16 (Jan. 25, 2002).}

Mustard Gas Exposure

If a veteran participated in any experiments, tested chemical suits, or was in any other way exposed to mustard gas during service, the following conditions are presumed to be caused by such exposure.

Presumptive Conditions

Chronic conjunctivitis, keratitis, corneal opacities, scar formation, or the following cancers: nasopharyngeal, laryngeal, lung (except mesothelioma), or squamous cell carcinoma of the skin, chronic form of laryngitis, bronchitis, emphysema, asthma or chronic obstructive pulmonary disease, and acute nonlymphocytic leukemia. \footnote{38 CFR § 3.316}

Asbestos Exposure

Veterans who were exposed to asbestos while in service and developed a disease related to asbestos exposure may receive service-connected compensation benefits. In order to qualify, the veteran must show (1) discharge under conditions other than dishonorable; (2) exposure to asbestos while in military service; (3) disease related to asbestos exposure that occurred in military service. This requires the veteran provide evidence of the veteran’s military occupation specialty and/or where the veteran was stationed. Visit the VA’s website for instructions on how to apply for service connection related to asbestos exposure.\footnote{http://www.benefits.va.gov/COMPENSATION/claims-postservice-exposures-asbestos.asp.}

The veteran may have been exposed to asbestos if he or she served in the following occupations: mining, milling, shipyard work, insulation work, demolition of old buildings, carpentry, construction, manufacturing and installation of products such as flooring, roofing, cement sheet, pipe products, or servicing of friction products such as clutch facings and brake linings.

Exposure to Contaminated Water at Camp Lejeune

Veterans who served at Camp Lejeune at any time between the years 1957 and 1985 may be entitled to service connection. The veteran must provide (1) evidence that he or she served at Camp Lejeune between the years 1957 and 1985; (2) evidence of a current disease; and (3) a medical opinion that the disease is a result of the contaminated water at Camp Lejeune. Visit the VA’s website for instructions on how to apply for service connection related to exposure to contaminated water at Camp Lejeune.

Diseases potentially associated with exposure to contaminated water at Camp Lejeune include but are not limited to: esophageal cancer, lung cancer, breast cancer, bladder cancer, kidney cancer, adult leukemia, multiple myeloma, myleodisplasic syndromes, renal toxicity, hepatic steatosis, female infertility, miscarriage (with exposure during pregnancy), scleroderma, and neurobehavioral effects.

Agent Orange Exposure

Veterans who served in Vietnam or in surrounding waters, and veterans who had duties that included visiting Vietnam, are presumed to have been exposed to Agent Orange. As a result, veterans who are diagnosed as having any of the conditions noted below may be eligible for compensation depending upon the degree of disability and the date of diagnosis.

Additionally, as a result of the passage of the Veterans Benefits and Health Care Improvement Act of 2000, the VA now will compensate and care for the children of Vietnam veterans who suffer from spina bifida and certain other “covered” birth defects that are not the result of familial disorders, birth related injuries, or fetal or neonatal infirmities with well-established causes. For more information, see later in the chapter.

Presumptive Conditions

Chloracne or other acne form disease consistent with chloracne; Hodgkin’s disease; multiple myeloma; Non-Hodgkin’s lymphoma; acute and subacute peripheral neuropathy (the term “acute and subacute peripheral neuropathy” means transient peripheral neuropathy that appears within weeks or months of exposure); AL Amyloidosis, chronic B-cell leukemias, diabetes mellitus (Type 2); ischemic heart disease; Parkinson’s disease; porphyra cutanea tarda; prostate cancer; respiratory cancers (cancer of the lung, bronchus, larynx, or trachea).

37 The VA decided to make it a presumptive condition effective, May 7, 2009.
38 The VA’s decision to recognize chronic B-cell leukemias took effect Oct. 30, 2010.
39 The VA’s decision to recognize ischemic heart disease took effect Oct. 30, 2010.
40 The VA’s decision to recognize Parkinson’s disease took effect Oct. 30, 2010.
Soft-tissue sarcoma (other than osteosarcoma, chondrosarcoma, Kaposi’s sarcoma, or mesothelioma). Soft-tissue sarcoma includes the following: adult fibrosarcoma, dermatofibrosarcoma protuberans, malignant fibrous histiocytoma, liposarcoma, leiomyosarcoma, epithelioid leiomyosarcoma (malignant leiomyoblastoma), rhabdomyosarcoma, ectomesenchymoma, angiosarcoma (hemangiosarcoma and lymphangiosarcoma), proliferating (systemic) angioendotheliomatosis, malignant glomus tumor, malignant hemangiopericytoma, synovial sarcoma (malignant synovioma), malignant giant cell tumor of tendon sheath, malignant schwannoma, including malignant schwannoma with rhabdomyoblastic differentiation (malignant Triton tumor), glandular and epithelioid malignant schwannoma, malignant mesenchymoma, malignant granular cell tumor, alveolar soft part sarcoma, epithelioid sarcoma, clear cell sarcoma of tendons and aponeuroses, extra skeletal Ewing’s sarcoma, congenital and infantile fibrosarcoma, malignant ganglioneur.

The VA has a Web page for Agent Orange conditions that contains the most current presumptive conditions and other information concerning exposure to Agent Orange. The Web site is http://www.vba.va.gov/bln/21/Benefits/Herbicide/index.htm#bm05. The VA also maintains an Agent Orange Helpline at 1-800-749-8387 [Press 3].

A veteran who wants to present a service-connection claim based on ischemic heart disease, hairy cell and other b-cell leukemias or Parkinson’s disease, may use the “Agent Orange Fast Track Claims Processing System” [https://www.fasttrack.va.gov/AOFastTrack/] if you served in the Republic of Vietnam or in-land waterways between January 9, 1962, and May 7, 1975. Please note that if you have previously submitted a claim for service-connection for these conditions, or if you wish to apply for service-connection for any additional conditions, you should apply using the traditional claims process.

Children of Veterans with Birth Defects

Benefits for Children of Veterans Who Served in Vietnam and Korea

Children of veterans who served in Vietnam and along the DMZ in Korea from September 1, 1967 to August 31, 1971, who suffer from spina bifida, including related complications, may be entitled to a variety of benefits. Such benefits include compensation, vocational training, medical and dental care, medical equipment, and mental health services.

Benefits for Children of Women Vietnam Veterans with Birth Defects

The Veterans Benefits and Health Care Improvement Act of 2000 made allowance to pay for compensation and care for the birth defects of children of women Vietnam veterans that (1) are associated with Vietnam service; and (2) result in permanent physical or mental disability. Not included are birth defects that are the result of a familial disorder, a birth-related injury, or a fetal or neonatal infirmity with well-established causes. To be eligible, the child must have been conceived after the veteran first entered Vietnam. Covered diseases include, but are not limited to, the following: achondroplasia, cleft lip and cleft palate, congenital heart disease, congenital talipes equinovarus (clubfoot), esophageal and intestinal atresia, Hallerman-Streiff syndrome, hip dysplasia, Hirschsprung's disease (congenital megacolon), hydrocephalus due to aqueductal stenosis, hypospadias, imperforate anus, neural tube defects, Poland syndrome, pyloric stenosis, syndactyly (fused digits), tracheoesophageal fistula, undescended testicle, and Williams syndrome. Additional information is available at the following website link: http://www.publichealth.va.gov/exposures/agentorange/conditions/birth_defects.asp.

How to Apply

Application for children with birth defects and spina bifida are made on VA Form 21-0304, Application for Benefits For Certain Children of Vietnam Veterans with Disabilities. This form is also available at any VA office. Once the form is completed, send it with the appropriate medical evidence confirming the disability to:

Department of Veterans Affairs
VA Regional Office (339/21)
PO Box 25126
Denver, CO  80225

If there are any questions, contact the VA at 1-888-820-1756 or e-mail the VA at Birthdefects@vba.va.gov. Health care information is also available by calling 1-888-820-1756.

Desert Storm Syndrome

Many veterans who served in the Gulf War have experienced severe medical problems. Desert Storm Syndrome has also affected the spouses and children of its victims. Gulf War veterans who experience, or whose spouses or children experience, the symptoms listed below should report to a VA Medical Center for an examination. The veteran should also file a claim with the VA for disability compensation. When the VA identifies what conditions are presumed to have occurred as a result of serving in the Gulf War, the effective date of compensation will be the date of claim, provided the veteran meets the criteria for service connection. If there is a question that the current condition was caused by service in the Gulf War, a claim should be filed anyway to protect eligibility.

Presumptive Conditions

For Gulf War veterans, the VA has recognized certain unexplained clusters of symptoms existing for six months or more as associated with military service in the Gulf. Illnesses include medically unexplained clusters of symptoms that have existed for six months or more, such as: chronic fatigue syndrome; fibromyalgia; irritable bowel syndrome; and any diagnosed or undiagnosed illness that the Secretary of Veterans Affairs determines should be presumed to be associated with Gulf War service. Information about health effects of military service during Operations Desert Shield, Desert Storm and Iraqi Freedom and related VA programs is available at http://www.publichealth.va.gov/exposures/gulfwar/index.asp.
Persian Gulf War, Operation Enduring Freedom, and Operation Iraqi Freedom Veterans

Under 38 CFR § 3.317, all veterans who have served in Southwest Asia since August 2, 1990 are entitled to presumptive service connection for undiagnosed illnesses, and certain medically unexplained chronic multi-symptom illnesses, such as fibromyalgia, chronic fatigue syndrome, and irritable bowel syndrome, and some infectious diseases.

In order to be entitled to presumptive service connection under this section, (1) the veteran must qualify as a Persian Gulf War veteran; (2) the veteran must suffer from “a qualifying chronic disability”; and (3) the disability must have become manifest during active military service in the Southwest Asia theater of operations or to a degree of 10 percent at any time since the veteran’s return from active duty in Southwest Asia.

Service Connection for Posttraumatic Stress Disorder

In order to qualify for service connection for PTSD, a veteran must show (1) medical evidence diagnosing the condition in accordance with 38 CFR §4.125(a); (2) medical evidence of a link between current symptoms and an in-service stressor; and (3) supporting evidence that the stressor occurred. In order to qualify for service connection for PTSD, the veteran must show that it is “as likely as not” that each of these three factors exist.

Chronic Diseases

Under 38 U.S.C. §1112(a), a chronic disease is presumed to be service-connected if it manifested itself to a degree of 10 percent or more within one year from the date of separation from service. The idea behind this is that if a chronic disease manifests itself very close to the time the veteran was separated from service, it is likely that the veteran had the disease during service. Different disabilities have different presumptive periods. For the presumption to apply, the disease must be one listed under 38 U.S.C. §1101(3), or adopted by the VA in 38 CFR § 3.309(a) (2012). If the veteran can show (1) he or she developed one of the listed diseases during or shortly after service, (2) and current disability from the disease, it will be service-connected even if there is no evidence of a link between the current disability and the veteran’s service, and even if the veteran does not apply for benefits for many years.
Amyotrophic Lateral Sclerosis

Under 38 CFR § 3.318, presumptive service connection is available to any veteran who develops Amyotrophic Lateral Sclerosis (also known as ALS or Lou Gehrig’s disease) at any time after discharge or release from service. In order to qualify, the veteran must have had at least 90 days of active continuous service. The earliest effective date for benefits granted under this section is September 23, 2008, even if the veteran was diagnosed with ALS before this date.48

Tropical Diseases

Under 38 U.S.C. §1112(a)(2), the VA must apply a presumption of service connection to tropical diseases that manifest to a degree of 10 percent or more within one year from discharge from active service. This presumption also covers disorders that result from the treatment of a tropical disease.49

Tropical diseases under this section include: amebiasis; blackwater fever; cholera; dracontiasis; dysentery; filariasis; leishmaniasis, including kala-azar; loiasis; malaria; onchocerciasis; oroya fever; pinta; plague; schistosomiasis; yaws; and yellow fever.50

Service-Connection of Non-Presumptive Conditions

If a veteran, dependent, or survivor believes that a condition is a result of an exposure to an environmental hazard but the condition is not listed as presumptive, a claim may still be filed and be successful, provided that the veteran has cited or submitted competent scientific or medical evidence that the claimed condition is a disease caused by exposure. This medical evidence must be of two types: medical statements that link the veteran’s disease to exposure and scientific evidence that establishes a linkage of the disease to such exposure.

Eligibility Requirements for VA Compensation

Requirements Based on Military Service

The veteran must be discharged or released from service under conditions other than dishonorable. The veteran must also have a recognized disabling injury or illness that was incurred or aggravated in the line of duty during active service. This also includes Guard and Reserve duty. The veteran may also qualify if diagnosed with one of the presumptive conditions listed above.

How to Establish Proof of Service-Connection

Establishing a Well-Grounded Claim

Since the passage of the Veterans Claims Assistance Act of 2000 (VCAA), the need to establish a well-grounded claim is no longer as stringent as it was when the VA was forced to apply it by the Court of Appeals for Veteran Claims (CAVC). However, it is still important to understand the basics of a well-grounded claim. A well-grounded claim is one that has supporting evidence that is deemed sufficient enough to justify “a belief by a fair and impartial individual that the claim is plausible.”

Medical Discharge

Veterans who receive a medical discharge from service may qualify easily. The VA will usually accept the discharge as proof of service-connection, especially when either severance pay or disability retirement is granted. Please note that the VA must recoup severance pay before VA compensation can be paid. In the case of those who receive military retired pay, the veteran must waive that portion of retired pay that is equal to the VA compensation or waive retired pay to receive VA compensation as the greater benefit. This waiver only affects compensation and retired pay; no other benefits from the VA or military are affected. The sooner the VA starts recouping the severance pay, the sooner the veteran will get the compensation. Also, should the disability increase in severity at any time after separation, the veteran should apply for an increase in disability.

Medical or Psychiatric Examination

If the veteran did not receive a medical discharge, service-connection still may be granted provided the veteran is able to provide enough evidence to show that the claimed condition had its start in the military. If the claim is considered well-grounded by the VA, they will schedule a compensation and pension examination. If, in the opinion of the examining physician, the disability in question is related to military service and the Service Medical Records indicate that treatment for the condition occurred while on active duty, the claim may be granted. In the case of PTSD, the service records must show that the veteran was involved in combat or some other life-threatening or similar stressor.

Other Important Factors to Consider

Establishing Linkage – A Key Element in Proving Service-Connection

It is critical to the veteran to be able to show evidence that will prove a link between something that happened during service and the present disability. In attempting to establish this “linkage,” military records should be reviewed to see what entries in the medical or personal records might support the claim. Look for any entry which might show some connection to the claimed condition. If there are no such entries, consider developing witnesses who may have knowledge of the injury or condition. The witness may be an individual who served with the veteran or who knew the veteran shortly after separation from the military. Letters the veteran may have written home that discuss the event or injury are also a good source. Another good source of service information are unit morning reports obtainable from the Record Processing Center in St. Louis. Operational Journals are a good source especially for PTSD claims.

Tip: Keep records of visits to private physicians for treatment of the condition that might be service related. These records can help greatly in determining the linkage and progression of a disabling condition. There have been several cases won in which lay statements were used to describe symptoms of conditions believed to have occurred in the military or within the one-year presumptive period. These are most effective when backed up by a physician statement.

Understanding What “Incurred or Aggravated” Means

A condition that was incurred during military service refers to a wound, injury, or illness that the veteran suffered during service. In some cases the incident is immediately disabling; in others, the condition can worsen later and become disabling after separation from the military.

Disabling conditions that are aggravated during service also qualify the veteran for compensation. If a person enters service with a known medical condition and if during service that condition is aggravated as a direct result of service, the individual would qualify for compensation. Even if a condition pre-existed service but manifested itself while on active duty, it may still be service-connected.51

Understanding the “Line of Duty” Requirement

The veteran’s disability must have arisen “in the line of duty.” The “Line of Duty” requirement relates to when the veteran was serving on active military service. Under 38 U.S.C.
§105, a veteran is entitled to compensation for any disability resulting from injury incurred or disease contracted during a period of active military service, unless such injury or disease is the result of the veteran’s own willful misconduct or abuse of alcohol or drugs.

The Veterans Claims Assistance Act of 2000 (VCAA) and the Duty to Assist

Prior to the passage of the VCAA, the VA had to first “well ground” the claim before the duty to assist was triggered. This placed a tremendous hardship on the claimant. The passage of the VCAA firmly establishes the VA’s duty to assist in the development of a claim for benefits.
The VA still has the right not to assist the claimant if there is no reasonable possibility of the claim being successful. The duty to assist has two main parts. Once the VA receives a claim, it will notify the claimant by letter of the information needed to “substantiate” the claim. In that same letter, the VA will inform the claimant of the evidence they, the VA, are required by law to obtain.

Chapter Five 55
38 U.S.C. § 5103A. Duty to assist claimants mandates that the VA make “reasonable” efforts to assist those claiming VA benefits in the development of evidence needed to substantiate their claim. This “reasonable effort” includes requesting military records and private records that are identified by the claimant. However, the VA is not mandated to pay for those records. Additionally, 38 CFR §3.159(a) states in part that the VA “shall assist a claimant in developing the facts pertinent to his or her claim.” This means that the VA must help the veteran develop evidence. They can do this by requesting military personnel records or Service Medical Records (SMRs). They can also request after action reports, morning reports, or any other government information that may assist the veteran in proving the claim.

The VA can also (if authorized by use of release forms), obtain records from private hospitals, out-patient treatment facilities, and private physicians. Having the VA obtain records can save a lot of aggravation and research. It can also save money in copying fees. Many times private agencies that would charge for copies of medical records will waive the fee if the VA asks for them. Sometimes, however, it is quicker for the veteran or his representative to obtain records on his or her own rather than wait for the VA. Remember that under the Freedom of Information Act (FOIA), veterans may obtain complete copies of all records pertaining to their service. It also allows the veteran or representative to review the records prior to submitting them to the VA.

How to Apply for Disability Compensation

- Write and mail a letter to the VA stating the benefit for which the veteran wishes to apply and the circumstances surrounding the benefit. This acts as an informal claim. The VA will then send the proper claim form. An informal claim protects the date of the award.

