Biographical Note

Charles C. Moskos was born on May 20, 1934 in Chicago of Greek immigrants. Moskos attended Princeton University, where he graduated cum laude in Sociology in 1956, and he was drafted into the U.S. Army right after his graduation.

Moskos served with the Army's combat engineers in Germany during two years. After leaving the military, he enrolled at UCLA, where he earned his master's and doctoral degrees in 1960 and 1963 respectively. He became assistant professor of Sociology at University of Michigan from 1964 until 1966, when he began to work at Northwestern University as an associate professor. Since 1970 he was Sociology professor, and from 2003 he continued teaching at Northwestern but as professor emeritus.

Always involved with the army, Moskos visited different conflicts where the US was involved, and also in UN missions from Vietnam to Iraq. Author of numerous articles and books on military sociology, national youth service, and Greek American studies, Moskos also recommended the "don't ask, don't tell" policy to manage homosexuality in the military, which was passed into law by the Clinton administration in the early 1990s. Moskos's research also favored the restoration of a national draft, especially right after the 9/11 attacks.

Charles Moskos died May 31, 2008 in Santa Monica, California.

Scope and Content of the Collection

The collection consists largely of Moskos research clippings, papers by fellow scholars, and materials from conferences, commissions and committees. The date-range of the bulk of materials is 2000-2008. Major topics include social aspects of the United States military, especially gender and sexuality, race, religion, military life and culture, statistics and demographic surveys of the US military during the Cold War, and peacekeeping operations in Haiti, Somalia and the former Yugoslavia. Also includes items about the culture of troops deployed to Iraq during the War on Terrorism.

The collection is divided in two series. Within each series, subject folders contained items chronologically arranged into 6 boxes.
