

U.S. Army Wounded Warrior Program (AW2)

What is AW2?

The U.S. Army Wounded Warrior Program (AW2), a major component of the Army's Warrior Care and Transition Program \(WCTP\), was established in 2004. AW2 supports severely wounded, ill and injured Soldiers, Veterans, their Families and Caregivers with the recovery and reintegration process to reach a state of self-sufficiency.

Since 2004, AW2 has impacted more than 24,000 Soldiers and Veterans, alongside their Families and Caregivers, through the personalized support of more than 200 Advocates and a team of transition professionals. AW2 helps them navigate processes and procedures that open doors to services, resources and benefits and facilitates continuity of care as Veterans enter the VA system. These resources build and strengthen abilities to adapt to daily life and empower AW2 Soldiers and Veterans to regain their independence.

How does AW2 help execute the WCTP?

Building on their breadth of experience in supporting the most severely wounded, ill and injured, AW2 transition professionals help write policies and guidance affecting all wounded, ill and injured Soldiers, including those recovering at Warrior Transition Units \(WTUs\). AW2's expertise has impacted almost every aspect of the recovering Soldier's experience, including the Comprehensive Transition Plan \(CTP\), career and education readiness, adaptive reconditioning and community support resources.

What is an AW2 Advocate?

Each AW2 Soldier and Veteran is paired with an AW2 Advocate who guides the Soldier throughout the recovery and transition process and educates the Soldier on the benefits and resources available. Together they collaborate to set goals for the Soldier's and Family's future to meet the personal needs and abilities of the individual AW2 Soldier or Veteran.