- Fill out VA Form 21-526, “Veteran’s Application for Compensation and/or Pension.”

- If a VA Form 21-526, “Veteran’s Application for Compensation or Pension,” was already completed, a letter or VA Form 4138 “Statement in Support of Claim” is all that is necessary. In the case of compensation or pension, the veteran or representative should simply state the benefit sought. If it concerns an increase in compensation, the veteran or representative should simply state the service-connected disability and how it has increased in severity.

- Apply at the nearest VA office.

Total Disability Based on Individual Unemployability

If you do not have a 100 percent disability rating from the VA but are still unable to secure a substantially gainful occupation due to your disabilities, you may qualify for total disability based on individual unemployability (TDIU). A 100 percent TDIU rating takes into consideration the effect your service-connected disabilities have on your ability to work. There are two requirements for a claim for TDIU, and the veteran must fulfill both: (1) the veteran’s service-connected disability ratings must satisfy certain percentage requirements; and (2) the veteran must show that he or she cannot secure a “substantially gainful occupation” due to his or her disabilities.

To fulfill the first requirement, if the veteran has one service-connected disability, it must be rated at 60 percent or more. If the veteran has more than one service-connected disability, at least one disability must be rated at 40 percent, and the combined disability rating must be 70 percent or more. The VA does not provide a definition of “substantially gainful occupation” in regards to the second requirement for a TDIU claim. However, it has been construed to mean “an occupation that provides the veteran with an annual income that exceeds the poverty threshold for one person, irrespective of the number of hours or days that the veteran actually works.”

The best way to apply for TDIU is to submit a VA Form 21-8940, or by sending the VA a letter stating that you wish to pursue TDIU benefits and requesting the VA send all appropriate forms so your claim can be perfected.

Temporary TDIU ratings are also available under 38 CFR § 4.16. The VA will consider these claims on a case by case basis, and the veteran’s employment history and current employment status, the veteran’s annual income from employment (if any), and the frequency and duration of periods of incapacity or time lost from work due to disability.

Secondary Service Connection

Under 38 CFR § 3.310 (2012), service connection is also available for almost any condition that is a result of or worsened by a service-connected disability. It does not matter when the secondary condition manifests, as long as there is sufficient medical evidence to show that it is a result of the service-connected condition.

The process for applying for secondary service connection is the same as applying for service connection, except that a claim for secondary service connection requires the veteran to provide medical evidence that the non-service-connected condition was caused or aggravated by a service-connected condition.

Non-Service-Connected Disability Pension (NSC Pension)

“Disability pension” is a monthly payment made to wartime non-service-connected veterans who are permanently and totally disabled. The amount of the payment depends on the veteran’s total family income from all sources.

52 38 CFR § 4.16 (2012).
53 38 CFR § 4.16(a) (2012).
54 38 CFR § 4.16(a) (2012).
Eligibility Requirements

The veteran must have been discharged or released from service under conditions other than dishonorable after 90 days or more service unless separated from service earlier because of a service-connected disability. At least one day of service must have been during wartime.

The veteran must be permanently and totally disabled, but not due to willful misconduct or vicious habits. The veteran’s personal assets and income (combined veteran, spouse, and dependent children) must be below levels specified by the VA.

Description of Benefits

Improved Pension

This is the only pension allowed to recently disabled veterans. The improved pension program provides for annual rates paid in monthly allotments. The annual amount is reduced by the amount of the annual countable income of the veteran, spouse, and dependent children. Call the VA to get help in determining your monthly rate.

The following pension programs are still in effect for those veterans who were awarded while the pension law was in effect.

306 (Public Law 86-211) Pension

Countable income includes all income received by the individual, less specific exclusions. The income received by the veteran’s spouse is countable income under certain circumstances. The income limitations vary each year; call the VA for the current rate.

Old Law Pension – Entitlement Prior to July 1, 1960

Reduction While in Hospital, Nursing Home, or Domiciliary

When a veteran without a spouse or child is being furnished hospital, nursing home, or domiciliary care by the VA, the pension is reduced.

Aid and Attendance or Housebound

A veteran who is a patient in a skilled care nursing home, is otherwise determined by the VA to be in need of the regular aid and attendance of another person, or is permanently housebound may be entitled to higher income limitations or additional benefits, depending on the type of pension received.

Tip: Veterans who are eligible for a VA pension should investigate whether they might not be better off receiving Supplemental Social Security Income and Medicaid. The acceptance of a VA pension could cause the veteran to lose these other allowances, which in some cases, could be greater. Discuss this matter thoroughly with your representative before filing a claim.
In counting income, the VA will use medical expenses, including over-the-counter medicines, as a deduction. If the veteran’s income is excessive and if medical expenses can be shown by receipt, the veteran may be able to lower the income enough to receive pension benefits.

How to Apply for Disability Pension

- Fill out VA Form 21-526, “Veteran’s Application for Compensation and/or Pension.”
- Apply at the nearest VA office.

Impact of Incarceration on the Receipt of VA Benefits

Under certain circumstances, the VA will continue to pay certain benefits to Veterans who are incarcerated.

Incarceration and VA Disability Compensation

VA disability compensation benefits remain untouched if the veterans is imprisoned for a misdemeanor conviction. However, the same is not true in the case of a felony. A veteran’s monthly disability payment will be lowered after 60 days of imprisonment for a felony. How much the benefit is reduced depends on the veteran’s disability rating. For those rated at 10% before incarceration, the new payment will be half the 10% rate. For those with a disability rating greater than 10%, the new payment will be at the 10% rate.

Incarceration and VA Pension

A veteran’s monthly pension payment will be eliminated after 60 days of imprisonment for conviction of a felony or a misdemeanor.

Eligibility for VA Medical Care While Imprisoned

A veteran cannot receive VA medical care while incarcerated. The VA highlights that, in this case, the eligibility for healthcare is not the issue. An incarcerated veteran does not lose his or her eligibility for VA healthcare due to incarceration. The result, however, for the period of incarceration, is the same. The VA reports that current federal regulations restrict it from offering hospital and outpatient care to incarcerated veterans who are inmates of another governmental agency’s institution when that agency has a duty to give the care or services.

Once a veteran is unconditionally released from the institution, he or she may apply for enrollment into the VA healthcare system. At such a time, contact the nearest VA healthcare facility.

Receipt of VA Benefits Not Paid During Imprisonment by Dependents?

Although one can see from the above, the impact of incarceration on the Veteran’s receipt of VA benefits, the VA can pay (apportion) all or part of those withheld (otherwise unpaid) benefits to the incarcerated veteran’s spouse, child or children, and dependent parents on the basis of individual need. Family members of an incarcerated veteran should contact the nearest VA regional office or other qualified veterans service officer for more information on how to apply. Family members must be prepared to provide income information to support any such application.

Resumption of VA Benefits

Within 30 days of a veteran’s projected release from incarceration (based on confirmation from a parole board or other suitable official prison source), a veteran may notify the VA and request the future resumption of the veteran’s VA benefits. Release from incarceration includes parole, work release or a half-way house program. A veteran should not delay in making such a request as the award for compensation or pension will resume from the date of release from incarceration if the VA gets the veteran’s notice within one year after the release. In certain cases, the VA may request the veteran to submit to a medical examination to determine if the disability has changed.

Summary

Compensation and pension benefits are two very important benefits. Having either one gives the veteran eligibility to other benefits that can be of great help to a veteran and his or her family. As mentioned in previous chapters and throughout the rest of this book, service-connected veterans always get priority treatment for their service-connected disabilities. If the service-connected disability/disabilities is/are severe enough, a wide range of other benefits become available to the veteran and his or her family.

Veterans who receive pension benefits also become eligible, or more eligible, for medical care by the VA. This is becoming more and more important as eligibility for VA medical care is tightened by the cutback in VA funding.

If you believe that you have a service-connected disability, DO NOT WAIT TO FILE. DO IT NOW. The sooner you file after separation, the easier it is to service-connect your disability. Conversely, the longer you wait, the harder it is. Also, seek help in filing and developing your claim. This cannot be stressed enough – Veteran Service Organizations can be a great help. Read Chapter Three: Sources of Help in Obtaining Benefits.

If you are totally disabled as the result of a non-service-connected disability and are a war era veteran, you may be eligible for a non-service-connected pension. The effective date of the pension is the date your claim reaches the VA Regional Office, so do not wait to file your claim.
CHAPTER SIX: HOW TO APPEAL A DENIAL OF BENEFITS
HOW TO APPEAL A DENIAL OF BENEFITS

It’s always a shock when you are notified that your claim has been denied. If you believe that the VA acted incorrectly, take advantage of your right of appeal. Both the VA and the IDVA have an appeal process designed to review such denials and, where the denial is shown to be wrong, to reverse the decision and award the benefit. The purpose of this chapter is to familiarize you with how the appeal process works and how you can best make it work in your favor.

Federal Appeals (VA)

When the VA makes a decision on a claim, they send a letter with a copy of the Rating Decision to the veteran and his or her representative. Along with the Rating Decision and letter, a notice of the veteran’s right to appeal the decision is also sent. Should the veteran disagree with any or all of the Rating Decision, the veteran may choose to appeal. The start of the appeal process is a letter sent to the VA stating the disagreement. This letter is called a Notice of Disagreement (NOD). The NOD should be submitted to the Regional Office that issued the adverse decision, and must be filed within one year from the date of mailing of the VA notice of the adverse decision. The VA will consider an NOD postmarked before the expiration of the one-year deadline to be timely filed.\(^{57}\)

The Notice of Disagreement informs the VA that the veteran disagrees with a decision made by the VA Regional Office or VA Medical Center. Upon receipt of the NOD, the VA will do one of two things. They will consider the NOD and determine whether there is what they believe to be a reasonable complaint with the Rating Decision that would warrant further development. As an example, a veteran may state that certain evidence submitted was not considered or other factor(s) such as the compensation and pension examination was too short or not well done. This type of complaint may cause the VA to reconsider or further develop the claim. If they do, a new Rating Decision will be sent to the veteran upon completion and the process may start all over again, with the veteran accepting or rejecting the decision.

If the VA accepts the NOD and does not further develop the claim, they will issue a Statement of the Case (SOC). Along with the SOC, the VA will send a letter acknowledging the receipt of the Notice of Disagreement and ask the veteran if he or she would like to have the case considered by a Decision Review Officer. The letter will also contain instructions on how to appeal by completing a VA Form 9. Statistically speaking, many initial decisions by rating boards to deny benefits are overturned by DRO’s, and therefore it is highly advisable to request a DRO hearing after the notice of the initial decision and before filing a VA Form 9. A DRO post-decision hearing is an opportunity to have your case personally reviewed, and your claim possibly granted, before filing your formal appeal to the BVA. This is a significant benefit since it generally takes the Regional Office more than a year to forward a veteran’s claims file to the BVA for a decision.\(^{58}\) The VA Form 9 is also a very important step in the appeals process, and must be submitted in order to perfect an appeal to the Board of Veterans Appeals (discussed below). The VA Form 9 should be submitted to the Regional Office that issued the adverse decision.\(^{57}\) decision, and must be filed within 60 days from the date of mailing of the SOC, or within the remainder of the one-year period from the mailing of the notice of decision from the RO, whichever period ends later.\textsuperscript{59}

If the veteran requests a hearing before a DRO, the DRO has several options once he or she receives the veteran’s case. A DRO may:

- Call the veteran and discuss the case over the telephone informally.
- Conduct a formal hearing in which the veteran and witnesses are put under oath.
- Review the claim and issue a new Rating Decision awarding the veteran everything claimed, awarding part of the claim, or denying the claim.

Some veterans want to appear in person before a DRO. These DRO hearings are treated like any hearing. The veteran and any witnesses will be placed under oath. The veteran and his or her representative will present an argument and submit any new evidence in support of the claim. The DRO may question the veteran and any witnesses. The proceedings are recorded and the veteran may request a copy of the transcript if desired. Once the DRO makes his decision, the veteran and his or her representative will get a copy of the decision. If a Statement of the Case was issued prior to the DRO decision, a Supplemental Statement of the Case will be issued and the veteran will be given a time period to submit an additional statement or new evidence. If a Statement of the Case was not issued prior, a Statement of the Case will be issued along with the VA Form 9 discussed above.

Should the veteran still disagree with the decision, the claim may be forwarded to the Board of Veteran Appeals (BVA) for final VA consideration. The BVA is the final stop in the VA appeal process and ends the informal appeal process. Should the veteran wish to continue the appeal, the claim file will be sealed in preparation for being sent to the Court of Appeals for Veterans Claims. No new evidence may be considered by the Court. The veteran will be given 120 days to appeal to the Court of Appeals for Veterans Claims. If after 120 days the veteran has not acted to continue the appeal, the BVA’s decision becomes final.

The Court of Appeals for Veterans Claims is completely independent of the VA. The court considers only the evidence of record when the BVA made its final decision. No new evidence may be added to the record. The Court may only review the case on matters of law and regulation. In other words, the Court will consider whether or not the VA followed its rules and regulations appropriately. The Court has full authority to award all or part of the benefits sought, confirm the VA’s denial, or remand the case back to the VA for further processing.

Since its inception in 1989, the Court of Appeals for Veterans Claims has forever changed the way the VA considers claims brought before it. Perhaps the greatest change is that the VA must apply the rules of evidence when considering a claim. They can no longer pick and choose which evidence to use when they rate a claim. Nor can they ignore evidence submitted by a claimant, including private medical records. The court has forced the VA to consider several doctrines that help veterans in the claim process.

The veteran may, at any time during the VA appeal process, develop new evidence and have it considered by the VA Regional Office (VARO) or waive Regional Office consideration and have it considered by the BVA without VARO looking at the evidence. This type of tactic should be discussed with a Veteran Service Officer.

Before Appealing

Before filing a Notice of Disagreement and starting the appeal process, take a look at the denial letter and the enclosed copy of the Rating Decision. The Rating Decision explains, in the Reason and Basis for Decision, the reasons for awarding or denying the claim. It will include the VA Regional Office’s interpretation of the evidence considered, including the compensation and pension examination. When reviewing the Rating Decision, consider the following:

- Is all the evidence submitted listed under the evidence section of the Rating Decision? If not, the VA should be contacted by letter and asked to review the unlisted evidence and issue a new Rating Decision.
- Is each piece of evidence listed under the evidence section of the Rating Decision discussed in the Reason and Basis for Decision? Simply listing the evidence is not enough – it must be discussed in context and in relationship to the disability and all other evidence considered by the Rating Specialist.
- Would statements from friends or people the veteran served with help explain the case?
- Does the VA have all of the information needed to rate the claim favorably?
- Are there medical records that were not submitted?

It is strongly suggested that veterans contact one of the sources listed in Chapter Three to obtain help in reviewing the denial. Veterans Organizations are skilled in representing veterans before the VA. They can also help in developing information that may cause the VA to view the claim favorably. If, however, the veteran chooses to “go it alone,” it is important to remember that the VA bases its decisions on evidence. Therefore, the more hard evidence one can provide in support of the claim the better.

The first step in the appeal process is the Notice of Disagreement. The Notice of Disagreement is a letter from the veteran or his or her representative stating a disagreement with the decision. The letter may be as long or as short as desired. All that is necessary is a brief statement that could be as simple as, “I disagree with the Rating Decision. Please send me a Statement of the Case.” Or, the letter could be a point-by-point statement that lists each issue and the reasons for the disagreement.

BVA Consideration of a Claim

Once a claim is appealed to the BVA, the appeal process takes on some new rules and procedures. These rules and procedures are found both in 38 U.S.C. and 38 C.F.R. Generally, the VA operates in a similar manner except the case is now in Washington, D.C.

Veterans are given several options concerning their case, most of which the veteran can select on the VA Form 9. They may choose to appear before a BVA Hearing Officer and present their case personally or with a representative. These hearings take several forms. A veteran may appear before the Traveling Board of Veteran Appeals at a local Regional Office, have a video conference, or even go to Washington, D.C., to appear in person. The veteran may also choose to allow the case to be decided without an appearance. In this case, if there is a Veteran Service Organization representing the veteran, the VSO will file a formal brief and argue the case for the veteran.

Personal Appearance in Washington, D.C.

Choosing a personal hearing in Washington, D.C., has the same advantages of appearing before a video conference or the Traveling Board of Veteran Appeals at your local VA Regional Office. However, it costs a lot more. Hearings are scheduled at the convenience of the claimant and his or her representative. The claimant or representative may request a new hearing date only if it is made within 60 days of the notification letter, or at least two weeks prior to the hearing date, whichever is earlier. The address to send this request can be found at 38 CFR § 20.702(c)(1). However, once the date becomes fixed and the claimant fails to appear for the scheduled hearing, the BVA will consider the hearing request withdrawn. Therefore, it is extremely important to make sure you can attend your scheduled hearing, and to promptly inform the VA if you cannot attend for whatever reason.

Personal Hearing with BVA Traveling Board

You can eliminate the time and expense of a trip to Washington by requesting a hearing before a BVA traveling board. The members of the BVA go to VAROs throughout the country to sit in personal hearing sessions. On the plus side, this option provides all the advantages of a face-to-face meeting. A disadvantage of a personal hearing before the Traveling BVA is that you may have to wait as long as a year or more for the hearing.

Videoconference Hearing

The video conference is a new method of appearing before a member of the BVA. It works the same as a face-to-face hearing except the BVA member is in Washington, D.C., and the veteran and his or her representative are at the local VARO. It is highly beneficial for a claimant to request a videoconference hearing to avoid the time delay typically associated with a personal appearance or travel board hearing, but only if the claimant has already obtained all evidence he or she plans on using at the hearing. This is important because a request for a videoconference hearing will put your hearing on the fastest possible path, and may not allow you much time to obtain additional evidence.

BVA Review without a Personal Appearance

Another option open to you is to request a BVA review of your claim without a personal appearance. The BVA will review the facts contained in the claims file and make a decision as described earlier. It is here that VSOs and attorneys can be very helpful. Trained VSOs and attorneys are highly skilled in writing appellate briefs to the BVA. It is strongly suggested that you have assistance in the preparation of a written appeal, but if you choose to go it alone the information contained later in this chapter will prove helpful.

60Requests for a new hearing date must be filed with: Director, Management and Administration (01E), Board of Veterans’ Appeals, 810 Vermont Avenue, NW., Washington, DC 20420.
The advantages of a BVA review without a personal appearance are cost and time. You’ll save on travel expenses. It’s also likely that you’ll get a faster decision, since your case will be processed without the long wait it takes for a personal hearing. By choosing this option, however, you will lose the advantage of pleading your case in a face-to-face situation. This means your written appeal must be especially strong in its presentation of your case.

Results of the BVA Review or Hearing

Once the BVA has reviewed your case, you’ll be notified that your claim has been decided in one of three ways.

1. The BVA may agree that you are entitled to the benefit and reverse the VARO decision. The BVA would then order your VARO (that denied the benefit) to correct its error and award your benefit. In this case, of course, you have won and your long appeal process is over.

2. The BVA may “remand,” or return, your case to your VARO, or send it to the VA’s Appeals Management Center (AMC). While not in the form of an actual ruling, the BVA “remand” indicates that something was wrong in the VARO’s denial. The BVA is telling the VARO or AMC to develop the case further and/or consider the evidence that the veteran brought to the BVA appeal. When the BVA remands a case, the chances are generally good that the VARO or AMC will reconsider and award the benefit.

3. The BVA may uphold the original VARO decision and deny the appeal.

Options After a BVA Decision

Reconsideration by the BVA

A veteran may ask that the BVA reconsider his or her case. To do this, the veteran should send a letter asking the BVA to reconsider the claim. This letter should include at the very least the veteran’s name, the name of the claimant if other than the veteran, the claimant’s VA file number, the date of the relevant BVA decision, and the specific issues the Veteran would like to be reconsidered. Occasionally, the BVA will overlook an important point or not have all the evidence that was submitted with the claim. The VA often establishes a temporary claim file and sometimes evidence in the temporary file does not connect with the claim file during the appeal process. A request to reconsider should state clearly why the claim should be reconsidered. It should be based upon a key issue such as evidence not being considered in the appeal or a part of the law that was not addressed.

Review by Secretary of Veterans Affairs

Generally, there are two reasons the Secretary of Veterans Affairs may review cases and reverse a denial.

The first reason is if an appeal is denied due to administrative error “on the part of the Federal Government.” This usually refers to an error in the veteran’s military records that barred the veteran from receiving benefits. For example, a veteran claiming service-connected disability may have had his or her claim denied because appropriate entries providing the connection were not made in his records. If the veteran can prove that the service-connected medical condition should have been logged in his or her medical records, he or she has grounds for a new appeal. However, if such an administrative error by the government was the cause of the first denial, the veteran should not waste his or her time going all the way “up the ladder” of the appeal process. Early on, the veteran should try to correct the error (e.g., by applying to his or her former branch of service for correction of military records).

The second reason for an appeal to the Secretary of Veterans Affairs (after you’ve been unable to sway the BVA) is if you have suffered a financial loss due to VA error. In one successful case, a veteran asked the VA if he would continue to receive educational benefits if he transferred to a certain school. The VA replied that he would. Later, the VA notified the veteran that it had made an error. The school was not VA approved, and the veteran’s educational payments were cut off. The veteran made a successful case to the effect that he would not have made the transfer if the VA had not misled him.

As described above, you do have rights of appeal, even after you’ve lost an appeal to the BVA. But, before exercising such rights, you should be aware that this option is open only in certain specific situations. You should also be forewarned that it could be very difficult to win your case.

Rules and Regulations to Consider When Appealing

“Benefit of the Doubt” and “Time, Place and Circumstance of Service”

Under the provisions of 38 CFR §3.102 Reasonable Doubt, the VA is mandated by law to give every veteran the “benefit of the doubt” when processing a claim. This means that “all things being equal” the claim must be decided in favor of the veteran.

In cases involving combat veterans, the VA must also consider what is known as “Time, Place and Circumstance of Service.” Found at 38 U.S.C. §1154, “Time, Place, and Circumstance of Service” is one of the most important parts of the law when claiming a disability that occurred as the result of combat. In combat situations, records are not kept of every incident. Sometimes a veteran may receive what may seem a minor wound or injury. He or she may even be treated for it at an aid station or field hospital. However, the record of the injury may never be associated with the veteran’s medical records. Being in combat may also be a factor in establishing the disability (as in PTSD cases). Under this doctrine, the VA must accept as fact lay evidence if it is consistent with the “time, place and circumstance of service,” or disprove it by “clear and convincing evidence to the contrary.” See 38 U.S.C. § 1154 Consideration to be Accorded Time, Place, and Circumstance of Service.

There are two parts to 38 U.S.C. §1154. Part (a) states in part:
(a) The Secretary shall include in the regulations pertaining to service-connection of disabilities (1) additional provisions in effect requiring that in each case where a veteran is seeking service-connection for any disability due consideration shall be given to the places, types, and circumstances of such veteran’s service as shown by such veteran’s service record, the official history of each organization in which such veteran served, such veteran’s medical records, and all pertinent medical and lay evidence...

Simply put, in weighing evidence, the VA must consider if the circumstance under which the disability occurred is consistent with the veteran’s job at the time of occurrence.

Part (b) of this section places a stronger mandate on the VA if the disability occurred under combat conditions. Part (b) states in part:

(b) In the case of any veteran who engaged in combat with the enemy in active service...the Secretary shall accept as sufficient proof of service-connection of any disease or injury alleged to have been incurred in or aggravated by such service satisfactory lay or other evidence of service incurrence or aggravation of such injury or disease, if consistent with the circumstances, conditions, or hardships of such service, notwithstanding the fact that there is no official record of such incurrence or aggravation in such service, and, to that end, shall resolve every reasonable doubt in favor of the veteran. Service-connection of such injury or disease may be rebutted by clear and convincing evidence to the contrary. The reasons for granting or denying service-connection in each case shall be recorded in full.

This section directs the VA to more heavily weigh evidence if the claimed condition occurred under combat conditions. The VA may only deny a claim if there is “clear and convincing evidence to the contrary.”

The doctrines of “Benefit of the Doubt” and “Time, Place and Circumstance of Service” are two very important principles. Because of these principles, veterans do not have to prove conclusively that they suffered an injury or disease in the service. They just have to produce enough evidence to outweigh the evidence in the file that is against awarding the benefit.

Duty to Assist

Found in 38 CFR §3.159 Department of Veteran Affairs assistance in developing claims, the VA has a “Duty to Assist” the veteran in developing facts “pertinent to his or her claim.” This does not mean that the veteran should expect the VA to do all the work. It does, however, mean that the VA must provide reasonable assistance in developing the veteran’s claim. This assistance includes contacting other government agencies; obtaining and requesting pertinent medical or psychiatric examinations, etc.; obtaining after action reports from the veteran’s branch of service; and obtaining any other reasonable information.

When considering an appeal, one should review the evidence considered by the VA. Are military medical records listed in the evidence portion of the Rating Decision? What about other records that the veteran may have notified the VA about – were they obtained and considered? If they are not listed in the evidence section, did the VA discuss why the evidence was not obtained in the Reasons and Basis section? If not, this is a point to consider in appealing.

Presumption of Soundness

Found in 38 U.S.C. § 1111, presumption of sound condition mandates that when the veteran entered service he or she was presumed to be physically and mentally sound, unless otherwise noted on the record. Entrance and exit examinations are a good source of review. Many times the entrance examination will have no physical defects listed, but the exit examination may show some physical problem. A good example is the hearing test. Often the entrance examination will be quite different from the exit examination. The same is true for blood pressure readings.

The above are just a few of the legal points to consider when contemplating filing or filing an appeal. However, your wisest move in considering an appeal is to obtain the best VSO or attorney available to handle your case.

State Appeals (IDVA)

The IDVA Board of Appeals is convened by the director and meets at least every six months. It considers all appeals requested by those whose case or application has been disallowed, or those instances where the appeal is made because of disagreement with the selection of beneficiaries, or any questionable claim referred to the board for adjudication. The Board’s authority is limited to the following programs:

- Vietnam Veterans Bonus
- Vietnam Prisoner of War Compensation
- WW II Bonus Program
- Korean Bonus Program
- Veterans Scholarship
- Specially Adapted Housing Grants Program
- MIA/POW Scholarship Programs

To obtain a hearing before the Board of Appeals, contact the field officer, officer associate, or clerk/typist at any IDVA office and tell that person you wish to appeal an IDVA decision to the Board of Appeals. A written memo to the director will then initiate the appeals process and the claimant will be advised of his or her rights and the procedures to be followed.
The claimant may forward his or her case arguments in the form of a written memo or brief, or he or she may argue the cases in a personal hearing. If desired, the claimant may retain an attorney for representation. The Board meets in Springfield, Illinois.

The appeal process for denial of a State of Illinois veterans’ benefit is much simpler than that of the U.S. benefit. There is only one level: a Board of Appeals formed by the Director of the Illinois Department of Veterans’ Affairs. The Board hears appeals of administrative decisions made by IDVA personnel in the administration of grant and benefit programs. The Board consists of no more than seven members appointed by the director, who also serves as the chairman of the Board.

Summary

Both the VA and the IDVA operate appeal processes. Of the two, the appeal process of the VA is far more lengthy and complicated. The VA only reverses its benefit decisions in a minority of cases. The higher you go in the appeal process, the smaller the percentage of reversals. At the same time, the higher you go, the greater the time and costs involved.

When the VA denies you a benefit, the first thing you want to know is whether the VA was right or wrong. This requires an expert opinion from a veteran’s representative. If the VA is clearly right, then that should end the matter. If, however, you and your representative feel that the VA was wrong, and you can explain why and prove that you are eligible for the benefit, then you should appeal.

The VA has set up the appeal system for the stated purpose of safeguarding the rights of the veteran. The Court of Appeals for Veterans was developed so that veterans could get a fair, impartial hearing should they be denied by the BVA. But as many veterans have learned, to obtain those rights, you will likely have to do a little “safeguarding” of your own.
CHAPTER SEVEN: BENEFITS FOR DISABLED VETERANS AND CERTAIN ACTIVE SERVICEMEMBERS
Benefits for Disabled Veterans and Certain Active Service Members

Compensation is a gateway benefit. Being service-connected opens the gate to a variety of other important benefits, not only for the veteran but also for dependents and survivors. Veterans who are service-connected may be eligible for vocational rehabilitation, special housing grants, VA life insurance, medical insurance, preference in hiring, and many other benefits. The dependents and survivors of certain service-connected veterans may also be eligible for educational benefits, medical insurance and other benefits through the VA and the Illinois Department of Veterans’ Affairs. New laws have made some benefits available to those still on active duty.

Compensation is a monthly monetary benefit awarded to veterans who suffer a disability that is directly related to military service or that is secondary to a service-connected disability. Veterans who suffer a disability as a result of VA medical care or as a result of participation in a VA-approved vocational rehabilitation program may be eligible for service-connection under certain circumstances.

Generally, to receive the monthly benefit, the disability must be rated at 10%. However, under 38 CFR §3.324 (Multiple noncompensable service-connected disabilities), a veteran with two or more 0% rated service-connected disabilities may be eligible for a 10% rating. Veterans who are rated 30% or more disabled by the VA are entitled to an additional amount of compensation for dependents. Veterans who are 50% or more disabled are entitled to free VA treatment of any disability including free medications.

Compensation was discussed in the first part of this book (for more information, please see Chapter Five). The purpose of this chapter is to explain the various benefits available to service disabled veterans and their dependents and survivors. It is assumed that the veteran is already service-connected at some level. However, this chapter is also a good motivator for those veterans who are thinking about applying for service-connection but have put it off for some time. As explained above, compensation being service-connected for a disability opens the door to a number of benefits. If you have a disability that is directly related to your military service, apply for compensation immediately. Use one of the sources of help described in Chapter Three: Sources of Help in Obtaining Benefits.

Federal Benefits

Though health care was discussed earlier in this book, we will briefly discuss VA health care benefits for service-connected veterans here. As previously stated, health care for service-connected veterans is significantly enhanced. Veterans who are service-connected are entitled to medical treatment, prosthetic appliances, and free medications as prescribed by a physician for any service-connected disability. A veteran who is being treated for a non-service-connected disability may be required to pay for treatment and medications and will be required to complete a yearly “means test.” Veterans being treated for a service-connected condition have no such requirement as long as they are being treated for the service-connected disability. A word of caution, however: the VA will bill service-connected veterans who are rated less than 50% for treatment of non-service-connected disabilities. It is therefore very important to review any bill received from the VA for accuracy in billing. Do not let the VA bill for treatment or medications given for a service-connected disability.

Eye Glasses, Contact Lenses, Hearing Aids

Sensori-neural aids authorizes a service-connected veteran who is rated at least 10% to receive contact lenses, eye glasses, and hearing aids from the VA. This benefit could be very important to a veteran who is suffering a hearing loss or who is in need of glasses. All a veteran need do is apply at the nearest VA Medical Center. Veterans must be on status with the VA to receive this benefit. Usually eye glasses, contacts, and hearing aids will not be provided as a result of age. However, those veterans who are rated at 10% for a service-connected disability are eligible regardless.

Prosthetic Appliances

Prosthetic and similar appliances states that service-connected veterans shall be provided prosthetic appliances including wheelchairs, invalid lifts, special clothing, orthopedic shoes, and hearing aids necessary for treatment of any condition when receiving hospital, domiciliary, or nursing home care in a facility under the direct jurisdiction of the VA. Though non-service-connected veterans who are on status with the VA are given the same prosthetic aids under certain circumstances, service-connected veterans are given them for their service-connected conditions free of charge. Apply for this benefit at any VA Medical Center.

Annual Clothing Allowance

An annual clothing allowance is provided to eligible veterans in the form of a lump sum payment. To be eligible, the veteran must be entitled to receive compensation for a service-connected disability for which he or she wears or uses a prosthetic or orthopedic appliance, including a wheelchair. The VA must determine that use of the appliance tends to wear out or tear clothing. Apply at any VA Medical Center or VA Regional Office.

Aids and Services for the Blind

Dog-guides and equipment for the blind. This section states in part: “Blind ex-members of the Armed Forces entitled to disability compensation for a service-connected disability may be furnished a trained dog-guide.” Veterans are eligible to receive special benefits for the blind if they are service-connected for blindness or are entitled to VA compensation for any service-connected disability and are determined by the VA to be blind. Veterans with best-corrected vision no better than 20/200 or less or with a field defect of 20 degrees or less are considered to be blind. Blind veterans may be eligible for Annual Visual Impairment Services Team (VIST) review (this is a total health and benefits review); adjustment-to-blindness training; and home improvements and structural alterations to homes. These benefits include admission to a VA Blind Rehabilitation Center or Clinic where they may receive counseling and training.

A blind veteran who receives compensation for any disability may be eligible to receive a guide dog and other aids to overcome blindness. Low vision aids include approved electronic and mechanical aids for the blind; repair and replacement of electronic and mechanical aids; and guide dogs, including the expense of training the veteran to use the dog and the cost of the dog’s medical care. Also included are talking books, tapes, and Braille literature (from the Library of Congress). Apply at any VA Medical Center.

Note: Blind veterans need not receive compensation or pension from the VA to be eligible for admission to a VA Blind Rehabilitation Center or Clinic.

Automobiles or Other Conveyances

Automobiles or other conveyances are authorized for veterans who suffer the service-connected loss, or loss of use, of one or both hands or feet, or permanent impairment of vision of both eyes to a prescribed degree. Eligible veterans may also receive payment for adaptive equipment and its repair, replacement, or re-installation required because of disability for the safe operation of the vehicle purchased with VA assistance, or for a previously or subsequently owned vehicle. Veterans who are entitled to compensation for ankylosis of one or both knees or one or both hips are authorized adaptive equipment only. Apply at any VA Regional Office or VA Medical Center.

Specially Adapted Homes

The VA has provided adaptive housing assistance grants to eligible service-connected disabled veterans to construct adapted homes or modify existing homes to accommodate their disabilities since 1948. Currently, the main two VA programs for adaptive housing assistance are the Specially Adapted Housing (SAH) grant and the Special Housing Adaptation (SHA) grant. The VA has a Web site that explains Specially Adapted Housing in detail. 38 CFR § 3.809 Specially Adapted Housing under 38 U.S.C. § 2101(a) and 38 CFR § 3.809a Special Home Adaptation Grants under 38 U.S.C. §2101(b). Under these provisions, certain disabled veterans may be provided a grant or grants from the VA for the purchase or adaptation of a home specially adapted to their needs. Application for both of these grants may be made to any VA Regional Office. The details on each grant and the eligibility requirements are as follows:

Specially Adapted Housing Grant (SAH)

The VA may approve up to three grants totaling not more than 50% of the cost of building, buying, or remodeling a specially adapted home, or paying indebtedness on such a home already acquired, up to an indexed maximum grant of $63,780 in Fiscal Year 2012. To be eligible for this grant, the veteran must be entitled to compensation for permanent and total service-connected disability incurred after April 20, 1898, due to:

- The loss or loss of use of both lower extremities, such as to preclude locomotion without the aid of braces, crutches, canes, or a wheelchair;

- Blindness in both eyes, having only light perception, plus loss or loss of use of one lower extremity;

- The loss or loss of use of one lower extremity together with residuals of organic disease or injury, or the loss or loss of use of one upper extremity which so affects the functions of balance or propulsion so as to preclude locomotion without resort to braces, canes, crutches, or a wheelchair;

- The loss or loss of use of both upper extremities such as to preclude use of the arms at or above the elbow; or

- Full thickness or subdermal burns that have resulted in contractures with limitation of motion of two or more extremities or of at least one extremity and the trunk.

Benefits are not restricted to wartime service. After December 16, 2003, the benefit also became available to a member of the Armed Forces serving on active duty. The most recent VA Rating Decision establishes the basic eligibility for a SAH grant. The Rating Decision is subject to review and revision. Additionally, the statute requires that (1) the veteran or service member’s ability to live in the house is medically feasible; that (2) the house must be suitably adapted to meet the veteran’s or service member’s living requirements; and that (3) the acquisition of the house by the veteran or service member (with the assistance provided by the grant) is financially feasible.

Special Home Adaptations (SHA) Grant

The Special Home Adaptations (SHA) grant program is for veterans and service members whose rated disabilities are deemed slightly less serious in comparison to those that establish eligibility for an SAH. The VA may approve up to three grants, not to exceed the actual cost, up to the current indexed maximum of $12,756, for making adaptations to a disabled veteran’s residence as are determined to be reasonably necessary for his or her needs or for assistance in acquiring a residence already adapted with necessary special features under 38 U.S.C. §2101(b) or §2101A(a). The following is a summary of the main eligibility requirements for the veteran or Active Duty service member:

- The applicant must be entitled to compensation for permanent and total service-connected disability incurred after April 20, 1898;

70 38 CFR §3.809(a).
The applicant is not eligible for a SAH grant under 38 CFR §3.809 (The applicant also has not previously received such assistance. However, note that an applicant who first establishes entitlement for an SHA grant and then becomes eligible for a SHA grant may still qualify for an SHA grant.);

Applicant must have a rated permanent and total service-connected disability for which he is entitled to compensation and said disability must:

Include the anatomical loss or loss of use of both hands; or

Be due to:
  - Blindness in both eyes with 5/200 visual acuity or less; or

  - Deep partial thickness burns that have resulted in contractures with limitation of motion of two or more extremities or of at least one extremity and the trunk; or

  - Full thickness or subdermal burns that have resulted in contracture(s) with limitation of motion of one or more extremities or the trunk; or

  - Residuals of an inhalation injury (including, but not limited to, pulmonary fibrosis, asthma, and chronic obstructive pulmonary disease).

Temporary Residence Adaptation Grant

The Veterans’ Housing Opportunity and Benefits Improvement Act of 2006 [P.L. 109-233 (June 5, 2006)] authorized the VA to expand its adaptive housing grants to encompass eligible veterans and service members temporarily living in a home owned by a family member. These new grants have come to be known as Temporary Residence Adaptation (TRA) grants. TRA grants are available to those who have been rated eligible for an SAH or SHA grant on a one-time basis. Those eligible for a TRA grant may use up to $14,000 of the maximum grant amount for a SAH grant or up to $2,000 for a SHA grant. The Veterans Health Care Facilities Capital Improvement Act of 2011 [Public Law 112-37], signed into law on October 5, 2011, has extended the availability of TRA grant program benefits through December 31, 2012. Be aware that a TRA grant counts as one of the three grants allowed under either SAH or SHA, and that is also counts toward the maximum allowable amount, $60,000 under SAH and $12,000 under SHA.

State Benefits Specially Adapted Housing

The State of Illinois also has a specially adapted housing grant for those veterans who qualify for the federal veterans’ specially adapted housing grant.
330 ILCS 65/Disabled Veterans Housing Act Illinois. Under this act, eligible veterans may be granted a single lump sum payment not to exceed $15,000 to provide assistance in acquiring a suitable dwelling unit with special fixtures and/or movable facilities made necessary by the veteran’s permanent and total disability. To be eligible, the veteran must be certified eligible by the VA for the federal Specially Adapted Housing Grant and the veteran must have been a resident of the State of Illinois at the time he or she entered the service. Apply at any IDVA office.

Veterans eligible for the federal grant for Specially Adapted Housing may be provided a State of Illinois grant of up to $3,000 to help pay the cost of remodeling made necessary by the veteran’s permanent and total disability. This does not, however, mean the veteran will receive the full $3,000. For example, if the cost of remodeling is fully paid by the VA grant, the IDVA grant will pay nothing. But if the cost of remodeling is over the amount of the VA grant, the IDVA grant will pay remodeling costs not to exceed $3,000.

To be eligible for this grant, the veteran must be certified eligible by the VA for assistance under Chapter 21 of Title 38, United States Code. The veteran must also have been a resident of the State of Illinois at the time he or she entered the service. Apply at any IDVA office.

Tax Exemption for Specially Adapted Housing

35 ILCS 200/15-165 provides for an annual property tax exemption of $70,000 of the assessed value of property owned and used by a disabled veteran as a home that is classified as Specially Adapted Housing by federal law. The exemption remains in effect as long as the veteran, his or her spouse, or unmarried surviving spouse maintains ownership of and resides on the property. To be eligible, a federal Specially Adapted Housing Grant must have been made to the veteran and the funds used for the purchase or construction of the home. Apply at any IDVA office or fill out Illinois Form RLG-52. This exemption must be applied for annually. A taxpayer who claims this exemption may not also claim either the Disable Person’s Homestead Exemption, 35 ILCS 200/15-168 or the Disabled Veterans Standard Homestead Exemption, 35 ILCS 200/15-169.

Supplemental Financing

Under the provisions of 38 CFR §3.809a, veterans who receive Specially Adapted Housing (SHA) Grants under 38 U.S.C. §2101(b) who have available loan guarantee entitlement may also obtain a guaranteed loan or direct loan from the VA to supplement the grant to acquire a specially adapted home. Apply at any VA Regional Office.

Veterans Mortgage Life Insurance

38 CFR Part 8 a – Veterans Mortgage Life Insurance [VMLI] is designed to pay off the mortgage of a severely disabled veteran or service member in the event of his death. It provides a $200,000 Mortgage Life Insurance policy for veterans who are given a Specially Adapted Housing Grant. Protection is automatic unless eligible veterans decline in writing or fail to respond to a final request for information on which their premium can be based. Premiums are automatically deducted from VA benefit payments, or paid directly if the veteran does not draw compensation, and will continue until the mortgage (up to the maximum amount of insurance) has been liquidated, the home is sold, the coverage terminates when the veteran reaches age 70, or the veteran dies. If a mortgage is disposed of through liquidation or sale of the property, any unused portion of the life insurance coverage may be used on the mortgage of a second or subsequent home. A qualified SAH grantee must, however, apply for VMLI before his 70th birthday. For more information, see the VA’s webpage at: http://www.insurance.va.gov/gli/buying/VMLI.htm. Apply at any VA Regional Office.

Independent Living Program (ILP)

The Independent Living Program (ILP) is an individually tailored program that is geared to helping severely disabled veterans live independently. The VA will use a number of resources to help disabled veterans reach this goal. In addition to assistance available through the VA Medical System, these resources may include assistive technology, independent skills training, and referral to community support groups.

Generally, the VA Vocational Rehabilitation staff makes the determination that it is not feasible for a disabled veteran to pursue gainful employment. They then focus on developing a program specifically for the veteran, which includes a detailed assessment of the veteran’s needs. This assessment will include consulting with a variety of service providers, family members, and other professionals in the veteran’s community. From this assessment, an Independent Living Plan will emerge. Veterans who are or who believe they are unable to pursue gainful employment as a result of their service-connected disabilities should complete a VA Form 28-1900 or apply at any VA Regional Office or VA Medical Center.

Vocational Rehabilitation

Vocational rehabilitation is governed by 38 CFR Part 21 – Vocational Rehabilitation and Education, which provides veterans who have a service-connected disability with a wide range of services designed to help the individual with vocational or academic training. The VA offers three main programs intended to help disabled veterans rehabilitate and train in order to prepare for, obtain, and retain employment. These programs are: the Veterans’ Employment and Training Service (VETS);71 the Chapter 31 vocational rehabilitation program for veterans with service-connected disabilities;72 and the Veterans Retraining Assistance Program (VRAP).73 You should consult 38 CFR Part 21 to determine the general eligibility criteria for each program.”

Generally, a veteran is eligible for one of these programs if at least one of the following conditions is met:

• The veteran has a service-connected disability and is receiving at least a 20% disability rating, or would be but for receipt of military retirement.

pay. Veterans with a 10% disability rating may be eligible if they have a serious employment disability.

- The veteran was honorably discharged for a service-connected condition or is home awaiting orders for such a separation or is hospitalized awaiting separation for a service-connected disability.
- The veteran has a serious employment impairment as the result of a service-connected disability.
- Those veterans with less than honorable discharges may be qualified if they have a service-connected disability and are approved by the VA. (See Chapter One: Exceptions and Limitations.)

Rehabilitation Program Period

- Veterans must complete a rehabilitation program 12 years from the date of the veteran’s discharge or release from active duty.
- This period may be extended if a medical condition prevents the individual from training or if the veteran has a serious employment disability.
- Disabled veterans may receive services until they have reached their rehabilitation goal, generally up to 48 months.
- The VA may provide counseling, job placement, and post-employment services for up to 18 additional months.

Rehabilitation Program Costs

- While in training and for two months after completing training, veterans may receive a subsistence allowance in addition to their disability compensation or retirement pay.
- The VA may pay the cost of tuition and required fees, books, supplies, and equipment.
- The VA may also pay for special support such as tutorial assistance, prosthetics, lip-reading training, and signing for the deaf.
- Service members cannot receive a subsistence allowance until they leave active duty.
 Disabled veterans will be given vocational counseling prior to having an educational objective approved for eligibility. A veteran may receive employment assistance and self-employment assistance after completing the educational objective.

Tip: If eligibility is established for more than one educational benefit, only one may be used. A VA counselor will discuss the available options and help to determine which benefit is best suited to the veteran’s needs. However, the veteran must make the final decision.

If a veteran is rated totally disabled, he or she may qualify for training and other services offered by the VA’s Vocational Rehabilitation program. The veteran should also check eligibility to use other state benefits, such as those offered through the Illinois Department of Rehabilitation Services. Disabled veterans may be able to use both state and federal programs at the same time. Apply at any VA Regional Office using VA Form 28-1900.

Educational Advance Payment

On occasion, veterans may require advance payment of educational benefits to pay tuition, housing, etc. Such payment may be authorized if the following conditions are met:

- Individuals receiving an advance payment must have the institution that he or she is attending verify enrollment.
- The educational institution must “verify delivery of the advance payment check to the veteran.” Subsequent verifications are done by the veteran.

If a veteran would like an advance payment, he or she must tell the certifying official at the institution to check the advance pay box on the VA certification form. The veteran will receive the first month’s pay in advance plus a partial month if the semester started mid-month. For example, if a semester starts on January 15, advance pay will be given for the period January 15 through the month of February. The veteran would receive the next check for education on April 1. The VA pays one month behind (i.e., February is paid on March 1). (Reference 38 CFR § 21.7151 Advance Payment Certifications.)

Employment Benefits for Service-Connected Veterans

As with the other benefits available for service-connected veterans, employment assistance also carries special considerations for those service-connected veterans seeking employment or those who are forced to change employment as a result of an increase in their service-connected disability. The VA’s Vocational Rehabilitation and Employment VetSuccess Program helps Veterans with service-connected disabilities prepare for, find, and keep suitable jobs. The program also helps those with service-connected disabilities so severe that they cannot immediately consider work to improve their ability to live as independently as possible.

Disabled Veterans in Business

The VA’s Center for Veterans Enterprise\textsuperscript{75} is a Web site that offers a number of resources for veterans seeking to gain government contracts or learn more about running a business. In addition to what is provided by the federal government, there are many benefits for disabled veterans available through the State of Illinois.

Veteran’s Preference in Hiring

In addition to the services the VA offers, the U.S. Department of Labor Veterans Employment and Training monitors veteran’s preference in hiring laws. Generally, veterans are entitled to preferences in hiring in both federal and state government civil service positions and, in some cases, private sector jobs. Veteran’s preference in the federal government is governed by 38 U.S.C. Chapter 42, Employment and Training of Veterans. Generally, any private employer who has a contract with the U.S. Government over $100,000 must have in place a program by which disabled veterans, Vietnam era veterans, or any other veteran who served on active duty during a war, campaign, or expedition will be considered for not only employment but advancement in employment.

Commissary/Exchange Privileges at Armed Forces Bases

This benefit entitles 100% service-connected veterans, and their dependents and survivors, to shop and make purchases at military post commissaries and exchanges. This benefit may save those entitled in the purchase of groceries, liquor, sundries, non-prescription drugs, clothing, appliances, etc. Those who shop at post exchanges and commissaries may save thousands of dollars a year. Typically, the prices are lower and there is no sales tax. Some commissaries may assess a “user fee.” \textbf{Please note:} Entitlement to this benefit overseas is governed by international law and is available only to the extent agreed to by the foreign governments concerned.

All that is needed to obtain this benefit is a commissary letter from the VA Regional Office. Take the letter to your nearest military base and present it to the ID card section. If getting an ID for a spouse or dependent child, a marriage certificate and birth certificate are also needed.

Summary

Service disabled veterans are entitled to a variety of special benefits because of their sacrifice for this nation. These benefits are governed by the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs as well as the U.S. Department of Labor, Veterans Employment and Training. Additionally, the State of Illinois has passed into law benefits for service disabled veterans. These laws are governed by the Illinois Department of Veterans’ Affairs and range from tuition payment for State-supported colleges and universities to free camping permits at state parks.

However, to obtain all of this available assistance, disabled veterans and their families must become educated consumers. Help is but a telephone call away. Trained veteran service officers from both the VA and the IDVA are available to answer questions. Additionally, Veteran Service Organizations located in VA hospitals and at the VA Regional Office are also available to assist. There are countless books and pamphlets available. Lastly, but perhaps most importantly, are the Web sites created especially for disabled veterans and their dependents. Use all of the resources available to find out about and apply for all the benefits and services to which you are entitled.
CHAPTER EIGHT: BENEFITS FOR CAREGIVERS,
SURVIVORS AND DEPENDENTS
Benefits for Survivors and Dependents

Millions of dollars in veterans benefits go unclaimed every year because survivors and dependents are simply not aware of the rights and benefits available to them. Survivors of veterans discharged under conditions other than dishonorable are eligible for some very basic burial benefits. These include the right to burial in a National Cemetery, an American flag to drape the coffin, a Presidential Memorial Certificate, and partial reimbursement of burial costs.

The VA has a Web page devoted solely to Survivors and Dependents of veterans. This Web page is a gateway to all the benefits offered to dependents and survivors of veterans, especially those who are survivors of veterans who were 100% service-connected at the time of death.

A broad range of benefits are available to families of veterans who died as the result of a service-connected disability. These benefits are extremely important to surviving spouses. Such benefits may include financial help in the form of death compensation (commonly called DIC), VA health care, federal and state educational assistance, and a VA home loan guarantee. Certain benefits may be extended to children and in some cases dependent parents. The survivors and dependents of members of the Armed Forces Reserve or Illinois National Guard who die while performing, or as a result of performing, active duty or active duty for training may also be eligible for these benefits.

This chapter will provide a benefit-by-benefit review of the assistance available to survivors and dependents. For simplicity’s sake, the benefits are listed by category – Health Care, Education, Compensation/Pension, etc. – with federal and state benefits within each category presented separately.

Survivors’ and dependents’ eligibility for a benefit begins with the veteran’s eligibility. For this reason, every veteran’s family should have access, at the very least, to his or her DD 214 and/or Discharge Certificate. Equally important is the family member’s eligibility as a bona fide dependent or survivor.

Finally, this chapter also explores the more recent developments in benefits provided to family caregivers who shoulder the responsibility of taking care of our more seriously injured veterans.

Eligibility

A veteran’s “survivor” may be a spouse, child, or parent. More specifically, however, “survivors” and “dependents” are defined according to the following VA guidelines, which are also recognized by the IDVA.

• Spouse. The person who is legally married to the veteran under local laws (e.g., a legally recognized marriage in the State of Illinois). If there is any question as to whether the marriage is legal, the VA may rule that it is a “deemed valid” marriage so long as the spouse entered the marriage in good faith. In most cases, the VA does not require a claimant to submit any document other than a written statement as proof of a valid marriage.

• Surviving Spouse. The person who was legally married to the veteran at the time of his or her death. The spouse must have lived continuously with the veteran from the time of the marriage until the time of the veteran’s death. If there was a separation during that time, it must have been through no fault of the spouse. The surviving spouse is no longer eligible for benefits if he or she remarries or if he or she lives openly with a member of the opposite sex and holds him- or herself to be a spouse. If the surviving spouse’s second marriage is made void or annulled, or ended by death or divorce, then he or she may reapply for benefits.

• Dependent Children. Eligible children may be legitimate or illegitimate. They may be the veteran’s natural children, adopted children, or stepchildren. They must also be unmarried. They are generally considered dependent children until age 18. They will be considered dependents up to a later age if they are disabled or become disabled before they reach age 18. Children attending school are considered dependents until age 23. If a dependent child is attending school with VA financial assistance, he or she remains eligible for this benefit until age 26.

• Parents of Veterans. Eligible parents of the veteran may be natural or adopted. The veteran may be legitimate or illegitimate. The VA may take a liberal view on who qualifies as a parent. For example, a guardian “who acted as a parent” before the veteran entered service may qualify as a parent. In general, parents can qualify to receive a deceased veteran’s death compensation if they can prove financial need.

If the spouse or dependent is already on record with the VA, there will be no problem in establishing eligibility for survivor benefits. However, if a parent, spouse, or dependent child is not on status, all that need be done is to furnish the VA with a valid marriage license, birth certificate, or, in the case of a parent(s), proof of dependency or other supporting documents. If some legal question about a relationship should arise, the dependent should seek assistance from one of the Veteran Service Organizations.

77 If the veteran can travel, it will expedite matters if the veteran accompanies the dependent to the VA or IDVA office at the time the benefit is applied for to present his or her DD 214 and Discharge Certificate. If the veteran is deceased, the dependent should be able to present these documents.

Benefits Available to Survivors and Dependents

Burial, non-service-connected death pension, dependency and indemnity compensation, health care, education, and housing benefits described below correspond to the same benefits for veterans. Except where noted, the terms and conditions of each benefit are generally the same for the eligible dependent/survivor as for the veteran.

Burial/Death Benefits

The basic burial benefits represent a “package” designed to ensure proper recognition of the deceased veteran’s service to his country and to assist next of kin with burial expenses. The basic burial benefits consist of the following:

- American Flag
- Headstone or Grave Marker
- Monetary Allowance
- Presidential Memorial Certificate
- Memorial Marker and Memorial Plot
- Burial in a National Cemetery
- Monetary Allowance
- Headstone or Grave Marker

In general, eligibility for these benefits is extended to survivors and dependents of any veteran discharged under other than dishonorable conditions. The Veterans Benefits Act of 2003 now allows all Filipino veterans who passed away while residing in the United States to receive burial benefits. Some have additional eligibility requirements. The specifics for each benefit and how to obtain them are addressed as follows:

- American Flag. A ceremonial American flag is provided to drape the casket or accompany the urn of any honorably discharged veteran who served after January 31, 1955, or to any wartime veteran who served prior to January 31, 1955, after which it may be presented to the next of kin, friend, or close associate of the deceased veteran. Apply at any VA or IDVA office or most local post offices. Application is made on VA Form 21-2008.

- Presidential Memorial Certificate. A certificate is provided to the next of kin expressing the nation’s gratitude for the individual’s service. It is signed by the President of the United States. The funeral director or loved ones may request a certificate. You can apply for a certificate at a VA Regional Office or complete and submit VA Form 40-0247 to the address below:

  Presidential Memorial Certificates (41A1C))
  National Cemetery Administration
  5109 Russell Road
  Quantico, VA 22134-3903

- Burial in a National Cemetery. Generally, honorably discharged veterans are eligible for burial in a National Cemetery. Spouses (who have not remarried or whose remarriage has ended) and dependent children of eligible veterans are eligible for burial in a National Cemetery even if the veteran is not buried in one.

Illinois has several National Cemeteries:

- Abraham Lincoln National Cemetery
- Alton National Cemetery
- Camp Butler National Cemetery
- Danville National Cemetery
- Mound City National Cemetery
- Quincy National Cemetery
- Rock Island National Cemetery

Illinois has one State Veterans Cemetery located at the Quincy Veteran’s Home:

- Sunset Cemetery
  - Illinois Veterans Home
  - 1707 N. 12th Street
  - Quincy, Illinois 62301
  - Phone: 217-222-8641
  - Fax: 217-222-9621

- Headstone or Grave Marker. Provided by the VA at no charge for the grave sites of veterans buried in either private or national cemeteries. Shipped at government expense to the consignee. The cost of placing the headstone or marker in a private cemetery, however, must be borne by the applicant. A VA headstone or grave marker is also available to deceased members of a veteran’s family who are buried in National Cemeteries, or in veterans cemeteries owned by the state. Apply at any VA or IDVA office. Applications are made using VA Form 40-1330 and are forwarded to Memorial Program, Services, (41A1) Department of Veterans Affairs, 5109 Russell Road, Quantico, VA 22134-3903. An application is not required if the deceased is to be buried in a National Cemetery.

- Memorial Markers. A memorial headstone or marker may be furnished upon application by a close relative recognized as the next of kin to commemorate any eligible veteran (including a person who died in the active military, naval, or air service) whose remains have not been recovered or identified; were buried at sea (whether by the veteran’s own choice or otherwise); were donated to science; or were cremated and the ashes scattered without interment of any portion of the ashes. The memorial may be erected in a private cemetery in a plot provided by the applicant or in a memorial section of a National Cemetery. Apply at any VA or IDVA office.

Interment or Plot Allowance

- Service-Connected Death. If the veteran died of a service-connected disability or if the service-connected disability was the primary cause of death, the VA may reimburse up to $1,500 toward burial expenses for deaths prior to September 10, 2001 and $2,000 for those who died on or after September 11, 2001. If the veteran is buried in a National Cemetery, the VA may reimburse the cost of transportation. The Veterans Benefits Act of 2003 now allows payment of burial benefits for peacetime veterans who are not otherwise qualified and allows payment of the plot allowance to survivors of veterans buried in a state veterans’ cemetery.

- The VA may provide an allowance to help pay for the purchase of a grave plot for any veteran who served during a period of war or was discharged with a service-connected disability. Burial or plot allowance may not be paid to the extent that they were paid by the deceased’s employer or by a state agency or political subdivision of a state. The difference between the entire expense and the amount paid by the employer or the state, if any, may be reimbursed to the limit of the allowance. The allowance is normally arranged for by the funeral director. Apply at any VA or IDVA office. Application is made using VA Form 21-8834.

Non-Service-Connected Death

The VA may pay up to $300 toward burial and funeral expenses. There is a $150 plot/interment allowance for deaths prior to December 1, 2001. The plot/interment allowance is up to $300 for deaths on or after December 1, 2001. If the death occurred while the veteran was a patient in a VA hospital or while under contract nursing home care, some of the costs for transporting the deceased’s remains may also be reimbursed. Apply at any VA or IDVA office or by filling out VA Form 21-530, Application for Burial Allowance. Attach proof of the service, a death certificate, and copies of funeral and burial bills.

State (IDVA)

Headstone or Grave Marker Supplementary Allowance

The state will provide next of kin with up to $100 in reimbursement for the cost of cartage and placement of VA-provided headstones or memorial markers. This payment will be made only after the headstone/marker has been received and placed and local cartage and placement fees paid. Apply at any IDVA office with VA Form 3 WVGR.

Grave Registration

The IDVA maintains a “Roll of Honor” for all veterans buried in the state. Every cemetery or burial place is required to keep a permanent record of the burial of each U.S. veteran.

County

Indigent Burial Benefit

County boards are required by state law to provide an allowance up to $900 and to appoint a suitable person to take charge of the burial of indigent veterans and their mothers, fathers, wives, widows, or minor children. See 55 ILCS 5/5-27002. For further information, apply to the County Veterans Assistance Commission (VAC), or if your county does not have one, to any IDVA office, or directly to the county board. A list of County VACs can be found in Appendix D of this book or on the Illinois Association of County Veterans Assistance Commissions’ website at the following: http://www.iacvac.org/Interactive%20Map.html.

Other Federal Burial/Death Benefits

- Burial at Arlington National Cemetery. This cemetery is under the jurisdiction of the Department of the Army rather than the VA. Eligibility for burial in this cemetery is more restrictive, being limited to: those who died while on active duty or Armed Forces retirees eligible to receive compensation; veterans discharged under other than dishonorable conditions who later held elective office with the U.S. Government, were members of the Supreme Court or cabinet, or who served in an office salaried at Level 11 under the Executive Salary Act; veterans separated from the service for physical disability of 30% or more prior to October 1, 1949; veterans discharged under other than dishonorable conditions who were awarded one of the following decorations:
  - Congressional Medal of Honor
  - Distinguished Service, Air Force, or Navy Cross
  - Distinguished Service Medal
  - Silver Star
  - Purple Heart

  Spouses and dependent children of those eligible for burial or now buried at Arlington are also eligible. Those spouses who have remarried are also eligible for burial in a National Cemetery provided the veteran is buried there and the death occurred after January 1, 2000. Normally arranged for by the funeral director; you may also apply at any VA or IDVA office, or write or call Arlington National Cemetery, Arlington, VA 22211, 703-607-8000.

- Congressional Medal of Honor Recipient Gravestone or Marker. Although not specifically mentioned in the VA or IDVA brochures or benefit booklets, this special gravestone with Medal of Honor engraving has been available since 1976. In many cases, next of kin of deceased Medal of Honor recipients, unaware of the special Congressional Medal of Honor gravestone, have opted for a private headstone rather than a government-provided marker. May be arranged for by the funeral director. Or, you may apply at any VA or IDVA office, using VA Form 40-1330.

- Free Passport to Next of Kin of Those Buried in Overseas Military Cemeteries. Immediate family members who wish to visit the grave or memorial of former members of the Armed Forces in overseas U.S. military cemeteries are eligible for a U.S. Passport free of charge. Those interested should obtain a statement of the location of the deceased’s burial site or memorial from the American Battle Monuments Commission, Arlington Court House Plaza II, Suite 500, 2300 Clarendon Blvd., Arlington, VA 22201 703-696-6897. Upon receipt of the statement, the passport may be applied for at most post offices, with the clerk of courts, or at any office of the Passport Agency, U.S. Department of State. For assistance, contact any VA or IDVA office.

Dependents’ Compensation and Pension Benefits

Dependency and Indemnity Compensation (DIC)

(Death Due to Service-Connected Disability)

Eligibility: For a survivor to be eligible for Dependency and Indemnity Compensation (DIC), the veteran’s death must have resulted from one of the following causes:

1. A disease or injury incurred or aggravated in the line of duty while on active duty or active duty for training.

2. An injury, heart attack, cardiac arrest, or stroke incurred or aggravated in the line of duty while on inactive duty for training.

3. A service-connected disability or a condition directly related to a service-connected disability.

DIC also may be paid to certain survivors of veterans who were totally disabled from service-connected conditions at the time of death, even though their service-connected disabilities did not cause their deaths. The survivor qualifies if the veteran was:

1. Continuously rated totally disabled for a period of 10 years immediately preceding death; or

2. Continuously rated totally disabled from the date of military discharge and for at least 5 years immediately preceding death; or

3. A former POW who died after Sept. 30, 1999, and who was continuously rated totally disabled for a period of at least one year immediately preceding death.

If death occurs after service, the veteran’s discharge must have been under conditions other than dishonorable. Survivors can also be entitled to DIC if the Veteran’s death was due to negligent VA medical treatment or vocational rehabilitation under 38 U.S.C. §1151.
DIC Payments

To apply for DIC, the survivor will need to fill out a VA Form 21-534 if the claimant is a surviving spouse or child, or VA Form 21-535 if the claimant is a surviving parent. There is no time limit for filing a claim for DIC. However, it is important to note that if the VA receives a claim for DIC within one year after the Veteran’s death, the survivor may be entitled to retroactive payments dating back to the first day of the month following the Veteran’s death. The basic monthly rate of DIC is $1,215 for an eligible surviving spouse. The VA also adds a transitional benefit of $301 to the surviving spouse’s monthly DIC if there are children under age 18. The amount of the DIC may be increased if the surviving spouse is housebound or in need of aid and attendance.

If the surviving spouse is receiving a Survivor Benefit Plan (SBP), then only the difference between the two is received. If the DIC is greater than the SBP, the spouse receives the DIC in lieu of the SBP. To apply for DIC benefits, fill out VA Form 21-534 Application for Dependency and Indemnity Compensation, Death Pension and Accrued Benefits by a Surviving Spouse or Child, or apply to any VA Regional Office or IDVA office.

Additional Monetary Benefits for Dependents/Survivors

Aid and Attendance

Surviving spouses and parents receiving DIC may be granted a special allowance for aid and attendance if they are patients in a nursing home or require the regular aid and attendance of another person. Application may be made at any VA Regional Office; complete VA Form 21-2680 Examination for Housebound Status or Permanent Need for Regular Aid and Attendance.

Housebound

Surviving spouses qualified for DIC who are not so disabled as to require the regular aid and attendance of another person but due to disability are permanently housebound may also be granted a special allowance in addition to the DIC rate otherwise payable. Application may be made at any VA Regional Office. Complete VA Form 21-2680 Examination for Housebound Status or Permanent Need for Regular Aid and Attendance.

Reinstated Entitlement Program for Survivors (REPS)

Certain survivors of deceased veterans who died of service-connected causes incurred or aggravated prior to August 13, 1981, are eligible for benefits. The benefits are similar to the benefits for students and surviving spouses with children between ages 16 and 18 that were eliminated from the Social Security Act. The benefits are payable in addition to any other benefits to which the family may also be entitled. The amount of benefits is based on information obtained from the Social Security Administration. Apply using VA Form 21-534.

Application for Dependency and Indemnity Compensation, Death Pension and Accrued Benefits by a Surviving Spouse or Child, or apply to any VA Regional Office or IDVA office.

Death Compensation Relating to Deaths Before January 1, 1957

Death compensation payments are authorized for surviving spouses, unmarried children under 18 (as well as certain dependent children and those between 18 and 23 if attending school), and dependent parents of service persons or veterans who died before January 1, 1957, from a service-connected cause not the result of willful misconduct.

Survivors with eligibility for death compensation benefits may elect to receive DIC benefits. Generally, the DIC benefits will pay greater rates, especially for surviving spouses and children. More specific information about death compensation benefits may be obtained from your nearest VA or IDVA office. If a survivor has eligibility for both death compensation and DIC, the VA office processing the claim will notify the survivor about the dual entitlement and will explain how to elect payments under the DIC program. Complete VA Form 21-534 Application for Dependency and Indemnity Compensation, Death Pension and Accrued Benefits by a Surviving Spouse or Child or apply to any VA Regional Office or IDVA office.

Non-Service-Connected Death Pension

Certain surviving spouses and children of deceased eligible veterans may qualify for non-service-connected death pensions, if their countable income is below a yearly limit set by law. The veteran must have been discharged under conditions other than dishonorable and, unless discharged or retired sooner for service-connected disability, must meet one of the following requirements:

- If a veteran of WWI, WWII, or the Korean War, must have served at least 90 days.
- If a veteran of the Vietnam War, must have served at least 181 days.
- If a veteran who served after January 1, 1977, must have fulfilled his or her enlistment contract (served full enlistment period).

Surviving spouses and unmarried children under age 18 (or until age 23 if attending a VA-approved school) of deceased veterans of the wars referred to above may be eligible for pension based on need if they meet the applicable income standards. Qualified children who became permanently incapable of self-support because of mental or physical disability before reaching age 18 may receive a pension as long as the condition exists or until they marry.

Pension is not payable to those whose estates are so large that it is reasonable they look to the estates for maintenance. Also, pension is not payable to those whose countable income is greater than a yearly limit set by law.
A surviving spouse who is a patient in a nursing home or otherwise determined to be in need of the regular aid and attendance of another person, or is permanently housebound, may be entitled to higher income limitations or additional benefits, depending on the type of pension received.

Additional Eligibility Requirements for Surviving Spouse

In addition to the requirements for “Surviving Spouse” defined at the beginning of this chapter, to be eligible for non-service-connected death pension, the surviving spouse must have been married to the veteran at least one year prior to his or her death, unless a child resulted from the union. If married to a Vietnam era veteran, the surviving spouse must have been married prior to May 8, 1985.

Amount of Non-Service-Connected Death Pension Payments

To apply for this benefit, use VA Form 21-534 Application for Dependency and Indemnity Compensation, Death Pension and Accrued Benefits by a Surviving Spouse or Child, or apply to any VA Regional Office or IDVA office.

The amount of pension paid depends upon whether the surviving spouse and children are receiving payments under the Improved Pension Program or the Protected Pension Program. The differences are described below.

Improved Pension Program

Effective December 1, 1985, the Improved Pension Program provides for annual rates, generally payable monthly. The annual payment is reduced by the amount of the annual countable income of the surviving spouse or dependent children.

Protected Pension Program

All surviving spouses and children who were on the rolls December 31, 1978, who do not elect improved pension, may continue receiving pension under the prior law at the rate they were receiving on that date. Monthly payments shall continue as long as their income does not exceed the applicable income limitation or they do not lose a dependent.

Family Caregiver

Since May, 2010, federal law has required the VA to create an assistance program for family caregivers of certain eligible, seriously injured veterans, who were so injured in the line of duty on or after September 11, 2001. This assistance does not replace direct VA benefits to the veteran him or herself, but serves to help the family caregiver in helping the veteran.

Eligibility

Eligibility is in two parts: (1) eligibility of the injured veteran; and (2) eligibility of the family caregiver. The first part of eligibility starts with the veteran him or herself and an standard: Is it in the best interest of the eligible veteran to participate in the program, according to the Secretary of the VA’s determination? To this determination, the following basic statutory criteria must be met:

1. The individual must be a veteran or member of the Armed Forces in the process of receiving a medical discharge from the Armed Forces;
2. The individual must have a serious injury (including traumatic brain injury psychological trauma, or other mental disorder) incurred or aggravated in the line of duty in the active military, naval, or air service on or after September 11, 2001; and
3. The individual must need personal care services due to one of the following: (1) An inability to perform one or more activities of daily living; (2) A need for supervision or protection based on symptoms or residuals of neurological or other impairment or injury; or (3) Such other matters as the Secretary considers appropriate.

The second part of eligibility pertains to the family caregiver. Such a caregiver, under the interim final regulation, may either be a primary or secondary one. In order to be either, one must meet the following criteria:

1. Be 18 years old or older;
2. Be one of the following: (1) the veteran’s spouse; (2) the veterans’s son or daughter; (3) the veteran’s parent; (4) the veteran’s step-family member; (5) the veteran’s extended family member; or (5) someone who resides with the veteran or will do so if approved as a family caregiver;
3. No evidence of abuse or neglect of the veteran by the applicant;
4. Satisfaction of the requirements of the regulatory provisions relating to assessment, education, and training of caregiver applicants.

There may only be three family caregivers. Only one may serve as the primary family caregiver. Primary and secondary family caregivers are to be distinguished from general caregivers. A general caregiver provides caregiving services to a covered veteran who may not qualify for the VA Family Caregiver program. A “covered veteran” must be enrolled in the VA health care system and needs personal care assistance due to either: (1) his or her inability to perform an

81 Additional criteria exist in the interim final rule which implements the statute. See 76 Fed. Reg. 26,418 (Interim Final Rule) (May 5, 2011)(the interim rule further discusses what serious injury is; the need for the caregiving services not to be simultaneously and regularly provided by or through another individual or entity; agreement to receive care at home; and agreement to receive care from a primary care team.). Also note, the statute currently provides that the decision by the VA to furnish assistance is treated as a “medical determination” thereby exempting it from appeal before the Board of Veterans Appeals, and, by extension, the Court of Appeals for Veterans Claims.
activity of daily living; or (2) his or her need of supervision or protection owing to symptoms or effects of neurological care or other impairment or injury.

Caregiver Benefits

Mental Health Services and Respite Care
An approved family caregiver is entitled to mental health services (individual and group therapy, counseling and peer support groups) and respite care of at least 30 days. Respite care is substitute care that allows the family caregiver a scheduled period of relief from the regular provision of care to the veteran.

Exentension of Educational Benefits (Where Applicable)
For a caregiver who is also a veteran, he or she may be able to extend the time in which he or she is able to use his or her own education benefits.82

CHAMPVA
If the primary caregiver does not have health coverage under another contract, he or she may receive benefits under the Civilian Health and Medical Program of the Department of Veterans Affairs (CHAMPVA).83

Monthly Stipend
A veteran’s primary caregiver is entitled to a monthly stipend under the terms and calculations of the interim final rule.84

Application
To apply, one needs to submit a VA Form 10-10CG, Application for Comprehensive Assistance for Family Caregivers Program. Applicants are strongly encouraged to seek the assistance of a veterans service officer for a complete explanation of eligibility criteria, available benefits, and for assistance in making an application.

State

The Line of Duty Compensation Act85 (LODCA) and Illinois National Guardsman’s Compensation Act86

LODCA is a benefit administered by the Illinois Court of Claims that provides financial compensation for the designated beneficiaries of Armed Forces members killed on active duty in support of the Global War on Terrorism. The Illinois National Guardsman’s Compensation Act provides a substantially identical financial benefit to the designated family members of a member of the Illinois National Guard killed while on State active duty. Compensation is governed by 820 ILCS 315/3(b) and 315/3(c) and is adjusted annually in accordance with the Beneficiaries must make a claim with the Court of Claims within two years of the date of death of the service member killed in the line of duty. The claim form can be obtained by contacting the Court of Claims at 1 (877) 411-2570. The claim form is also available online at the following link:

The following information must be provided to the Court of Claims in order to make a complete application for compensation under LODCA:

- the name, address, and title or position in which the Armed Forces member was serving at the time of his or her death;
- the name and address of the person(s) designated by the Armed Forces member to receive compensation and the percentages if there is more than one beneficiary; if there is no designated beneficiary, the name and address of the personal representative of the estate of the armed forces member;
- a full factual account of the circumstances resulting in the death of the Armed Forces member;
- any other information the Court of Claims reasonably requires. 820 ILCS 315/4.

Timely Payment

If payment by the Court of Claims is not made within six months after a claim is filed and all information has been submitted as required under the Act, an interest penalty of one percent of the amount of the award shall be added for each month or fraction of a month after the end of the six-month period until final payment is made. 705 ILCS 505/24(3).

Vietnam Era Survivors Benefit

The nearest eligible survivor of a veteran who died as a result of service in Vietnam may receive a payment of $1,000, providing the veteran did not claim his or her Vietnam service state bonus. Apply at any IDVA office and ask to fill out form IL 497-0474.

Global War on Terrorism Survivors Benefit

A $3,000 bonus is payable to survivors of certain persons killed by terrorist acts or hostile activities during performance of military service in periods recognized as wartime by United States campaign or service medals. The service member must have been honorably discharged and resided in Illinois at least one year prior to entering military service. Apply at any IDVA office and ask to fill out form IL 497-0474.

Health Care Benefits

The health care program known as CHAMPVA (Civilian Health and Medical Program of the VA) is a comprehensive health care program for certain dependents and survivors of veterans. It is the usual VA practice to refer dependents to non-VA medical facilities and reimburse these facilities for treatment/care provided. However, dependents should first apply to the VA and obtain approval.

Who May Be Eligible

- Spouse or dependent child of a veteran with a total and permanent service-connected disability.

- Surviving spouse or child of a veteran who died as a result of a service-connected total disability, or who, at the time of death, had a total and permanent service-connected disability.

- Surviving spouse or child of a person who died while on active duty.

- Applicants must not be eligible for health care under CHAMPUS (Civilian Health and Medical Program of the Uniformed Services) or under Medicare.

How to Apply for CHAMPVA

To apply for benefits, submit:

- Application for CHAMPVA Benefits, VA Form 10-10d.

- Other Health Insurance Certification VA Form 10-7959c. (This is for individuals who are eligible for Medicare.)

- Copy of Medicare card.

Under 38 CFR §17.271(b), individuals age 65 or older who are entitled to Medicare Part A and Medicare Part B are also eligible for CHAMPVA as secondary coverage to the claimant’s Medicare plan and any other health insurances for services received on or after October 1, 2001. If age 65 or older and not entitled to Medicare, applicant must send documentation from the Social Security Administration which confirms that non-entitlement.

Processing of the application may be speeded up if information that shows the veteran was permanently and totally disabled is submitted along with the application. A copy of the VA rating decision that shows the veteran is permanently and totally disabled or the death rating for a survivor will suffice. Also be sure to send copies of the marriage license and/or birth certificate/adoption papers. Always send copies—never originals.

If a widow/widower remarries and that marriage is dissolved by death or divorce, the surviving spouse must provide a copy of the legal documentation that terminated the remarriage. The legal documentation of termination of a remarriage may be a divorce decree, death certificate, or annulment decree.

It is also good to provide a copy of the Veteran’s DD 214 or Military Separation papers if available. Finally, if there are children age 18-23 attending school, provide a copy of the school certification of full-time enrollment.

Send everything (be sure to keep copies for personal record) to:

Educational Benefits

Dependents of totally disabled service-connected veterans or of those veterans who died as the result of a service-connected disability (discussed earlier in this chapter), are eligible for educational benefits under 38 U.S.C. Chapter 35 Survivors’ and Dependents’ Educational Assistance. Dependent children can generally qualify from age 18 to 26. Under specific conditions, the child’s educational assistance can start at an earlier age or be extended beyond age 26.

Who May Be Eligible

- Spouse or dependent child of a veteran with a total and permanent service-connected disability. Application must be made within 10 years of the date the veteran was found to be service-disabled.

- Surviving spouse or child of a veteran who died as the result of a service-connected disability, or who, at the time of death, had a total and permanent service-connected disability. Application must be made within 10 years from the date of: (1) the veteran’s death, or (2) the VA determination that the death was due to a service-connected disability, whichever is later.

- Spouse or child of a veteran who has been listed as missing in action for more than 90 days or was captured in the line of duty and is being detained by a foreign power.
Apply at any VA or IDVA office or complete VA Form 22-5490 Application for Survivors’ and Dependents’ Educational Assistance.

POW/MIA Scholarship

The spouse, surviving spouse, or child of a veteran who was declared a prisoner of war or missing in action or who is permanently and totally disabled from a service-connected disability or who died as a result of a service-connected disability, and who was an Illinois resident for at least six months before entry into service, may receive a four-year scholarship to a state-controlled college or university.\(^87\) (Apply at any IDVA office. Fill out IDVA Form POW-I.)

Educational Opportunities for Children of Veterans

A child of a veteran who is between 10 and 18 years of age may receive up to $250 per school year in educational assistance if the veteran is totally disabled as a result of a service-connected disability or died as a result of military service. Apply at any IDVA office. Fill out VA Form ED I.

County

Honorary Scholarship, University of Illinois

Each Illinois county may provide one honorary scholarship per year to children of wartime veterans. Children of veterans of WWI, WWII, the Korean War, or the Vietnam War and those who served in the Gulf War and other areas of conflict all qualify, with preference given to children of deceased or disabled veterans. (See 110 ILCS 305/9 Honorary scholarships – number from each county.) Apply to any IDVA office or to a State Senator or Representative.

Summary

There are many advantages available to the dependents of veterans and to their survivors. These advantages cover a wide variety of benefits ranging from health care to compensation or pension payments to preference in employment for state and federal jobs. However, as with other veterans’ benefits, you must be an educated consumer to obtain them. There is little to no outreach by government agencies to veterans, dependents, and survivors. In the end, it is up to the individual to learn about and apply for the rights and benefits given by a grateful nation. If you think you or your dependents are or may become eligible for any of the benefits described in this Chapter, apply for them. It is always a good idea to ensure that dependents are made aware of the available benefits prior to the death of a veteran and that the information necessary for application is kept in a safe place that is readily accessible by the survivors. We recommend keeping a copy of this book (or another book on veterans benefits), military discharge papers, proof of marriage, divorce decrees, birth certificates, Medicare information, Social Security information (including award letters), and any other necessary information in one central fireproof location, so that the survivors may easily access the information necessary for applying for VA and other survivor benefits.

Remember too, that if a deceased veteran was not eligible for benefits because of a “bad paper” discharge, a survivor or dependent may apply on behalf of the deceased veteran for an upgraded discharge. If the discharge upgrade is approved, eligibility for benefits may be established.
CHAPTER NINE: EDUCATIONAL BENEFITS
EDUCATIONAL BENEFITS

Some of the greatest benefits of serving honorably in the U.S. Armed Forces are the educational benefits available to former service members. Since WWII, veterans have received educational benefits through both the state and federal government. These benefits range from monthly subsistence to tuition payments. The U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs provides educational benefits under the Montgomery G.I. Bill, Post 9/11 G.I. Bill, Veterans Educational Assistance Program (VEAP), Reserve Educational Assistance Program (REAP), Training and Rehabilitation, Survivors’ and Dependents’ Educational Assistance, and Education Loan Repayment. The State of Illinois also provides educational benefits through the Illinois Veterans Grant, Illinois National Guard Grant, and for qualified dependents, the MIA/POW Scholarship, and Educational Opportunities for Children.

This chapter provides a general description of educational and training benefits available at both the state and federal levels. It includes information to help veterans understand how to receive payments under these programs. Also included are Web sites so that those with access to a computer may use the VA’s online services to apply for educational benefits and verify enrollment. Going online to the VA’s Web site is a great way to keep up to date on all veteran benefits. The VA’s Web site home page is located at http://www.va.gov. This site is the gateway to all VA benefits, including all the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs educational benefits and the latest news on educational benefits.

The information in this chapter may help veterans in making a decision to seek training or to enter an academic institution. Please read carefully to understand the full range of benefits available.

VA Federal Benefits

No recipient of any VA educational assistance may receive benefits under more than one educational assistance program at the same time, but you can receive a maximum of 48 months of benefits under any combination of VA education programs for which you qualify. More information is available at www.gibill.va.gov. Here is a chart listing some federal VA educational assistance programs and who may be eligible:

For those enrolled solely in distance learning, the housing allowance payable is equal to half the national average BAH for an E-5 with dependents. The full-time rate for a member eligible at the 100% eligibility tier is $714.50 for the 2013 academic year (August 1, 2013 through July 1, 2014). The Yellow Ribbon GI Education Enhancement Program

In instances where a student’s private school tuition and fees exceed the $17,500 per year cap, or is attending a public school as a nonresident student, the Yellow Ribbon Program allows institutions of higher learning (degree granting institutions) in the United States to voluntarily enter into an agreement with VA to make additional funds available for the student’s education program. - First, the service member must submit a Transfer of Education Benefits (TEB) request through the milConnect website at http://milconnect.dmdc.mil.
  - While in the Armed Forces, transferors use the milConnect website to designate, modify, and revoke a Transfer of Entitlement (TOE) request.
  - After leaving the Armed Forces, transferors may provide a future effective date for use of TOE, modify the number of months transferred, or revoke entitlement transferred by submitting a written request to VA.
- Once approved, family members may apply to use the transferred benefits by completing VA Form 22-1990e, which can be found at http://www.vba.va.gov/pubs/forms/VBA-22-1990e-ARE.pdf.

Montgomery GI Bill (MGIB)

Description of Benefits

The MGIB may provide up to 36 months of education benefits to eligible veterans and service members for a college degree, vocational/technical training, correspondence courses, apprenticeship/on the job training, or even flight training. There is a lot more to the MGIB than just the monthly subsistence allowance—the student may also seek tutorial assistance, reimbursement for some licensing and certification tests, and more.

The MGIB may be used while the service member is on active duty or after separation from active duty. Veterans must have been honorably discharged to be qualified for this benefit. The following are considered honorable discharges:

- Convenience of the government
- Disability
- Hardship
- Disability that pre-existed service
- A medical condition that is not considered a disability but that interfered with the performance of military duties
- Reduction in force

In addition to an honorable discharge or equivalent, the veteran must have a high school diploma, GED, or 12 hours of college credit. Finally, every student must meet one of the criteria categories below:
CATEGORY I
- Entered active duty for the first time after June 30, 1985.
- Had military pay reduced by $100 a month for first 12 months.
- Continually served for three years, OR two years if that is what veteran first enlisted for, OR two years if veteran entered the Selected Reserve within a year of leaving active duty and served four years.

CATEGORY II
- Entered active duty before January 1, 1977.
- Served at least one day between 10/19/84 and 6/30/85 and stayed on active duty through 6/30/88 (or 6/30/88 entered Reserves within one year of leaving active duty and served four years).
- On 12/31/89 had entitlement left from Vietnam era GI Bill.

CATEGORY III
- Not eligible for MGIB under Category I or II.
- On active duty on 9/30/90 AND separated involuntarily after 2/2/91, OR involuntarily separated on or after 11/30/93, OR voluntarily separated under either the Voluntary Separation Incentive (VSI) or Special Separation Benefit (SSB) program.
- Before separation, had military pay reduced by $1,200.

CATEGORY IV
- On active duty on 10/9/96 AND had VEAP funds remaining on that date and elected MGIB by 10/9/97 OR entered full-time National Guard duty under Title 32 USC, between 7/1/85 and 11/28/89 AND elected MGIB during the period 10/9/96 through 7/8/97.
- Had military pay reduced by $100 a month for 12 months or made a $1,200 lump-sum contribution.

Once declared eligible for the MGIB, the veteran will generally receive a monthly subsistence allowance. The amount depends upon the type of education being received and the length and type of service. Those who served on active duty for full enlistment will receive more than a National Guard member or reservist will under the Montgomery GI Bill - Selected Reserve (MGIB-SR).

Effective October 1, 2012, the basic monthly rates for training at an institution of higher education are:

Length of Eligibility

Generally, benefits are payable for 10 years following the veteran’s release from active duty.

Application

Apply by filling out VA Form 22-1990, Application for Education Benefits. Application may be made online at http://www.gibill.va.gov/apply-for-benefits/application. This is an easily accessible site that walks the veteran or eligible dependent through the application process. New users must sign up to complete an application. Veterans may use the site to apply for compensation in addition to educational benefits.

For more information about the MGIB, contact the VA GI Bill hotline at 1-888-442-4551.

Licensing and Certification Test Reimbursement

Veterans may receive reimbursement for licensing and certification tests after March 1, 2000. The tests must be approved for the GI Bill. The VA pays only for the cost of the test.

Eligibility

To be eligible, the veteran must be eligible for the Active Duty MGIB or Dependents Educational Assistance (commonly called Chapter 35) or VEAP. This program does not include Reservists or National Guard members. However, many members of the National Guard and Reserves are or have been made eligible for the MGIB (active duty) because they have been called up for active service under Title 10 U.S.C. and meet the following requirements:

- The veteran must have no active duty prior to July 1, 1985.
• The veteran must have been called to active duty under Title 10 U.S. Code after 7/1/85 (Title 10 is the law that governs the Armed Forces whereas U.S.C. 32 governs the National Guard).

• The veteran must have served a minimum of 24 months of continuous active duty.

• The veteran must have honorable service for the period of active duty.

To apply, complete DD Form 2366 Election to Participate in the MGIB Active Duty Program and pay $1200 to Defense Finance and Accounting Service (DFAS) to enroll.

Montgomery GI Bill – Selected Reserve (MGIB-SR)

Description of Benefits

Generally, eligible veterans may receive up to 36 months of education benefits. MGIB-SR is for members of the Selected Reserve. This includes members of the active Reserves of all services or the National Guard. The program may be used for degree programs, certificate or correspondence courses, cooperative training, independent study programs, apprenticeship/on-the-job training, and vocational flight training programs just like the MGIB for those who served on active duty. It also includes remedial, refresher, and deficiency training available under certain circumstances.

Eligibility

To qualify, the guard or reserve member must meet the following requirements:

• The member must have a six-year obligation to serve in the Reserves or National Guard enlisted after June 30, 1985. If an officer, the member must have agreed to serve six years in addition to the original obligation. For some types of training, it is necessary to have a six-year commitment that begins after September 30, 1990.

• The member must complete initial active duty for training (IADT).

• The member must meet the requirement to receive a high school diploma or equivalency certificate before completing IADT. (Note: Unlike the active duty MGIB, the veteran cannot use 12 college credits as an equivalent.)

• The member must remain in good standing while serving in an active Selected Reserve unit.

  ▪ If the member’s Reserve or National Guard unit was deactivated during the period of October 1, 2007 through September 30, 2014, or, or the member was involuntarily separated (e.g., reduction in force) from Reserve or National Guard service during this same period, the veteran retains eligibility for MGIB-SR benefits for the full 14-year eligibility period.

  ▪ If the veteran was discharged for a disability, then the veteran retains eligibility.

  ▪ If the veteran was ordered to active duty, the member’s eligibility period may be extended. Be sure to check if the activation made the veteran eligible for the active duty MGIB.
Entitlements

Effective October 1, 2012, veterans who are eligible to receive benefits under MGIB-SR will receive educational assistance allowance at the following rates for training at an institution of higher education:

Reserve Educational Assistance Program (REAP)

REAP provides educational assistance to members of the Reserve Components who are called or ordered to active duty in response to a war or national emergency declared by the President or Congress. Generally, a member of a Reserve Component who serves on active duty on or after September 11, 2001, under title 10, U.S. Code, sections 12301, 12302, 12304, for at least 90 consecutive days under a contingency operation, is eligible for REAP.

Members of the National Guard are eligible if their active service extends for 90 consecutive days or more and their service is authorized under section 32 USC, Section 502(f), their service is authorized by the President or Secretary of Defense for a national emergency, and supported by federal funds.

Educational Assistance Allowance

Individuals who are eligible under REAP will receive a certain percentage of the educational assistance provided under the MGIB-AD, depending upon how much time that individual spent in active service. This adjusted educational assistance allowance is as follows:

- 2 continuous years or more; or an aggregate of 3 years or more: 80%
- 1 continuous year but less than 2 continuous years: 60%
- 90 consecutive days but less than 1 continuous year: 40%

Veterans’ Educational Assistance Program (VEAP)

VEAP is available to veterans who elected to make contributions from their military pay to participate in this education benefit program. Veteran contributions are matched on a $2 for $1 basis by the government. Generally, participation in VEAP ended with the MGIB. Benefit entitlement is 1 to 36 months depending on the number of monthly contributions. Veterans who participated in VEAP may still be eligible for benefits provided the following requirements are met:

- The veteran was discharged under conditions other than dishonorable.
- The veteran completed his or her first period of service.
- The veteran completed his or her first period of service between January 1, 1977, and June 30, 1985.
- The veteran opened a contribution account before April 1, 1987.
The veteran voluntarily contributed $25 to $2,700.

If the service member is still on active duty and has a VEAP account, there must be at least 3 months of contributions available to use the VEAP benefits, and the service member must have enlisted for the first time after September 7, 1980, and completed 24 months of his or her first period of active duty.

The service member has 10 years from release from active duty to use VEAP benefits. If there is entitlement not used after the 10-year period, the remaining money will be automatically refunded.

Application for VEAP

After finding a program approved for VA training, complete a VA Form 22-1990, Application for Education Benefits, and send it to the VA Regional Office with jurisdiction over the State where training will occur. Active duty members must have their enrollment approved by their base Education Services Officer and have their service verified by their Commanding Officer. Veterans must send a copy 4 (Member Copy) of their DD Form 214, Certificate of Release or Discharge from Active Duty. VA Form 22-1990 can be downloaded from http://www.vba.va.gov/pubs/forms/vba-22-1990-are.pdf.

Individuals who have already started training should take VA Form 22-1990, Member Copy of DD Form 214 and VA Form 22-1999 Enrollment Certification to the school or employer for completion and then send all the forms to VA.

Vocational Rehabilitation

As discussed in Chapter 7, VA vocational rehabilitation programs are governed by 38 CFR Part 21 – Vocational Rehabilitation and Education. The VA offers three main programs intended to help disabled veterans rehabilitate and train in order to prepare for, obtain, and retain employment. These programs are: the Veterans’ Employment and Training Service (VETS); the Chapter 31 vocational rehabilitation program for veterans with service-connected disabilities; and the Veterans Retraining Assistance Program (VRAP). This section focuses on the Chapter 31 program, but you should consider your eligibility for all three programs before choosing one. As with VA educational benefits, Veterans can receive payment from only one program at any given time.

Services Provided

Services provided under Chapter 31 include:

- comprehensive rehabilitation evaluation to determine abilities, skills, interests, and needs;
- vocational counseling and rehabilitation planning;

91 38 CFR Chapter 41.
92 38 CFR Chapter 31.
• employment services such as job-seeking skills, resume development, and other work readiness assistance;
• assistance finding and keeping a job, including the use of special employer incentives;
• if needed, training such as on-the-job training, apprenticeships, and non-paid work experiences;
• if needed, post-secondary training at a college, vocational, technical or business school;
• supportive rehabilitation services including case management, counseling, and referral; and
• independent living services.

Eligibility

A veteran is eligible for a Chapter 31 evaluation for services benefits if the veteran:

• has received, or will receive, a discharge that is other than dishonorable;
• has a service-connected disability rating of at least 10% with a serious employment handicap or 20% or more with an employment handicap; and
• submits a completed application for Vocational Rehabilitation services. Applications can be filled out and submitted online at http://vabenefits.vba.va.gov/vonapp/main.asp.

Duration of Eligibility

Vocational Rehabilitation services may be used 12 years from either the date of separation from active military service, or the date the veteran was first notified by the VA of a service-connected disability rating, whichever was later.

Evaluation

A veteran who is eligible for an evaluation under Chapter 31 must complete an application and meet with a Vocational Rehabilitation Counselor (VRC). If the VRC determines that an employment handicap exists as a result of a service-connected disability, the veteran is found entitled to services. The VRC and the veteran will then continue counseling to select a track of services and jointly develop a plan to address the rehabilitation and employment needs of the veteran.

Entitlement

The VRC’s entitlement evaluation includes an assessment of the veteran's interests, aptitudes, and abilities, and whether service-connected disabilities impair the veteran's ability to find and/or hold a job using the occupational skills he or she has already developed.

To be entitled to Chapter 31 benefits, the veteran must meet at least one of the following conditions:

• The veteran has a service-connected disability and at least 20% disability rating or would but for receipt of military retirement pay. Veterans with 10% disability rating may be eligible if they have a serious employment disability.
• The veteran was honorably discharged for a service-connected condition, is home awaiting orders for such a separation or is hospitalized awaiting separation for a service-connected disability.
• The veteran has a serious employment impairment as the result of a service-connected disability.

Those veterans with less than honorable discharges may be qualified if they have a service-connected disability and are approved by the VA. (See Chapter 1: Exceptions and Limitations.)

Rehabilitation Program Period

• Veterans must complete a rehabilitation program within 12 years from the date of the veteran’s discharge or release from active duty.
• This period may be extended if a medical condition prevents the individual from training or if the veteran has a serious employment disability.
• Disabled veterans may receive services until they have reached their rehabilitation goal (generally up to 48 months).
• The VA may provide counseling, job placement, and post-employment services for up to 18 additional months.

Additional Benefits

Subsistence Allowance

Veterans may receive a subsistence allowance besides their disability compensation or retirement pay while in training and for two months after completing training. The following subsistence allowance rates are paid for training in an institution of higher learning as of October 1, 2011:

Note: Subsistence allowance is paid for full time training only, in the following training programs: non-pay or nominal pay on-the-job training in a federal, state, local, or federally recognized Indian tribe agency; training in the home; vocational course in a rehabilitation facility or sheltered workshop; institutional non-farm cooperative.
Updated lists of subsistence allowance for these programs can be found on the VA Web site at: http://www.vba.va.gov/bln/vre/sa.htm.

Additional Educational Costs

The VA may pay the cost of tuition and required fees, books, supplies, and equipment. The VA may also pay for special support, such as tutorial assistance, prosthetics, lip-reading training, and sign language training.

Disabled veterans will be given vocational counseling prior to having an educational objective approved for eligibility. A veteran may receive employment assistance and self-employment assistance after completion of the educational objective.

Tip: If eligibility is established for more than one educational benefit, only one may be used. A VA counselor will discuss the available options and help to determine which benefit is best suited to the veteran’s needs. However, the veteran must make the final decision.

Tutorial Assistance

Veterans may be eligible to receive a special allowance for individual tutoring if attending a post-secondary school at one-half time or more. The veteran must have the school certify that deficiency in a subject exists and that tutoring is necessary. Also, the school must certify the tutor’s qualifications and the hours he or she tutors the veteran. Tutors cannot be the mother, father, child, or sibling of the veteran. If found eligible, the veteran will receive a maximum monthly allowance of $100. The maximum benefit is $1,200.

Work-Study Program

Veterans may be eligible for an additional allowance under a work-study program. This program allows the veteran to do work for the VA or a veteran related program in return for an hourly wage. Veterans must be enrolled in an academic institution or vocational training program at a three-quarters or full-time rate. The maximum number of hours that veterans may work is 25 hours times the number of weeks in their enrollment period. Payments will be at the federal minimum wage or the state minimum wage, whichever is greater. To apply, complete VA Form 20-8681, Applications for Work-Study Allowance. The form may be downloaded from http://www.vba.va.gov/pubs/forms/VBA-22-8691-ARE.pdf. The form may also be obtained by calling the VA at 1-800-827-1000. Complete the form and send it to the nearest VA Regional Office.
Tip: If the veteran has an overpayment because of receiving VA benefits, he or she may be able to participate in a work-study program to reduce or eliminate the overpayment.

Veterans Retraining Assistance Program (VRAP)

VRAP offers up to 12 months of training assistance to an unemployed veteran who meets the following criteria:

- He or she is between 35 and 60 years old;
- He or she is unemployed at the time of application;
- He or she has received an other than dishonorable discharge;
- He or she is not eligible for any other VA education benefit program (e.g.: the Post-9/11 GI Bill, Montgomery GI Bill, Vocational Rehabilitation and Employment Assistance);
- He or she is not in receipt of VA compensation due to unemployability
- He or she is not enrolled in a federal or state job training program

VRAP is limited to 54,000 participants from October 1, 2012, through March 31, 2014. Veterans must attend full-time in order to receive up to 12 months of assistance equal to the monthly full-time payment rate under the Montgomery GI Bill–Active Duty program ($1,564 effective October 1, 2012).

Veterans must be enrolled in a VA approved program of education offered by a community college or technical school. The program must lead to an Associate Degree, Non-College Degree, or a Certificate, and train the Veteran for a high demand occupation.

Veterans must apply for VRAP online at http://vabenefits.vba.va.gov/vonapp/main.asp

Department of Education (DOE) Federal Student Aid Grants

Grants are financial aid sources that do not have to be repaid. There are four types of federal student aid grants that are awarded to students with financial need. The amount a student receives depends on the cost of attendance, his or her Expected Family Contribution (EFC), enrollment status (full- or part-time) and enrollment period.

- Federal Pell Grant: Provides up to $5,550 to undergraduate students.
- Federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant (FSEOG): FSEOGs are awarded to undergraduate students with exceptional financial need. The annual award amount ranges from $100 to $4,000.
- Teacher Education Assistance for College and Higher Education (TEACH Grant): Provides up to $5,550 financial assistance to students who meet certain teaching obligations. For those who fail to complete the obligations, the amounts of the TEACH Grants received will be converted to a Direct Unsubsidized Loan. For more information visit www.teachgrant.ed.gov.
- Iraq and Afghanistan Service Grant: Students who are not eligible for a Pell Grant but whose parent or guardian was a member of the U.S. Armed Forces and died while serving in Iraq or Afghanistan after 9/11 may be eligible for up to $5,550 financial assistance. Students must have been under 24 years old or enrolled in college at least part-time, at the time of enrollment.

Qualifying Loans

Loans qualifying for deferment include Federal Family Education Loans (FFEL), Direct and Perkins.

Eligibility

Military service deferments are available to:

- military service members serving on active duty on active duty during a war, other military operation or national emergency;
- members of the National Guard called to active duty during a war, military operation or national emergency; and
- reserve or retired members of the Armed Forces called to active duty during a war, military operation or national emergency.

Loans qualifying for post-active duty student deferment include Federal Family Education Loans (FFEL), Direct and Perkins.

Eligibility

Post-active duty student deferments are available to members of the National Guard and reserve or retired members of the Armed Forces called to active duty at the time, or within six months prior to the time, that they were enrolled in school. Unlike the military service deferment, the borrower is not required to be activated during a war or other military operation or national emergency.

Duration

Borrowers may receive a deferment for up to 13 months following completion of active duty military service and any applicable grace period. The period expires at the earlier of a borrower’s re-enrollment in school or the end of the 13 month period.
How to Apply for Deferment

Borrowers requesting either the military service or post-active duty student deferment must complete, sign and date a Deferment Request, OMB. No. 1845-0080, which can be downloaded on the Department of Education Web site at the following:

The deferment form must be certified by the individual’s Commanding or Personnel Officer.

Six Percent Interest Rate under the Servicemembers Civil Relief Act

Under the Servicemembers Civil Relief Act (SCRA), the interest rate of student loans taken out prior to entering the military or being called to active duty will be limited to 6% during active duty military service. This applies to both federal and private student loans, as well as other loans.

No Interest Accrual for Direct Loans

For all Direct Loans first disbursed on or after Oct. 1, 2008, no interest will be charged for a period of no more than 60 months while the student is serving on active duty or performing qualifying National Guard duty during a war, other military operation, or national emergency and are serving in an area of hostilities qualifying for special pay.

For Direct Consolidation Loans, this benefit applies to the portion of the consolidation loan that repaid loans first disbursed on or after Oct. 1, 2008.

State Education Benefits

The State of Illinois supports educational assistance programs for veterans and Illinois National Guard members in the form of two grant programs: the Illinois Veteran Grant (IVG) and the Illinois National Guard Grant Program (ING). Both programs are designed to assist veterans and current National Guard members who are attending or who wish to attend state-controlled colleges, universities, and community colleges. The grants are administered by the Illinois Student Assistance Commission (ISAC). Finally, as a result of recent legislation, Illinois provides for in-State tuition rates for anyone attending an Illinois institution of higher learning and using benefits under the federal Post 9/11 law.

In-State Tuition for Post 9/11 Beneficiaries

Starting with the last point first, Public Act 98-0306, effective 8/12/13, the governing the various public universities in Illinois and the law governing the State’s community colleges was amended to provide if an individual is utilizing an award of benefits under the federal Post-9/11 Veterans Educational Assistance Act of 2008 or any subsequent variation of that Act, then the relevant Board of Trustees of the public university or the community college district shall deem that person an Illinois or in-district resident, respectively, for tuition purposes.94

Illinois Veteran Grant (IVG)

This program pays eligible tuition and mandatory fees, up to a maximum of 120 eligibility units – the equivalent of four academic years of full-time enrollment. Benefits are limited to use only at Illinois public colleges or community colleges, and may be used at the undergraduate or graduate level.

The ING in Conjunction with the IVG

Individuals who qualify for both the IVG and ING grant programs may use both grants during the same term(s) and/or academic year. Before attempting to use both programs, individuals are strongly encouraged to consult with the college's financial aid office to consider major differences between the two grants.

Eligibility under this provision is determined by the Education/Incentives Branch of the Military Personnel Office in Springfield, Illinois. Questions regarding your individual eligibility status under this provision should be directed to your chain of command, or to the Education/Incentives Branch of the Military Personnel Office at 217-761-3782. For more information, go to either the National Guard or Veteran grant site at http://www.collegeillinois.org/students/during-college/types-of-financial-aid/grants/.

Children of Veterans Scholarship

Each year, every county in Illinois is entitled to one honorary scholarship at the University of Illinois, for the benefit of children of veterans of WWI, WWII, Korean War, the Vietnam Conflict, the Southwest Asia Conflict, Operation Enduring Freedom, and Operation Iraqi Freedom. Priority consideration is given to applications received by March 1. Candidates must be a permanent resident of the Illinois County from which the applicant applies. Such children shall be entitled to receive, without charge for tuition, instruction in any or all departments of the University for a term of at least four (4) consecutive years.

Work Study Locations

The Illinois Department of Veterans' Affairs provides VA work-study opportunities at its numerous offices throughout Illinois (see Appendix C of this book for a list of IDVA field service offices). The federal VA work-study program provides part-time employment to students receiving VA education benefits who attend school three-quarter time or more. Work-study students are paid either the State or Federal minimum wage, whichever is greater. Other available opportunities may exist at the school veterans’ office, VA Medical Facilities, the VA Regional Office, and at approved veteran service organizations. For more information, visit the VA Work-Study Program page at http://gibill.va.gov/resources/education_resources/programs/work_study_program.html.
Illinois Troops to Teachers

The Illinois Troops to Teachers Program can help eligible veterans with at least 6 years of honorable active-duty service transition to K-12 public school teaching. The Illinois Troops to Teachers office, under the Illinois Department of Veterans’ Affairs provides:

- Educational and teaching career advisement;
- Information resources for earning an Illinois teacher's certification;
- Access to mentors, Illinois veterans who have successfully transitioned; and
- Preparation for and referral to employment as an Illinois public school teacher.

With the required hours of past work experience, Illinois veterans can teach their technical skills in a vocational or career center. With a bachelor's degree, veterans can qualify for referral to teach in an academic or subject matter area. For more information about eligibility, and to obtain an application, please contact Troops to Teachers at troops.teachers@illinois.gov or at 1-866-372-3157.

MIA/POW Scholarship

The MIA/POW Scholarship is an education benefit for dependents of a veteran who was an Illinois resident at the time he or she entered active duty and has been declared to be a prisoner of war, missing in action, dead as a result of a service-connected disability, or permanently disabled from service-connected causes with 100% disability as recognized by the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs or the U.S. Department of Defense.

Eligible dependents are entitled to full payment of tuition and certain fees to any Illinois public college. The MIA/POW scholarship is administered by the Illinois Department of Veterans’ Affairs. Applications can be downloaded from the IDVA website at http://www2.illinois.gov/veterans/Documents/MIA-POW-scholarship-application.pdf.

Office of Rehabilitation Services (ORS)

Disabled veterans may also qualify for services offered through the Illinois Office of Rehabilitation Services (ORS). The Illinois Department of Human Services – Office of Rehabilitation Services offers several programs for disabled citizens. Veterans often do not use these programs because of their use of the VA for rehabilitation for their service-connected disabilities; however, as citizens they may also qualify for numerous programs available from the State of Illinois. If a veteran is disabled, he or she may qualify for training and other services offered by the VA’s Vocational Rehabilitation program. In addition, however, the veteran should check his or her eligibility to use other state benefits such as those offered through the Illinois Office of Rehabilitation Services (ORS). Disabled veterans may be able to use both state and federal programs at the same time.

Summary

Educational benefits are one of the most important benefits available to veterans who have served their country honorably. Education is the door to a better life. Statistically, those who have a college education or a trade do much better financially than those who do not have an education or specialized training. The effective use of educational benefits can bring to the veteran and his or her family financial stability and wonderful career opportunities that no other benefit can provide. Use these benefits effectively for a great future.
CHAPTER TEN: HOUSING AND SMALL BUSINESS BENEFITS
HOUSING AND SMALL BUSINESS BENEFITS

Housing Loans and Resources

The VA Loan Guarantee program has helped thousands of veterans buy their first house. When veterans think of a VA Loan Guarantee, they usually think of buying a home. However, the VA Loan Guarantee program may be used for many things. Veterans may use the guarantee to buy a home, condominium, mobile home, or manufactured home. A VA Loan Guarantee may also be used to build a home; repair, alter, or improve a home; refinance a mortgage; and even install solar heating or cooling and other such projects.

Description of Benefits

The VA guarantees or insures a portion of a loan made by a participating lender to an eligible veteran for the purpose of buying a home, building a home, improving a home, or refinancing an existing mortgage. The advantage of the VA Loan Guarantee is that it increases the veteran’s “borrowing power.” Since the VA is guaranteeing part of the loan, there is less risk to the lender if the veteran fails to repay the loan.

Eligibility Requirements

As with all VA benefits, veterans must meet certain requirements to be eligible for the VA Loan Guarantee. The specific eligibility requirements depend on whether the veteran served during wartime as defined or peacetime.

A veteran who served during wartime (see insert) must not have concluded his or her service under dishonorable conditions. In other words, if the veteran left service with an “Other Than Honorable” characterization of service, further adjudication by the VA may be required to determine if the veteran’s service was, as its rules require, under other than dishonorable conditions. Veterans must have at least 90 days on active duty and must have been discharged under other than dishonorable conditions. Only those veterans who were discharged for a service-connected disability may have less than 90 days.

For a veteran who served during peacetime eras (see insert), there must have been a total of at least 181 days of continuous active duty. The veteran must have been discharged under other than dishonorable conditions.

If a veteran served during one of the following peacetime eras, there must be a total of at least 181 days of continuous active duty. The veteran must have been discharged under other than dishonorable conditions.

If the veteran has less than 181 days of service, eligibility may still be established if the discharge was for a service-connected disability.

Veterans separated after September 7, 1980 (enlisted) or October 16, 1981 (officer):

- The veteran must have completed 24 months of continuous active duty or the full period but at least 181 days for which the veteran was activated and been discharged under conditions other than dishonorable; or
- The veteran must have completed at least 181 days of active duty and been given a hardship discharge or an early out, or have been determined to have a compensable service-connected disability; or
- The veteran may also be eligible if discharged due to an involuntary reduction in force or for certain medical conditions, or in some instances, for the convenience of the government.

Gulf War

Those who served in the Gulf War (August 2, 1990, to date yet to be determined) must have:

- completed 24 months of continuous active duty, or the full period for which they were activated but at least 90 days, and been discharged under conditions other than dishonorable, or
- completed at least 90 days of active duty and been discharged under the specific authority of 10 U.S.C. §1173 (hardship) or 10 U.S.C. §1171 (early out), or have been determined to have a compensable service-connected disability, or
- have been discharged with less than 90 days of service for a service-connected disability. Veterans may also be eligible if they were released from active duty due to an involuntary reduction in force, certain medical conditions, or in some instances, for the convenience of the government.

Active Duty

Those who are now serving on regular active duty (not active duty for training) are eligible after having served 181 days (90 days during the Gulf War) unless discharged or separated from a previous qualifying period of active duty service.

Reserves or National Guard

Members of the Reserves or National Guard are eligible once they have completed six years of active Guard/Reserve service (i.e., attended drills and annual training), even if they have been discharged, provided the veteran:

- Was discharged with an honorable discharge; or
- Was placed on the retired list; or
- Was transferred to the Standby Reserve or an element of the Ready Reserve other than the Selected Reserve after service characterized as honorable service; or
- Continues to serve in the Selected Reserves.

Veterans who completed less than six years may be eligible if discharged for a service-connected disability.
Others Who May Be Eligible

Veterans who served as officers of the Public Health Service; cadets at the United States Military, Air Force, or Coast Guard Academy; midshipmen at the United States Naval Academy; officers of the National Oceanic & Atmospheric Administration; and merchant seamen may also be eligible for a loan guarantee.

Other Eligibility Requirements for VA Loan Guarantee
- Must have a good credit rating.
- Must have income adequate to support the mortgage payments; AND
- Must live in the home or on the property purchased.

Obtaining a VA Loan Guarantee

Veterans should be careful when buying a home. Unlike most other veterans’ benefits, a VA Loan Guarantee is a business contract with not only the VA but also a private lending agency. As far as today’s lender is concerned, it is strictly business. Defaults are viewed as a breach of contract and lenders are very good at processing foreclosures.

There are several “rules of thumb” about how much mortgage payments should be relative to income and expenses. Veterans should be frank with real estate agents and lending agents when buying a home; most are knowledgeable about what people can afford. Remember, once the contract is signed, it is binding, and if payments cannot be made, the loan will go into default and it is very possible that the home will go into foreclosure. If this happens, credit can be ruined for years—so be careful. Again, if you have a computer or access to one, then the VA Web site is a great place to go for help about what to do should you default on your mortgage. DO NOT WAIT FOR THINGS TO GET OUT OF HAND. If you get into trouble, act immediately before it is too late to save your credit and your home. Go to www.homeloans.va.gov/paytrbl.htm or call the VA at 1-800-827-0611 and follow the telephone prompts. There are counselors available to assist.

How to Apply

Step One – Get a “Certificate of Eligibility”

The first step in getting a VA Loan Guarantee is to get a “certificate of eligibility.” There are three fairly easy ways to obtain a certificate of eligibility.

By Mail

Veterans can complete the VA Form 26-1880 and send it to the Atlanta Eligibility Center with proof of qualifying service at:

Atlanta Regional Loan Center
ATTN: COE (262)
P.O. Box 100034
Decatur, GA 30031
Toll-free number: 1-888-768-2132
Online

To apply online, veterans must go to the eBenefits portal. The address for eBenefits is http://www.ebenefits.va.gov. Click on the “My eBenefits” tab towards the top, on the left side. It will open a screen with several benefit areas. On the bottom right of the screen is the Housing tab. Login credentials are required to request a Certificate of Eligibility (COE). To request a username and password, click on the "Request/Activate a DoD Self-Service Logon" link which is shown below the logon area.

Through the lender

Veterans are encouraged to ask their lenders about obtaining a Certificate of Eligibility through the Web LGY system. Web LGY is an Internet based application that can establish eligibility ad issue a Certificate online in minutes.

Required Documentation

Before sending the VA Form 26-1880 to the VA, be sure to include a copy of the most recent discharge or separation papers (DD 214). The separation papers must show the dates of service and type of discharge. If the veteran has previously used the VA Loan Guarantee, the separation papers may not be necessary. However, it is best to provide the discharge to ensure speedy processing. NEVER submit an original document.

Those veterans who are seeking to restore a previously used guarantee should include any evidence of payment in full of the prior loan. In most cases, the VA will receive a notification that a loan has been paid, but this doesn’t always happen.

Reserves and National Guard

If the veteran served in the Guard or Reserves, documentation must be provided that establishes a minimum of six years with points earned for weekend drills or active duty for training and/or honorable discharge. Since there is no uniform document similar to the DD 214 for proof of service in the Guard or Reserves, different forms may be accepted: National Guard members who are currently serving or who have been discharged may use NGB Form 22. Those who served in the Reserves may use a variety of forms. Forms that verify an honorable discharge or that document retirement points, etc., may be necessary. The VA will then determine eligibility. If the VA deems the veteran qualified, it will issue a certificate of eligibility.

Step Two – Find a House

Find a house. The best way to do this is to use a licensed real estate agent to find the right home. When considering a home, it is a good idea to have the home inspected by a licensed professional.
Step Three – Find a Mortgage Lender

The real estate agent can help with this step, as can the VA. Real estate agents can usually refer the veteran to a lender in the area who accepts VA Loan Guarantees.

Determining the Amount the VA Will Guarantee

Entitlement means the amount of the guarantee benefits that are available to an eligible veteran. It is important to check with the VA for the most current guarantee rates prior to looking for a home. This information is available online at the following link: http://www.benefits.va.gov/homeloans/loan_limits.asp.

A veteran who previously obtained a VA Loan Guarantee may use his or her remaining entitlement for any approved purpose. An exception to this is that veterans who use part of their entitlement to buy a mobile home must dispose of that mobile home prior to getting another VA Loan Guarantee to buy a second mobile home. Finally, veterans who do not have any entitlement left may still refinance an existing loan with a new VA Loan Guarantee at a lower interest rate, provided they are relieved of responsibility for the last loan guaranteed by the VA.

The amount of guarantee depends upon the amount of the total loan and the type of property bought, refinanced, or improved.

Closing Costs

The VA requires payment in cash on all home loan closings. Although no commission or brokerage fees may be charged for obtaining a VA loan, the veteran may pay reasonable closing costs to the lender in connection with a VA loan, including title search and recording, insurance premiums, taxes, and a one percent origination fee or other costs as required by the lender.

Funding Fees

All veterans are charged a VA Funding Fee, except those eligible to receive VA disability compensation and unmarried surviving spouses of veterans who died in service or as a result of a service-connected disability. See 38 U.S.C. §3729; 38 CFR §36.4312(e)(5). The Funding Fee is payable to the VA as a cost of administering the VA Home Loan Guaranty Program. The Funding Fee may be paid from loan proceeds or from the veteran’s assets. The amount of the VA Funding Fee varies according to loan type.

What to Watch for With a VA Loan Guarantee

Release from Liability

Veterans should get a release from liability from the VA after selling a VA Loan Guaranteed home. Personal liability on the part of the veteran continues unless the related loan is paid in full or the veteran receives release from personal liability from the lender. Veterans should insist that the contract for sale include a provision that the sale is contingent upon both parties—the veteran and the purchaser—filing the appropriate VA forms to release the selling veteran from liability, and that the sale is contingent upon the VA approving such release.

Foreclosure

As was mentioned earlier, if you are late on your mortgage payments, you may very well lose your home. If you are having difficulty making your payments, you should speak with your mortgage servicer as soon as possible to seek out alternatives to foreclosure, such as the following:

- Repayment plan: The borrower makes regular installment payments each month plus part of the missed installments;
- Forbearance: Mortgage companies are supposed to extend all reasonable forbearance including consideration of temporary suspension of payments and extension of the loan (in actual practice, such leniency is rare).
- Loan Modification: The servicer adds the delinquency to the loan balance and establishes a new payment plan;
- Additional time to arrange a private sale: The servicer agrees to delay foreclosure to allow a sale to close if the loan will be paid off;
- Short Sale: The servicer agrees to allow a borrower to sell his or her home for a lesser amount that what is currently owed on the home;

Chapter Ten 135
• Dee-in-Lieu of Foreclosure- The borrower voluntarily agrees to deed the property to the servicer instead of going through a lengthy foreclosure process.

Refinancing Options

Interest Rate Reduction Refinancing Loan (IRRRL)

IRRRL is also known as “streamline” or a “VA to VA” refinancing. An IRRRL can be done only when the veteran already has his or her entitlement used for a VA loan on the property to be refinanced. In other words, it must be a VA to VA refinance. No appraisal or certificate of eligibility is required by the VA. Any lender can make veterans an IRRRL, but they are not required to make veterans an IRRRL. Veterans should contact several lenders to compare their offered terms.

Cash-Out Refinance

Veterans who want to refinance and receive cash back should consider the cash-out refinance loan. A cash-out refinancing loan is a VA guaranteed loan which refinances any type of lien or liens against the secured property. The liens to be paid off may be current or delinquent, and from any source, i.e. tax or judgment liens, VA, FHA, or conventional mortgages. An appraisal is required and veterans must qualify based on income and credit. Cash-out refinance loans can be for up to 100% of the appraised value of the home.

VA Refinancing of a non-VA Guaranteed Home Loan

Veterans with non-VA guaranteed home loans may refinance their subprime or conventional mortgage to a VA-guaranteed home loan for up to 100 percent of the value of the property. Veterans should contact the St. Paul VA Regional Loan Center at 1-800-827-0611 for more information about the IRRRL and cash-out loan.

HOPE NOW

If the VA is unable to help a veteran retain his or her home, HOPE NOW may be able to assist. HOPE NOW is a joint alliance consisting of servicers, counselors, and investors that provides outreach, counseling and assistance to homeowners who are willing and able to keep their homes but are facing financial difficulty as a result of the recent mortgage crisis. The HOPE NOW Alliance can be reached at 1-888-995-HOPE (4673).

Illinois Housing Assistance

Welcome Home Heroes Financing Package
The Illinois Housing Development Authority’s (IHDA) Illinois Welcome Home Heroes provides financial assistance for men and women who have served honorably in the Armed Forces. The financing package includes the following:

• $10,000 forgivable loan for over 2 years for down payment and closing cost assistance.
• 30-year fixed rate mortgage with a competitive interest rate
• Federal tax credit that reduces the federal income tax liability by up to $18,000 over the life of the loan

Eligibility
• Veterans need not be first-time homebuyers to qualify for the program.
• Active military personnel, including reservists and National Guard Members, must be first-time homebuyers

Requirements
To participate in the Welcome Home Heroes program, buyers must:
• contribute at least $1,000 of their own money or one percent of the purchase price, whichever is greater;
• purchase a one- or two-bedroom property within Illinois; and
• live in the property as the buyer’s primary residence.

Assistance is Subject to Income and Purchase Price Limits
Buyers must qualify based on income and purchase price limits. For example, household income for a family of 2 in Cook, DuPage, Kane, Lake, McHenry, and Will Counties cannot exceed $89,760 for a home with a maximum purchase price of $373,670. More information about income and purchase price limits can be found on IDHA’s website at http://www.ihda.org/homeowner/documents/LIMITS2012_effective07-01-2012.pdf.

How to Apply
Homebuyers must apply for and receive mortgage loans through IDHA’s network of participating lenders, which can be found on the IDHA website at http://www.ihda.org/homeowner/findLender.aspx. For more information, contact IDHA at 1-312-836-5200

Business Loans and Resources

Many veterans have dreamed of owning a small business. But for many, the dream ended because they just didn’t know where to start or couldn’t get the loan needed to start the business. Other veterans have actually started a small business but because of an obligation to the National Guard or Reserve lost it when they were called to active duty. Some veterans have suffered losses because, as small business owners, they have had key employees leave for active duty. Veterans in these situations may have many questions, such as: Where can I go to get some help? Are there programs for small business owners who have lost a key employee to active duty? I’m being called up—what can I do?

The answer to all of these questions may be found at the Small Business Administration (SBA). The SBA can help in every aspect of starting a business. The SBA offers information, management, counseling, and training services. Check the SBA Web site, www.sba.gov/, for further information. Or, you can write or call the SBA at:

Additionally, there are many sites online that will prove very helpful to anyone who wishes to start a small business or who has a small business and wants to expand it.

The Veterans Entrepreneurship and Small Business Development Act of 1999

This act created several advantages for veterans who wish to start or expand a business. Generally, there are two categories of veterans: (1) service-disabled, i.e., service-connected veterans (there is no set degree of disability for this provision); and (2) veterans. Both categories require that the business be at least 51% owned by a veteran and that the daily business operations be controlled by one or more veterans — or in the case of a severely disabled veteran — the veteran’s spouse or caregiver.

The act also established the Office of Veterans Business Development (OVBD). This office is responsible for the formulation, execution, and promotion of policies and programs of the SBA that provide assistance to small businesses owned and controlled by veterans and service-disabled veterans (veteran small businesses).

It also established the National Veterans Business Development Corporation. The purpose of the corporation is to improve access to technical assistance regarding entrepreneurship for veterans and to work with and organize public and private resources and to assist veterans and service-connected veterans with the starting and or expanding of small businesses. They do this in part by using the expertise of the Senior Corps of Retired Executives (SCORE) to provide advice and counsel to those veterans who wish to start or expand a business. This assistance may be in the form of counseling, referrals, or loans.

Lending Programs

The SBA offers several loan programs:

- 7(a) Loan Guaranty Program – Provides guaranteed loans to qualified small businesses that are unable to secure financing through regular lending agencies. The program operates like the VA Home Loan Guarantee Program. The SBA guarantees a business loan and a private agency makes the loan. As with the Home Loan Guarantee, many lenders are aware of the SBA’s guarantee program. Those interested in this program should contact a lender for information and assistance in the loan application process.

Patriot Express Loan – The Patriot Express Loan provides financial assistance for veterans and members of the military community who want to establish or expand small businesses. Patriot Express loans feature the SBA’s lowest interest rates for business loans, generally 2.25 percent to 4.75 percent over prime depending upon the size and maturity of the loan. Eligible participants include:

- Veterans
- Service-disabled veterans
- Active-duty service members eligible for the military’s Transition Assistance Program
- Reservists and National Guard members
- Current spouses of any of the above
- The widowed spouse of a service member or veteran who died during service or of a service-connected disability

Certified Development Company (504) Loan Program – A Certified Development Company (CDC) is a nonprofit corporation whose purpose is to contribute to the economic development of its community. CDCs, the SBA, and private-sector lenders provide financing to small businesses. This program provides long-term loans to qualified businesses for the purchase or renovation of fixed assets.

Pre-Qualification Pilot Loan Program – The Pre-Qualification Pilot Loan Program uses agents to assist borrowers in developing loan packages and in securing loans. This program works like the VA Loan Guarantee in that the lender or other agent assists the business with the preparation of the loan application. Once the application is complete, it is submitted to the SBA for approval. If approved, the SBA issues a letter stating their intent to guarantee the loan. The lender then makes the loan.

SBA Export Express – The SBA Export Express combines the SBA’s small business lending assistance with its technical assistance programs to help small businesses that have traditionally had difficulty in obtaining adequate export financing. Export Express is available to any business that has been in operation for at least 12 months and can show that the loan proceeds will support its export development activity.

Microloan Program – The Microloan Program provides small loans to start-up, newly established, or small businesses. The SBA makes funds available to nonprofit community-based lenders. These nonprofit lenders act as intermediaries who actually make the loans up to a maximum of $35,000. The average loan is $13,000. Applications are submitted to the local intermediary and all credit decisions are made by the intermediary. Intermediary groups that cover Illinois:
Summary

The VA Loan Guarantee Program is one of the most valuable benefits available to veterans. Basically, the Loan Guarantee enables a veteran to buy a home without the substantial down payment. Veterans who decide to sell their home should remember to get a release of liability upon the sale of the home. If it appears that there will be a change in income that may make it difficult to pay the mortgage, veterans should consider selling the home. If a default on the mortgage occurs, get help and counseling from the VA, the lending institution, or a lawyer. The sooner the veteran takes action, the better the chances of saving the home.

The benefits provided through the SBA offer veterans a variety of special programs that are geared to assist veterans in either starting or growing a small business. The SBA offers a number of loan programs and a wide range of assistance to those interested in starting their own small business.

Locations in Illinois

Overview

The Veterans Health Administration (VHA) divides its healthcare system into 23 Veterans Integrated Service Networks (VISNs). These individual networks do not necessarily cover the entire territory of a given state. In fact, in the case of Illinois, the State is divided up by four VISNs, 12, 11, 15, and 23, starting north, going clockwise around the points of the compass.

APPENDIX B: Veterans Service Organizations in Illinois

Overview: When applying for benefits and services, veterans will often get better results if they receive assistance from a person knowledgeable about VA and state benefits. One of the best sources of assistance are Veterans Service Organizations (VSOs) such as the American Legion or the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Most VSOs have a service officer available at the VA Regional Office as well as VA Medical Centers.
